Town Council OKs Residential Outdoor Watering Ban

PENNY WILLIAMS
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Londonderry Town Councilors approved an ordinance restricting outside water use on Monday night.

The first reading of the ordinance took place at a Special Town Council meeting Sept. 20, with a public hearing following Sept. 27 (see story page 3). At that meeting residents and councilors discussed the ordinance that was developed after Town Manager Kevin Smith was advised by the New Hampshire Department of Environmental Services (DES) that the agency was requesting municipalities use their statutory authority under RSA 41:11-d to enact a ban for residents using either public or private wells.

Smith said DES explained that they see no relief from the drought conditions in the foreseeable future and that the concern is that wells might run dry in the winter, causing even

Potential Exit 4A Routes Again Under State Review

MATT RITTENHOUSE
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Department of Transportation (DOT) has begun a process of reaching out to residents of Derry and Londonderry for input as they re-look at the creation of Exit 4A off Interstate 93.

The exit would be located in Londonderry but would focus on re-routing commuters through Derry.

A public forum held Tuesday, Sept. 27 at the Derry Municipal Building is the result of the signing of the 10-Year Transportation Plan by Gov. Maggie Hassan in June. Part of this plan includes the long discussed Exit 4A, which will allow commuters to bypass Derry's Central Business District, a popular cut-through for residents of Derry and surrounding towns.

But this goal would see major changes in Derry, and of high concern for some last week was the likely taking of property by eminent domain to make the bypass work.

But just how Exit 4A will route drivers isn't set in stone, explained Keith Cota, chief project manager of DOT, and moving forward in the process, the state is looking to get as much information from residents as possible as they weigh the pros and cons of several solutions.

According to the DOT, the most likely project scenario consists of a new diamond interchange on I-93 in Londonderry, approximately one mile north of Exit 4. The interchange would provide access to the east side of I-93. A 1-mile connector roadway would be built on new alignment from the interchange to Folsom Road, near the intersection of North High Street

School District Explains Watering Policies in Wake of Drought

KATHLEEN D. BAILEY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

In light of a long-term extreme drought and the state's request to conserve water, the Londonderry School Board and Administration are taking a proactive approach.

The board discussed water issues at its Sept. 27 meeting. Facilities Director Chuck Zappala and Business Manager Peter Curro updated the board and television audience on how the district is working to conserve this precious resource.

Board member Steve Young initiated the discussion, noting that "We've only had half the normal precipitation this year. It's folly to assume that one rainstorm and the drought is solved."

Curro said the district has two irrigation ponds, one that's been in place for a number of years and one that was created five or six years ago. The ponds collect 75 percent of all the runoff on the main campus, he said. It was designed by the late Robert Lincoln, who also laid out the design for the fields, and is the main source of irrigation for the playing fields, according to Curro.

In the second week of August, Curro said, a decision was made not to water the practice fields. That left three-quarters of the fields unwatered, he said. In addition, they determined to "cut back" on the watering of the game fields.

The athletic department and the music department, which oversees the marching band, agreed to cut back on their use of the practice fields.

"We conserved before they had an ordinance," Curro said, referring to the water-ban ordinance being discussed by the Town Council (see related stories page 1 and 3).

With the sun dipping lower every day and the presence of dew on the grass, that should mitigate the need for water,

Police, School Officials Say Three Bomb Threats at LHS 'Not Credible'

PENNY WILLIAMS
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Londonderry High School has had three bomb threats this school year – Sept. 7, Sept. 28 and Sept. 29. Police and school officials say all three are “not credible.”

The Londonderry Police Department and Londonderry School District administration have worked cooperatively to assess and deal with the bomb threats and as with the first incident, the two ones from last week have been deemed not a credible threat.

According to the Londonderry Police log, the department received a bomb threat call just before 5 p.m. Sept. 7 from the high school, as previously reported in the Londonderry Times. The incident was described as “a bomb scare action” at the high school.

Officers were immediately dispatched to the school and conducted an investigation. Police Detective Chris Olson said at the time the threat was based on words written on one of the urinals in the boys’ bathroom. Olson said the note written on the urinal stated, “im gonna bomb LHS.”

The discovery came after school hours and no device was found. As the incident was deemed not to be a credible threat, school was held as usual the following day.

Nothing more came to light on that first bomb threat, despite an ongoing investigation, and there were no more incidents until Wednesday, Sept. 28, when a second bomb threat was found written in the same bathroom. Londonderry Police and School District administration immediately responded and started an investigation, and again the threat was deemed not to be credible.

LHS Principal Jason Parent sent a letter home to parents that day that said the joint school administration and police investigation indicated the threat lacked credibility but noted that every threat is taken seriously and student safety is the top priority. He said the investigation would continue and precautions would be taken, “but at this time we do not feel that anyone is in danger.”

That second threat was found by a student, who reported it to an assistant principal.

The third incident was discovered just as school was being dismissed Thursday, Sept. 29, and the police response was immediate. The Londonderry Police and School District administration personnel again investigated and again found there was no credible threat.

Police Chief William Hart said the “no credible threat” determination was based on the evidence found. All three threats were written in the same bathroom, all three threats are almost identical and all three threats used similar language and names.

While the bomb threats were enough to alarm parents, some were also concerned at the way the information was relayed to them.

The principal sent out another letter to parents late on the afternoon of Sept. 29, after the third incident was found and investigated. His letter informed parents that “additional police presence” would be in place at the high school Friday, Sept. 30 and Monday, Oct. 3. The letter states students would be signing in and out of classrooms whenever they use the bathroom, and some of the boys’ bathrooms will be shut to limit accessibility.

The letter also asks parents to talk with their children about the seriousness of the written threats against the school, and emphasizes anyone providing information to assist the investigation will be kept anonymous. Parent added, “false public alarm is a felony, and any threats, including false threats, made against our school will result in significant disciplinary action, up to and including expulsion.

“We are taking these extra precautions to ensure a secure climate and to maintain the safety and well-being of all of our students, faculty, and staff,” he said. He noted that Londonderry Police and the school administration “feel it is safe for students and staff to attend school.”

School District Superintendent Nate Greenberg said after the second incident, referring to the letter that went home to parents, that the high school principal had distributed a blast of 2,000 letters and his office had distributed a blast of 4,806 letter shortly after.

The Londonderry Moms Facebook page aired complaints that the notification of the bomb threat on Sept. 28 was not received in a timely fashion, but Greenberg said he had heard of only four complaints and had determined, after consulting with the district information technology (IT) staff, that any delays were the fault of the receivers’ servers or their computer settings.

However, he admitted after the Sept. 29 letter blast was sent out that significant delays occurred. Greenberg said he had immediately contacted IT again and adjustments have been made to the school district servers, changes that are expected to prevent a similar delay in distribution in the future.

He added that the information was put on the scroll on Cable Channel 21, referring parents to the letter on the Londonderry High School Web site at lhs.londonderry.org. He also said he understood parent concern over not receiving the release in a timely fashion and that the delay was unacceptable, noting measures to correct the issue were tested on Sept. 30.

Hart and Greenberg both said the investigation was ongoing and that video camera footage of the bathroom where the threats were written is being reviewed going back to the first threat. Hart said the investigation continues.

Residents Speak Out Against Proposed Watering Ban

KATHLEEN D. BAILEY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Councilors at a special Town Council meeting last week postponed a decision on a town watering ban after a public hearing with community members, then took action on the ban at their regular Monday night meeting, Oct. 3 (see story page 1).

The Council held the special meeting and public hearing Tuesday, Sept. 27 to discuss a water ban after Town Manager Kevin Smith was advised by the New Hampshire Department of Environmental Services (DES) that the agency was requesting municipalities use their statutory authority under RSA 41:11-d to enact a ban for both public and private wells.

As of Sept. 1, the DES has classified Londonderry as being under "severe" or "extreme" drought conditions, Smith wrote in a memo.

The proposed restriction would apply to use of water from public or private wells for residential outdoor lawn watering.

The memo stated that enforcement would be by the Londonderry Police Department and that anyone not in compliance would first receive a warning, then a fine of $250, and then a fine of $500.

Smith told the Council that the ban would apply only to residential properties. Under state statute, the town does not have the authority to impose a ban on commercial or municipal properties, he said. However, there is language in the resolution that asks businesses to voluntarily comply with the ban.

Smith also told the Council that the state cannot make Londonderry effect a ban. But he said, in a conference call two weeks before, that Gov. Maggie Hassan had "strongly urged" the ban.

Chairman John Farrell observed that 80 percent of Londonderry homes are on town wells.

John Trottier, assistant director of public works, described the water retention process. An aquifer, he said, is similar to a large underground storage tank for water. The water is distinguished between shallow water, which flows above the bedrock, and deep water, which flows through cracks in the bedrock. The water may be recharged through fissures in the rock, he said. But the water could come from as far as a mile away, he added.

The only way to recharge the system is through rainfall, Trottier said, and that is currently 50 percent below normal for this time of year.

Farrell observed that for a well to fail, it could be as much as $8,000 to $10,000 for the homeowner to have it re-drilled.

Tweaking the ordinance

Councilor Tom Dolan suggested adding language stating that the suspension may be lifted by the Town Manager and Council "when conditions so warrant."

He also suggested an "escape hatch" added to the section on penalties.

He and the other Councilors have fielded multiple e-mails and phone calls from residents concerned about their unique situations, he said.

"People will come back to us and say, 'What about Condition X, Y or Z?'" he told the other Councilors. "They could be things we're not even thinking about right now."

The added language would give Smith some discretion to grant exemptions for up to a week, depending on the circumstances, Dolan said.

Protecting their investments

Conservation Commission Chair Marge Badois stopped by before her own meeting Sept. 27, and proposed adding another condition. "I think we should also restrict the commercial extraction of water, such as companies getting pool water and the Department of Transportation using it for dust control," Badois told the Council. "We depend on our source of water."

In addition to the obvious conservation issues, she said, the Londonderry Fire Department needs to access water in case of an emergency.

Smith said Town Attorney Michael Ramsdell is looking into the legalities of commercial restrictions.

Eric Spinner, a local landscaper, said he has had a number of clients call him looking for direction. "The one thing I request," he said, "is consideration for people who have recently installed a lot of landscaping. A new lawn needs hydroseeding." Realistically, he said, there are only a couple of weeks of growth left.

Resident Joanne Fatur is one of Spinner's clients, and recently redid her lawn. "We made a considerable investment," she said. "Could there be a compromise, such as watering on odd-even days?"

Farrell said the police would have discretion to work with homeowners and their unique situations. But as the legislative body, he said, "Our job is to enact the ordinance."

"We are in the same boat," homeowner Jeff O'Connor said. He recently put in landscaping. "I don't know why it has to be 'all or nothing,'" he told the Council.

"The state has rung the bell on this one," Farrell responded. While "there will be a conversation" on individual circumstances, he's concerned about the people already calling the Fire Department and saying, "My well is dry."

Fatur's husband, Tom, said his home is on town water, not a private well, and asked, "Why should we be affected?"

"We are passing an ordinance," Farrell said. "The state allows us to ban or not ban."

"How much water does this save?" Fatur pressed.

Trottier said he didn't know, but that "If the DES is reaching out to municipalities," it must be extensive.

The Fatur's are on the Pennichuck water system out of Nashua, and Trottier pointed out that Pennichuck gets its water from Manchester Water Works, which has just enacted a restriction.

Resident Rick Russman said the town should have a 10-year plan for dealing with water issues. "This is our most important resource, other than air," he said.

He expressed concern as to how the Woodmont Commons development would affect town water supplies. "They are going to suck it out of the ground," he said. "The more water you suck out of the ground, the more it affects wells."

Dolan pointed out that Woodmont would be using a municipal water system and not a well.

Farrell said, "We are working a study of natural resources into the budget."

And Dolan said the town did take aggressive action to protect its water 13 to 15 years ago. "We did an environmental study," he said, and the town enacted policies to protect its surface water, which recharges the groundwater.

"Londonderry was a leader in the state in protecting water," he reminded the Council and audience.

No jurisdiction over schools

Resident and Conservation member Mike

Byerly asked about the Londonderry School District. If water is in short supply, he said, "How can we get the schools to stop watering their playing fields?"

Farrell said that municipalities can "violate" their own ordinances. "If we want a bigger sign than allowed at the Fire Department, we can put one there," he said. But the School District is a separate form of government, he said, and "we can't force them to do anything."

The town can send letters to businesses asking them to voluntarily comply, but it has no authority over the schools, Farrell reiterated.

Byerly said, "It sticks in my craw to drive by the high school, and to see the giant sprinklers going."

The School Board discussed the water crisis in its own meeting, occurring at the same time (see related story page 1).

The grass is greener, but only for two weeks

Councilor Jim Butler asked Spinner how much water he would need for the rest of the growing season, and observed that there were only about two weeks left. "It is almost Oct. 1," Butler said.

"We should have had

Get on the Team

While the State of New Hampshire is strongly advising towns to consider water conservation directives, most local communities are relying instead on mere suggestions for reduced water use.

That may be a heavy dose of wishful thinking, even with the recent rain, unless Hurricane Matthew decides to pause over us, but even those suggestions are being questioned by some residents and officials.

We know that a new lawn needs water – why a new lawn was put in during a drought, which has been going on for a while, is a whole other question – or it could be lost. But a dry well is a bigger, and more significant, loss.

Meanwhile, residents and businesses and public buildings with automatic watering systems should be switching over to manual, especially at this time of year. A drive around town during a rainstorm is more often than not likely to include addresses where people are watering in the rain.

And it's not hard to tell who is paying attention and who is putting the burden on the other guy – just look at their lawns.

Regardless of your views on global warming, we're in what is defined officially as a "severe drought." That should be warning enough. No one wants their well to run dry, no one wants to have to rely on the National Guard for drinking water or the neighboring school for showers.

But it requires everyone to take responsibility for doing their part in conserving water. It's not some vague environmental initiative or a dictate of what people like to call the "nanny state" – it's happening right here at home. Drive around and notice how low the rivers are. Check out the ponds – or the places where ponds once stood. Listen to the farmers talk about reduced crops or smaller size fruits and vegetables.

We may not want to, but we need to start considering ourselves as part of a broader community, one in which water exists in a finite amount, and the lack of consistent rain means our water source is not what it once was.

The State is telling us drought conditions may continue until spring's snow melt, and that will depend on how much snow we get this winter. Meanwhile, groundwater and streamflow levels are at historic lows.

This area is known for its sports enthusiasts, so let's resolve to be team players. Cut down on non-essential water use by turning off faucets while brushing teeth or washing dishes, washing full loads of clothes and full loads of dishes, and fixing leaks and running toilets. And stop watering your lawn.

Water Conservation

To the editor:

Recently the town manager announced a town watering ban on lawn watering. Given the fact of the drought, I fully support this action as being reasonable and necessary.

Per the EPA website, the average American family of four uses 400 gallons of water per day. On average, approximately 70 percent of that water is used indoors, with the bathroom being the largest consumer (a toilet alone can use 27 percent).

In the Sept. 29 issue of the Londonderry Times, it was reported that the Woodmont development would have 260 residential units, 138 hotel rooms, 250 assisted living units and a mix of retail, restaurants and offices. I have calculated an average water usage of 48,988,000 gallons annually. Toss in another 150 residential permits accounting for 21,600,000 annual gallons and the amount of new water use will be at least 70,588,000 gallons yearly. That is more than a slow drip!

Meanwhile, I am grateful that our council members raised issues about stone walls, duck ponds and rooflines at the Woodmont meeting. However, not to question the impact on water supplies given the new normal of drought conditions is borderline negligent oversight. Everyone seems to support the idea that we must change our way of living due to "climate change" until it requires some difficult decisions regarding growth.

I know that unless we increase the number of residents the school board will not be able to justify new schools or a $10,000,000 auditorium, the police and fire unions will not be able to add more employees and the town will not be able to hide the staggering employee pension liability with projections of growing tax revenues. So controlling growth consistent with available natural resources does not seem to be in the cards.

I fear that we will soon be expanding the watering ban to toilet usage and showering in the name of "conservation," all the while watching all the new construction activity.

Have Halloween on Halloween

To the editor:

My family is very disappointed in the announcement that Halloween Trick or Treating will not be on Halloween, but two days early! And repeating the time of last year of 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. rather than the traditional 5 p.m. to 8 p.m.

We were always very proud of Londonderry over the years as they stuck to Halloween, when Manchester and others were celebrating on any day but the real holiday. And the 5 to 8 slot was good, since it allowed the lights, Jack O'Lanterns and other decorations meant to be experienced in the dark to be meaningful.

Please, Town of Londonderry, move Trick or Treating back to where it belongs - on Halloween evening.

TIF Working for Whom?

To the editor:

The article in the Sept. 29 issue of the Londonderry Times regarding the TIF district at Pettengill Road was very telling, and I am surprised more people are not concerned with our taxes being given to wealthy landowners and developers. And this is what was planned by our elected officials?

In the second paragraph, the article states "A Tax Incremental Financing (TIF) District diverts tax income from town, school, and county use..." Well, our town, school, and county costs have not decreased, so that extra burden is put on the residential taxpayer while the wealthy land owners and developers get free roads, boosting their profits.

But the real kicker is when the article says "Smith states the first phase of the TIF district has generated close to $1 million in income. The first phase includes business such as Pratt Whitney, Fed Ex, and UPS all located in the development fertile land around Manchester Airport.

If Pettengill is development fertile land, why do we need to be paying the developers for the roads they are building? Why is this being called the first phase? Are we really going to allow all of this new tax revenue to continue to be "Diverted from town, school, and county use" while our tax bills remain inflated, and the landowners and developers make extra millions?

Praise for Veterans Hospital

To the editor:

I wish to commend the excellent service and medical care I received at the New Hampshire Veterans Service Hospital in Manchester, NH.

Let it be known that there were no extended, long waiting lines or cancelled appointments. The reality is and was that from the first appointment, I was treated with the utmost professional politeness. I was able to find the proper building and offices from the directions I was given. The appointments were met within plus or minus 10 minutes after being seated in the proper waiting rooms. The arrangements for follow-up appointments were made in less than two minutes by the proper appointment desk staff. All information as to cost, prescriptions, and medical reports, as well as door-to-door travel service, was presented in detail.

Leave Londonderry in Good Hands

To the editor:

For many years I have had the privilege of serving the people of Londonderry in Concord at the New Hampshire State House as a State Representative. I am grateful and thankful to have been elected to serve, as it has been an honor to make a difference for our state.

Over the years I got to see firsthand many of my fellow Republicans working hard. Londonderry Republicans fought to have no sales or income tax implemented and they helped to reduce the budget and business taxes. They also stood for stronger education and local control, which is beneficial for the future of our children's education.

I am proud of all the accomplishments that have been made, but after much thought I decided not to run again for re-election. What I have decided to do is to support the Republican ticket Nov. 8, 2016.

I am confident the Republicans that are running will serve the community well and I hope that you will join me to support them so that we can leave Londonderry in good hands.

Vote Libertarian

To the editor:

The demographics in this country favor electing a Democrat to office, and Trump's blunders only solidify the eventuality of electing Clinton.

Clinton is untrustworthy. She is a fiscal liberal who could stack the Supreme Court with her political ideology.

Trump is disorganized and temperamental, and he is unqualified to be President.

If the Libertarian ticket can pull enough electoral votes from Clinton and Trump to prevent either one from getting 270 electoral votes, the U.S. House of Representatives, which is controlled by the Republicans, will elect the next President.

Vote for the Libertarian ticket of Johnson/ Weld. They are fiscal conservatives who are experienced government executives and are highly qualified to run this country.

Time for Al to Go

A couple of months ago, Londonderry State Rep. Al Baldasaro elicited a visit from the Secret Service after making grossly intemperate and threatening remarks directed at the Democratic presidential nominee. His public comments came on July 19 during one of his many trips through the dark recesses of the far-right (Alt-Right) talk radio circuit, in which Baldasaro stated that Hillary Clinton should be shot for treasonous acts.

His comments immediately drew national condemnation from political leaders on both sides of the aisle, retired and active military leaders, and, notably, the Trump campaign. But, his disgusting public commentary didn't end there.

Shortly after the Democratic National Convention, Al, in his unmitigated support for Donald Trump, weighed in on Trump's verbal and Twitter assault on the Kahn family. Not only did Al lend support for Trump's roundly condemned and disgusting comments about Khizr Kahn and his wife, he went much further, re-tweeting a conspiracy theory that was circulated by Trump's chief of conspiracy theories, Roger Stone, that Khizr Kahn, and his heroic American fallen soldier son, were agents working on behalf of ISIS and that Captain Kahn was killed before his "Islamist" task could be completed.

It's a complete lie, compounding what was already an unforgivable attack on Gold Star parents and their fallen soldier son. The Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW), along with veterans and servicemen nationwide, disavowed Trump for his unconscionable attack on the Kahn family. Republican leaders, both locally and nationally were, rightly, outraged by Trump's comments.

Al Baldasaro's disgusting extension of those attacks, and his inability to discern reality from internet fantasy, are indicative of a sickness that has been festering within Republican ranks for a decade. Al is the personification of that growing illness, and Trump is the host that allows the illness to breed.

Rather than taking responsibility for his actions, and the embarrassment that those actions brought to Londonderry, Al, in Trump-like fashion, went on a Benghazi rant, doubling-down on the crazy-talk and slamming Republicans Kelly Ayotte, Shawn Jasper, and Jennifer Horn for condemning his comments. Sound familiar?

We've seen this act from Al on many occasions during his five terms. The difference now is that he has taken his crazy uncle routine on the road as Trump's unofficial advisor on Veterans' Affairs, thereby exposing Londonderry as a town willing to accept such a low behavioral bar in its elected officials.

Londonderry voters, you have an opportunity, and an obligation, to elect representatives to Concord that can demonstrate a basic amount of thoughtfulness and decency in their public conduct. Al, fueled by his reality star host, unabashedly, defies those basic standards on a daily basis. Voters need to stop providing cover to this guy and enabling his disgraceful behavior.

On Nov. 8, I ask that you find another option, Republican or Democratic, to represent our town in a manner to which we can all be proud.

Woodmont Conditional Use Permit Gets Conservation OK

PENNY WILLIAMS
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Jeffrey Kevan, principal with TF Moran, Inc., presented updated maps and reviewed the Conditional Use Permit for Woodmont Commons with the Conservation Commission last week, succeeding in getting the group's OK.

At the Tuesday, Sept. 27 meeting, Kevan pointed out on a map that the two buildings at the upper end of the parcel have been eliminated, although he said they could re-appear at a later date. However, the drainage and retention pond located at the top of that area has been relocated to a spot where the buildings had been placed.

He noted that a Conditional Use Permit associated with the Market Basket expansion and redevelopment project within the Woodmont Commons Planned Unit Development (PUD) that started the alignment of the connector road from Garden Lane to Pillsbury Road had been previously approved. The present project design continues that alignment with the expansion of the stormwater management pond adjacent to the Duck Pond.

He noted the stormwater system is within the 100-foot buffer to the Duck Pond but there would be no tree cutting. The stormwater management pond will collect and treat water prior to discharge into the Duck Pond. And the connector road will meet Pillsbury Road at the highest point to provide safe sightlines.

The plan includes a gravel recreational walking pathway around the detention pond and the Duck Pond that is in keeping with the proposed walkability of the overall project. Materials to be used would minimize the impact to the wetlands and would include restoration of the site consistent with the permitted use.

Kevan discussed the proposed main thoroughfare that would be 900 to 1,200 feet in length. The buildings along the main thoroughfare would be primarily commercial and business, with restaurants on the first floor and residential use on the second floor. A substantial green area is planned for the main thoroughfare, to be designed with slight curves to make it more inviting for walkers.

The present design minimizes the wetlands buffer impact by not encroaching on the existing tree line. The design places the stormwater system at the lowest portion of the site to intercept runoff prior to discharging it into Duck Pond, providing pre-treatment and treatment for a significant portion of the development. The recreational walking path is designed to take advantage of the Duck Pond by creating an 8-10ths of a mile trail around the detention pond and Duck Pond to the west.

Commission questions to Kevan included the source of water for the development, which will be Pennichuck Water Works of Nashua, which already has a 12-inch line servicing the Market Basket site. Kevan said the company plans a water tower on the other side of Pillsbury Road for fire protection purposes.

A question was raised about the sewer line, and Kevan said it would continue the present sewer line down Route 102 (Nashua Road) into Garden Lane and from there to the development. The plan is to make improvements to the Garden Lane and Route 102 intersection, improving the sewer line at that time. He said there is sufficient capacity for both water and sewer.

With their questions answered and after a previous presentation of the conceptual plan of the project, the Conservation Commission approved a motion to recommend approval of the Conditional Use Permit to the Planning Board.

LED Lighting for High School Gets Board OK

KATHLEEN D. BAILEY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Londonderry School Board has approved the installation of LED lighting in several areas of the Londonderry High School campus.

Facilities Director Chuck Zappala discussed the proposal with the School Board at its Sept. 27 meeting.

Zappala wrote in a memo that he had met several times with representatives of LighTec, a Merrimack company, to discuss options for energy-efficient lighting options for the schools.

For this project, he and his staff concentrated on the exterior wall "pack lights" on the LHS gym and main building and the parking lot and walkway lights. These fixtures, according to Zappala, see the most use and give the best payback options. His recommendation was to purchase the equipment and do the installation with School District staff.

The total cost would be $62,286.50, with a $6,670 expected rebate from Eversource. The annual electricity and maintenance savings is estimated at $12,690.12. Zappala said with a five-year lease/purchase agreement, the fixtures could be paid for through the project without any impact on the operating budget.

Business Manager Peter Curro said, "We can take the money saved through energy savings from using the LED lighting and use it to finance the lighting."

The project was "strongly recommended" by the administration from both a financial and energy standpoint, according to Curro.

Board member Leitha Reilly asked what was being leased, and Superintendent Nate Greenberg explained that the district will pay for it with money already in the budget for lighting.

"The lease spreads the payment out," Curro said.

The rates are advantageous, Greenberg said, at an interest rate of 3.89 percent.

Board chair Nancy Hendricks asked if any other schools had been considered, and Curro said the lighting company does an audit when it comes to town. The first priority, he said, was to "take advantage of what will give us the most savings up front." For this year that is LHS, he said.

"Next year there will be another rebate program, and maybe we'll look at the middle school," he said.

To get the rebate, Zappala said, it is necessary to have the installation completed by Dec. 31.

The board voted unanimously to approve the installation of the lighting.

Diane Demers Appointed as Deputy Tax Collector

PENNY WILLIAMS
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Town Council accepted the resignation of Sherry Farrell as Deputy Tax Collector on Monday night with a 3-0-1 vote, with her husband, chair John Farrell, abstaining.

The council then voted 4-0 to approve Diane Demers as Deputy Tax Collector.

In other business:

- During Public Comment, Ray Breslin came before the board to talk about the development of a 10-year water plan. He said he wasn't aware of any current water conservation and protection plan the town has in place and he thinks identification and a protection plan for the groundwater in town was needed.

The council explained that the municipality has no authority over groundwater; that falls to the state. The council also noted there are plans to do surveys and an inventory of natural resources, but the bottom line is the state owns and regulates and has the authority over water.

It was noted that Londonderry has one of the strongest zoning regulations relating to wetlands, which are the central groundwater resource. In the end the board agreed that the Town would look into what control Londonderry has over groundwater and would work with the New Hampshire Department of Environmental Services in the matter.

The council had three applicants for a seat on the Budget Committee. After discussion, Tom Dalton was nominated and approved unanimously for the position.

Administrative Support Coordinator Steve Cotton presented a request for expenditure of Maintenance Trust Fund money for the following items: $5,585 for replacement and installation of the main blower in the HVAC (heating, ventilation and air conditioning) system at the Londonderry Police Department; $3,520.52 for exterior lighting repairs at North Fire Station; $18,700 for preventive maintenance and repairs to the Town Common bandstand; and, $14,880 for preventive maintenance and repairs to the fuel farm building. The total amount sought was $42,785.52.

Before approving the request, the Council asked whether WiFi connections could be achieved at the Town Common while the repairs were being carried out. After a brief discussion, Cotton agreed to look into getting WiFi connections installed in the upper reaches of the Lions Hall building across the street, which would be a less expensive approach but would work just as well. The Council then voted 4-0 to approve his request.

Director of Public Works and Engineering Janusz Czyzowski presented a request for the expenditure of Roadway Maintenance Trust Funds in the amount of $650,000 for the maintenance, repair, and improvement of town roads. The council voted 4-0 to approve the request.

Water Ban

greater problems.

As of Sept. 1, the DES classified Londonderry as being under "severe" or "extreme" drought conditions.

The restriction would apply to use of water from public or private wells for residential outdoor lawn watering.

Monday night, Town Council Chair John Farrell made it clear that the ordinance is in response to the state's declaration of Londonderry as a municipality experiencing "extreme drought conditions."

Effective immediately will be a mandatory restriction on the watering of all residential lawns, with enforcement by the Londonderry Police Department. Failure to comply will draw first a warning; a second violation will result in a $250 fine, and the third and all subsequent violations will result in $500 fines.

Farrell said letters would be sent to commercial enterprises and businesses asking them to voluntarily comply with the water restriction on outside watering.

Two residents declared their support for the ban, and Londonderry School District Business Administrator Peter Curro told the Town Council that the school district, while exempt from the ordinance, has been ahead of the curve and began taking steps in July to stop watering its practice fields and reducing game fields watering by 50 percent (see story page 1). He pointed out that the water used comes from the school district's irrigation ponds, which collect drainage from school property.

The council refused to consider requests for exceptions, saying the ordinance would be weakened and it would be a burden on the Town Manager to have to address matters on a case-by-case requests.

It was suggested that language be added stating that the suspension may be lifted by the Town Manager and Council when conditions so warrant. However, it was determined that the ordinance, once enacted, is permanent, and the trigger for lifting the ban would be the declaration from the State that Londonderry is no longer in an extreme drought condition.

Farrell and the council agreed to take a look at the ordinance and the situation in May. However, the council rejected making any amendments to the ordinance as presented.

Before the council voted unanimously to approve the ordinance as presented, Smith said that Town Attorney Michael Ramsdell had determined that the ordinance could not be adjusted or amended to address commercial companies withdrawing water from local ponds and water sources for hydroseeding and landscaping purposes. He said another ordinance would have to be developed to deal with that issue.

Adult Education Program Featured at School Board

KATHLEEN D. BAILEY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Eleven motivated students are on target to graduate from Londonderry Adult Education this January.

Assistant Principal Amity Small, also director of the Londonderry High School Adult Ed program, reported on both the evening high school program and Summer School at the Sept. 27 School Board meeting.

Small told the board that the fall Adult Education program began Sept. 7 with 46 students. Courses offered include Algebra, Civics/Economics, Contemporary Literature, Gaming and Lifeskills, Physical Science, Sociology, Sports Literature, Young Adult Literature, Odysseyware and an Independent Work/Study option.

Eleven will be LHS graduates by winter. She invited the board to the graduation ceremonies Jan. 9.

"That is one of my favorite events," Board Chair Nancy Hendricks said.

Over the summer, Small said, the high school was "bustling" with seven classes. There were two English classes, and in one, the teacher focused on the theme of "homelessness." The students read several articles dealing with the problem and raised money to help, then took a field trip to the New Horizons shelter in Manchester. "It opened their eyes," Small said.

Fourteen students participated in an online math "hybrid" program, she said. Other classes offered, for enrichment or for making up of credits, were Biology, Civics/Economics, World History and U.S. History. Of the 94 students in summer school, 81, or 13 percent, earned credits, she said.

Another 23 students were enrolled in the LIFT (Londonderry Incoming Freshman Transition) program for at-risk eighth-graders, Small said. She turned that discussion over to the LIFT teachers, Social Studies teacher Ryan Berry and Counselor Valerie Nelson.

Berry said the program was begun 10 years ago and he and Nelson have been directing it for two years. It gives children a chance to "find their niche" and make a smooth transition to high school, he said.

Nelson said, "The goal is not only to get them adjusted, but to connect them with opportunities beyond Londonderry High School." The program has a relationship with Manchester Community College and also with Tully Automotive in Nashua, where they learn the "soft skills" such as attendance and being on time.

Nelson said, "We also incorporate an outdoor education piece." The students go hiking and participate in a ropes course, where they learn trust and also what they are capable of. They also study "The Seven Habits of Highly Effective Teens," she said.

The facilitators work with the students on understanding the high school schedule, and help familiarize them with staff. "That way it's not so shocking," she said.

The program ends with a hike up Mount Monadnock, an experience Nelson said is immensely gratifying to the LIFT students. "They realize," she said, "that they made it."

School Board

Curro said. "There's less sun in the fall, and less need of water," he said.

Young asked Zappala if he has had to purchase and "truck in" any water.

"I've been here 30 years and I've had to do that three times," Zappala said. The first two times, he contracted with Pennichuck, he said. This time around he contracted with a local pool water company and brought in five loads a day for three weeks.

"We purchased 150,000 gallons," he said, at $200 per load.

Superintendent Nate Greenberg said, "Our plan at this time is to continue with the same practice. We will not water the practice fields, and in observance of the time of year, we will cut back on watering game fields."

The district is cutting back to a bare minimum, Greenberg said. But he warned that it also needs to protect its investment.

"We don't want to destroy our fields," he said. "It would be a major cost to bring them back."

Though the school district is not subject to any water ban from the town, Greenberg also advised seeing what action if any the Town Council will take on the ban.

But for now, he said, "We are being extremely prudent."

Board chair Nancy Hendricks agreed to postpone discussion of water issues to a future agenda.

Getting the lead out

In other business, Zappala reported on recent tests for lead in the water of school district buildings.

Zappala wrote in a memo that the district buildings have water provided by Pennichuck and Manchester Water Works and by law, the companies are required to provide testing for lead and other contaminants on a regular basis.

Over the summer, Zappala said, the district contracted with Almac Environmental and Nelson Analytical to perform water testing in all district buildings. Every faucet and every sink that would provide water for drinking were tested, he said. There were 135 tests in all.

Zappala reminded the board that the United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has established a limit of 15 parts per billion, or PPB, as an "action level" for dealing with lead in water.

All Londonderry's faucets tested at less than 15 PPB, with the majority at 1 PPB or less, he said.

Zappala said the tests were done in accordance with the New Hampshire Department of Environmental Services protocol for a "first draw" sample. Fixtures were "flushed" for a minimum of 10 minutes, and then shut off and covered, with notices posted "not to use." After eight hours, they took a sample from each device, he said.

School Board Transfers $100,000 from Surplus to Fund Balance

KATHLEEN D. BAILEY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Londonderry School Board has approved the transference of $100,000 from this past year's surplus to the Unassigned Fund Balance (UFB).

The board discussed the transfer at its Sept. 27 meeting.

In a memo, Business Manager Peter Curro wrote that as of June 30, the district has retained $302,810 in the Unassigned Fund Balance, and FY 2016 produced a surplus of $312,242. Curro recommended that the district retain an additional $100,000 from the FY16 surplus for "emergencies and other approved/ appropriate needs."

That would give the district $402,810 in the UFB, Curro wrote.

Curro reminded the board, "A few years ago, the state began allowing school districts to retain part of these funds." It's different from how the town does it, Curro added: the School Board has to vote to transfer the funds.

The district, he said, has had a practice of placing $100,000 in the UFB after closing the books on the previous school year, so the money will be available to reduce taxes after the tax rate is set in the fall.

"The maximum we can have," he said, "is just over $1 million."

Member Steve Young said, "I want to make it clear that this is not a fund the School District can dip into. We have to petition the DOE (Department of Education) to use it, and we have to have a specific purpose." This, he said, was one of the state's stipulations.

"You can't run a multi-million-dollar entity and not have a fund balance," Young said.

The board voted unanimously to approve the transfer.

In other business, the board heard a presentation from Assistant Superintendent Scott Laliberte on a $3,830 grant and gift of a 3-D printer from the Bosch Community Fund. The check was accepted by board member Leitha Reilly in a ceremony at Bosch's Londonderry facility on Sept. 9. The money will be used to fund the "Engineering Exploration" program to be held at South School and to engage elementary-aged students in engineering learning experiences and STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Math) activities.

The program will be facilitated by LHS physics teacher Richard Levergood and Matthew Thornton Elementary School enrichment teacher Martha Miller and is a pilot program they hope to expand to all three elementary schools, Laliberte said.

The 3-D printer will be housed at the middle school, Laliberte said.

When she accepted the check on behalf of the district, Reilly also engaged with the product development managers at Bosch. "They are excited to see what we are doing in the schools," she said. "We're not just doing STEM in the higher levels, but all across K-12."

Reilly, who called the arrangement with Bosch a "nice partnership," suggested that the district invite Bosch in after the program is launched, and show them what the children have done.

"Bosch is a great neighbor and a great supporter of STEM," Laliberte agreed. He added that he is intrigued by one of the "Engineering Exploration" kids' first projects: making a piano out of bananas.

tor Carson. If you feel frustrated about your choices at the top of the ticket, it is doubly critical to vote for Al Baldasaro, Marty Bove, Dave Lundgren, Betsy McKinney, Sherm Packard, Bob Rimol, Doug Thomas and Sharon Carson on Tuesday, Nov. 8.

Why? Because the First Amendment is in peril. The recently-leaked evidence exposing collaboration between the Democratic National Committee and many media outlets to derail the Sanders campaign and favor Hillary Clinton is one egregious case of manipulation, but there have been dozens of chilling examples lately.

If you are not mining opposing viewpoints on the Internet, then you are likely seeing only a narrow, perverted rendition of the truth. How much worse will the problem of a propagandist press become now that the Obama administration has ceded the last of American control over the Internet to an international body?

The country has survived bad presidents, and will likely withstand another, but liberty cannot exist in the absence of a free press. We need strong conservative voices to support and defend our key freedoms and maintain the New Hampshire advantage.

School Custodians' Contract Moves to March Ballot

KATHLEEN D. BAILEY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Londonderry School Board has approved a new contract for its custodial staff, and will pass it along to the voters for their consideration in March.

The board reviewed the contract at its Sept. 27 meeting.

Board chair Nancy Hendricks said the contract is one of several that are currently under negotiation.

The contract was approved by the custodians in a meeting Aug. 27, according to a memo from Suzie Swenson, Director of Human Resources.

The salary raises are based on the Consumer Price Index, with a range of 2.5 percent minimum to 4.5 percent maximum.

The collective bargaining unit also agrees to allow the district to reopen the discussion concerning health insurance regulations or taxes/fees that could have a financial impact on the district, and to add language on Education Reimbursement to read, "A Union member may apply in writing to the superintendent for additional education reimbursement funds - if available."

The agreement covers eight employees in Grounds and Building Maintenance, 13 on the Custodian I scale and 24 on the Custodian II scale.

The contract if approved will be effective July 1, 2017 through June 30, 2020.

The financial impact to the district will be $63,474, first year; $65,060, second year; and $66,687, third year.

Board member Leitha Reilly asked what kind of continuing education was provided for, and Business Manager Peter Curro said, "It's mainly courses in handling hazardous material such as cleaning solvents." There has also been an increased requirement for "scrutiny of labels," he said. Members of the groundskeeping staff must also be current with pesticides and herbicide use, he said.

Board member Jenn Ganem, who was part of the negotiating team, observed that she had seen the certifications the staff had achieved and it was an impressive number.

Reilly agreed, and cited the team's dedication.

There was a building issue on Superbowl Sunday last year, and several members of the Buildings and Grounds staff turned out, on a Sunday, in the cold. "They wanted to make sure the pipes didn't freeze, so there would be school on Monday," Reilly said. "They are fantastic."

The board voted unanimously to approve passing the contract on to voters for the March 2017 warrant.

Conservation to Develop Procedure for Monitoring Land Parcels

PENNY WILLIAMS
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Conservation Commission reviewed what actions have been taken with regard to violations found on the Conservation-owned Cooper parcel. Chair Marge Badois and several others had visited the property on Sept. 26.

Badois said photos were taken, and violations by the owners of the adjacent property, Thomas Clark and Suzanne Dumais, were documented. She said they found an excavator parked in the powerline, truckloads of loam dumped on the property, and sawmill supplies and equipment on conservation land.

Once the documentation had been completed, Badois said law enforcement went to speak with the homeowners but she did not accompany them and didn't know the outcome of that conservation. However, she noted that letters regarding the violations with 30-day response time have been sent twice and no action by the homeowners has been initiated.

One thing that emerged from this exercise was that the Conservation Commission should develop a specific procedure on how to proceed with monitoring and follow-ups of violation notices. The procedure should include a checklist of what is required for action to be initiated by law enforcement. Several members agreed to develop the document.

In other business at its Sept. 27 meeting:

- The commission discussed what should happen with respect to the Capital Improvement Plan (CIP) information that needs to be ready for presentation to the Town Council. The board discussed forming a subcommittee to make a recommendation to the full committee on what the commission would like to do and how much money it will take.

After discussion, it became evident that there was a preference already to address the Stantec information on Kendall Pond.

The board's emphasis is to select one area to show residents what the commission has in mind for developing recreational uses for conservation areas, as a way to find out if residents are supportive of this approach.

In the end the commission members decided they wanted to do some of the recommendations from Stantec on the Kendall Pond area. They all agreed to eliminate the island development Stantec suggested because it would require bridges to be constructed.

Members were asked to review the Stantec material and be prepared to make a final decision at their next meeting on what to include in the project and what the cost would be.

- The group discussed cooperatively working with Londonderry Trailways to maintain trails. A grant has been procured by Sandy Lagueux from Trailways, and Trailways would like input from Conservation as to where to place signs along the Rail Trail.

Commission members said it could work to share the maintenance of the Rail Trail with Londonderry Trailways by developing a joint Trailways & Conservation Commission Maintenance Committee. Getting an intern for next summer will be pursued.

- A grant has been obtained to allow the Conservation Commission to work with North School students. The plan isn't complete yet but it will involve working with North School students to educate them about the Rail Trail, about Conservation, and about what wetlands are and why they are important.

- Contracts have been signed so the timber cut for rabbit habitat can move forward. The job has to be completed by Nov. 30.

- Badois said a lot of people spoke at the Drought Ordinance public hearing and she said she again brought up restricting companies from extracting water from local ponds and water sources for lawn work. However, no determination was made as to whether that could be added to the present ordinance or whether a separate ordinance would have to be drawn up, she said.

- Kit Plummer requested permission to do logging on his conservation easement area. He doesn't want to spend the money to procure a certified forestry plan but the Conservation Commission members said that if he consulted with Dick Lewis and Lewis developed a plan, that would be all right. They voted to allow Plummer to do it that way but before any logging action can be taken, the commission wants to see and approve the plan.

Lancer Gridders Grab First Win in a 34-13 Crushing of Concord

CHRIS PANTAZIS
LONDONDERRY TIMES

When a team is struggling, nothing reassures like the positive reinforcement of a decisive victory.

That's precisely what the Londonderry High School football squad got Friday night, Sept. 30 on its home field, bagging its first win of the 2016 campaign with a 34-13 crushing of a stumbling Concord High Crimson Tide crew.

The Lancers scored points in every quarter and held Concord largely in check throughout most of the contest, with both teams becoming 1-4 when the final buzzer blared.

"When you win the turnover battle you have a much better chance of winning the game," said coach Jimmy Lauzon, whose charges have been frustratingly turnover-prone this season. "I thought our pass defense was a little weak at times, and the same with our run game on offense. If we shore up those things and be consistent we have a shot every week."

Lauzon was over the moon regarding the performance of senior quarterback Jake Stevens, who completed 20 of the 25 passes he attempted for 219 yards and four touchdown passes.

"Stevens was on fire tonight," said Lauzon. "I told him about half-way through, 'You're hot right now, so we're just going to keep throwing.' He showed what he is really capable of doing tonight."

Several major factors for the Lancers recently have been the returns of seasoned veterans Cam MacDonald and Brandon Radford from injuries, and the continued strong play of Pete Navarro.

"It's nice to have Cam MacDonald back," said the coach. "With him and Radford and Navarro healthy they give us a few senior options to use. They also strengthen the defense."

The hosts held a 6-0 lead after one period had been completed, a 13-7 advantage at the half, and a 20-13 lead at the conclusion of three quarters. They then put the win away by outscoring Concord by a 14-6 margin in the fourth stanza.

Londonderry tallied its first points less than three minutes after the opening kick-off when Stevens connected with MacDonald on a 29-yard touchdown toss. However, the locals' extra-point kick was blocked.

The Lancer lead got lofted up to 13-0 a bit more than four minutes into quarter two when Navarro caught a two-yard scoring toss from Stevens, and Pat Zepf added the kick.

But Concord trimmed its deficit down to 13-7 by scoring on a short pass of its own five minutes later.

Londonderry went up by a 20-7 tally by claiming the only points of the third quarter with five minutes to go in that period when MacDonald and Stevens combined on a 38-yard touchdown pass.

The Lancers' lead widened to 27-7 less than two minutes into the fourth period when Ben Johnson ripped off a 22-yard scoring sprint.

Concord tried to muster a comeback effort by running a fumble recovery back 76 yards for points less than two minutes later, but LHS got the final word where scoring was concerned when, with six minutes remaining, Radford and Stevens connected on a 14-yard scoring toss.

Johnson ended up running for 60 yards on the night, and along with his impressive passing exploits Stevens sprinted for 54 yards on 13 carries.

Fresh off a mini vacation forced by a concussion, receiver MacDonald ended up catching eight balls for 146 big yards.

The Lancers will find themselves with their hands plenty full this Friday night when they travel to Merrimack to face a Tomahawks' troop that is 4-1 and has won its last four contests.

Lady Lancer Stickers See Streak Stopped, Then Take a Break

Sarah Vanini had the lone goal for the LHS field hockey team in against Central last week.

CHRIS PANTAZIS
LONDONDERRY TIMES

On the heels of an overtime victory against Pinkerton Academy in Mack Plaque play, the Londonderry High field hockey squad had a five-game winning streak rolling and had every reason to feel great about itself.

The Lady Lancers still had plenty of reasons to feel good about themselves following a 2-1 loss to tough Manchester Central that ended Londonderry's five-game winning streak in the Queen City last Wednesday, Sept. 28. But bagging a victory in that match would have had the LHS crew virtually floating on air as it began a six-day break from competition that didn't end until Wednesday, Oct. 5, after Londonderry Times press time, with a home match against Dover.

Central advanced to 7-1-1 with the 2-1 edging of 6-3-1 Londonderry, in which the hosts netted the only goal of the first half to carry an advantage to the break.

But the hosts potted an insurance marker a little more than two minutes into the second half, forcing the Lady Lancers to face a daunting comeback effort.

The Londonderry side busted the Central shut-out with just 2:39 left in the match, with Sarah Vanini tallying on an assist from Olivia Palumbo. LHS goalie Danielle Ziv made 10 saves her contribution to her squad's performance.

"I see this break as a great time to rest gearing up for postseason," said LHS coach Laura Federico. "We played okay against Central, but Central is a great team which is skilled and ready to play. We did not come out as strong as I would have liked, but it prepares us for the post-season."

Lancer Golfers Close Out Season With Pair of Middle Finishes

CHRIS PANTAZIS
LONDONDERRY TIMES

First-year coach Dan Grant saw his Londonderry High golf team close out its 2016 regular season with a pair of second places in matches held last week.

225 as a team to finish right in between victorious Bedford (202) and third-place Manchester Memorial (227) in a match played at the Manchester Country Club on Thursday, Sept. 29.

The Lancers were led by top scorers Nick

McCann (42), Brian Boyle (44), and Kyle MacEachern (46).

The next afternoon, the Londonderry crew ended up between the tough, 18-2 Pinkerton Academy Astros and the Salem High Blue Devils in a match at the Hoodcroft Country Club in Derry.

Victorious Pinkerton shot a 196 as a team, Londonderry notched a 225, and Salem placed third one stroke behind LHS.

Boyle led the Londonderry High squad's performance by recording yet another 44.

LHS Spikers Still Seeking First Match Win

CHRIS PANTAZIS
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The rebuilding Londonderry High girls' volleyball squad entered last week still seeking its first game victories. But the Lady Lancers put that milestone well behind them despite dropping matches to Timberlane of Plaistow and Bedford.

The locals won their first two games of the season but suffered another match loss despite some superb work against the visiting Timberlane Lady Owls at LHS Wednesday, Sept. 28.

Timberlane won game one by a 25-22 score and game two by a 25-18 tally, but the Lady Lancers rebounded beautifully with a 25-14 victory in game three and a 28-26 win in game four to force a deciding fifth game. But the visitors came back to take game five by a 15-13 score and win the match by a 3-2 margin.

The locals received 29 assists from Anna Haas, 14 service points and six assists from Maddie Sanborn, 11 digs from Alyssa Pento, and 10 kills and four blocked shots from Josie Collins.

The 0-10 Londonderry crew was then at home in its own gym again last Friday, Sept. 30 against a Bedford High bunch that walked in with a 5-5 record and three consecutive losses.

In that match, the Lady Lancers fell behind 2-0 with game losses of 25-13 and 25-22. But the hosts kept the match going by taking game three by a 25-20 tally before falling in game four, 25-16.

Ashley Andrews had 15 assists and 12 service points for the locals, with Collins collecting seven kills and Sanborn claiming eight digs.

The Lady Lancers then played host to the undefeated Concord High Crimson Tide this past Monday, Oct. 3.

And the unbeaten Concord crew took care of business in handing the Lady Lancers a 3-0, shutout defeat.

The visiting Crimson Tide tallied game victories of 25-16, 25-15, and 25-19 despite eight assists by Andrews, seven service points and six digs from Pento, and four kills and two blocks from Collins.

Lady Lancer Booters Get Knotted Up Twice, Record Moves to 6-2-2

CHRIS PANTAZIS
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Londonderry High girls' soccer squad entered last week without having gotten knotted up in a single tie during the 2016 season. And then it happened twice.

The Lady Lancers had to settle for deadlocks with both the Salem High Lady Blue Devils and the Timberlane Regional Lady Owls of Plaistow in a pair of road contests. And those outcomes left the LHS squad with a 6-2-2 season record.

Both Salem and Timberlane had begun the 2016 campaign in excellent fashion. But both were in the midst of skids when they faced off against Londonderry.

The host Salem Lady

Blue Devils began the campaign with a 3-0 record, but when the Lady Lancers came to town Tuesday, Sept. 27, the Devils had gone 0-4-1 in their subsequent five matches.

And when Londonderry busted out to a 2-0 lead in the first half - on markers by Kat Rivard from Hailey Laliberte and Lauren Misiaszek from Olivia Stowell - it looked as though another loss was on its way to the Salem side.

But the Lady Devils scored twice in half number two - with the tying tally coming in the last minute of regulation time - and the match score ended up at 2-2.

The Lancers throttled 27 shots on Salem goalies Emily Doucette and Haley Liptrap, but were only able to put two blasts into the netting. LHS goalie Ryann Boudreau made two stops.

In the Friday match in Plaistow against a Timberlane crew that started the 2016 season at 4-0 but had gone a poor 1-4-1 since, the Lady Lancers once again carried a lead to halftime and saw it evaporate in the second half of action on the way to a 1-1 tie.

Freshman standout Stowell scored the Londonderry goal on a set-up from Devyn Enwright in the 31st minute of play. But Timberlane bagged the equalizer nine minutes into the second half.

The locals rapped 13 shots on the Lady Owls' cage but only scored on one of them, and LHS keeper Boudreau made nine stops her contribution to the effort.

This week's slate had the Lady Lancers at home against Bedford on Wednesday, Oct. 5, after Londonderry Times press time, followed by a short road trip to the Queen City two days later to face off against Manchester Central.

The girl's 6-2-2 record puts the team just over the middle of the Division I pack with six games left in the regular season.

Their next two opponents, Bedford and Manchester Central, are tied for the most wins in the division with 9-1 season records.

Londonderry High Harriers Sweep Pair of Opponents in Home Meet

CHRIS PANTAZIS
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Londonderry High School's boys' and girls' cross-country teams both put forth impressive performances in sweeping opponents on the LHS course Tuesday, Sept. 27.

The Lancer males tallied a low, low, low team score of 15 to easily best both Spaulding of Rochester (55) and Timberlane of Plaistow (71).

The locals swept every one of the top 10 individual spots, thanks to the work of race-winner Chris Zaino (16 minutes and 2 seconds), runner-up finisher Declan Hotter (16:46), Jake Donnelly (16:59), Carter Letalien (17:23), Brian Metro (17:24), Kyle Freire (17:27), Kyle Hoglund (17:42), Connor Keeley (17:43), Kevin Letalien (17:53), and Kerry Daley (18:02).

That same afternoon, the LHS Lady Lancers tallied a team score of 28 to defeat both second-place Spaulding (46) and third-place Timberlane (57).

The LHS effort was paced by race winner Caitlin Boufford (20:45) and runner-up Jasmine Brown (21:25).

Lancer Boy Booters Fall Twice in Wake of Big Mack Plaque Success

CHRIS PANTAZIS
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Londonderry High boys' soccer squad's 2-0 Mack

Plaque victory over the Pinkerton Academy Astros on Saturday, Sept. 24 left the team with plenty of reasons to feel good about themselves.

Joshua Ryan and the Lancer soccer crew had something of a letdown last week, suffering two defeats.

That victory stretched the Lancers' undefeated streak to four games (3-0-1) and made the LHS booters a strong 5-2-1 overall on the 2016 campaign. But in the immediate aftermath of that major success, the Lancers suffered back to back home losses to Salem and Timberlane of Plaistow last week to slip to 5-4-1 in tough Division I.

In the 4-1 defeat at the hands of the 4-4 Salem High Blue Devils at LHS on Tuesday, Sept. 27, the visitors potted their first three goals in the first 25 minutes of play to race out to a commanding lead. But Londonderry grabbed a handful of the momentum in the 37th minute of play when Zack Deleo scored.

However, the Blue Devils potted their fourth tally seven minutes into the second half to reach what would be the final score of 4-1.

"How we can play with so much passion on Saturday and so little today is troubling," said coach Todd Ellis. "I don't care who you play, you can't give up two goals in the first 10 minutes and then another to start the second in the first seven minutes. The only way to make up for today's loss is to put forth a good effort against one of the better teams, Timberlane, this Friday."

Ellis ended up being far happier with his charges' performance in that match against 10-1 Timberlane, but the Plaistow-based crew netted two unanswered goals in the first half and ended up winning by a 2-1 score.

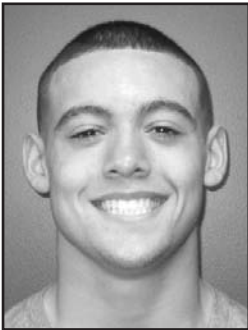

The Owls scored both of their markers in the final five minutes of the first half, and Londonderry's lone goal was netted by Luke Cava in the 47th minute of play. Lancer goalie Cam Wheeler turned aside five shots in the contest.

"We played much better today than on Tuesday," said Ellis. "The effort was there. Unfortunately we gave up a couple of late goals in the first half. We did what we wanted to and cut the deficit in half in the first 10 minutes of the second half, we just couldn't get the equalizer. I thought it was a well-played game on both sides."

Athletes of the Week

For the Week of Sept. 26

Pete Navarro, Senior, Football

This veteran has been a consistent piece for the team this year, playing several positions and serving as a key starter on both sides of the ball. He has 26 catches for 320 yards and two touchdowns, and 20 tackles on defense.

Josie Collins, Junior, Girls' Volleyball

This standout athlete led the LHS offensive attack with 20 kills - including a season and career-high 10 against Timberlane - and she paced the defensive effort with a team-high seven blocks during the week in question.

- PROVIDER ON CALL - MIGRAINES

More than 29.5 million Americans suffer from migraine, with women being affected three times more often than men. This vascular headache is most commonly experienced between the ages of 15 and 55, and 70% to 80% of sufferers have a family history of migraine. Less than half of all migraine sufferers have received a diagnosis of migraine from their healthcare provider. Migraine is often misdiagnosed as sinus headache or tension-type headache.

Many factors can trigger migraine attacks, such as alteration of sleep-wake cycle; missing or delaying a meal; medications that cause a swelling of the blood vessels; daily or near daily use of medications designed for relieving headache attacks; bright lights, sunlight, fluorescent lights, TV and movie viewing; certain foods; and excessive noise. Stress and/or underlying depression are important trigger factors that can be diagnosed and treated adequately.

Migraine characteristics can include: Pain typically on one side of the head; pain has a pulsating or throbbing quality; moderate to intense pain affecting daily activities; nausea or vomiting; sensitivity to light or sound; attacks lasting four to 72 hours, sometimes longer; visual disturbances or aura; exertion such as climbing stairs makes headache worse.

Diagnosis of migraine headache is made by establishing the history of the migraine-related symptoms and other headache characteristics as well as a family history of similar headaches. By definition, the physical examination of a patient with migraine headache in between the attacks of migraine does not reveal any organic causes for the headaches. Tests such as the CT scan and MRI are useful to confirm the lack of organic causes for the headaches.

There is currently no test to confirm the diagnosis of migraine .

All contestants are asked to dress casually. They are interviewed on stage and judged according to general appearance, conduct, and personality.

Hang, and the Junior King, Luke Bloxham of Topsfield, Mass., each received a trophy and a new bike as winners of the pageant. The Topsfield Fair runs through Columbus Day, Oct. 10.

Water Ban

this conversation two months ago," Spinner responded. He agreed with the Council that, "We have to do what we have to do to conserve."

Established lawns should not need watering at this point, Spinner added. But he's concerned about those newly-seeded yards, some of which he and his staff put in.

Butler said he wasn't comfortable voting on the issue that night. "It's not too late," he said, "it's too early. We need to go back and think and structure something for next spring or summer that makes sense."

Councilor Joe Green disagreed. "It is clear what the state asked us to do," he said. "I wish it had come sooner."

Green observed that people were losing their way of life. Some can't take showers or flush their toilets. "There's a big difference," he said, "between that and decorative grass."

Dolan said he wasn't against moving forward with the ordinance, but added that he would like to see a provision for "flexibility" to deal with unforeseen circumstances.

That could be Monday, Wednesday and Friday, or assigning homeowners to odd-even days, he said.

Dolan added that it's not the Council's purview to micro-manage the water ban. Giving authority to Smith, he said, would allow Smith to be flexible and make decisions.

Green said he didn't think there should be too many tweaks or amendments to the original ordinance. "I don't want to play attorney," he said. "If we adjust it, we may dilute it to the point where it is not enforceable."

And any changes should be run by Ramsdell, Green added.

"We are all taxpayers," Butler said. "And the commercial entities are big water users."

Green said he agreed, but pointed out that the state does not give the town jurisdiction over any commercial entities.

Farrell said he was looking at what's best for everyone. "I don't want to be in Market Basket in December and have someone stop me and say, 'You let them do it, and now my well is dry.'"

Butler invoked his executive privilege to table the item and it was tabled to Monday, Oct. 3.

Birthday Celebration

On Labor Day weekend, Cecile Fortin of Londonderry celebrated her 91st birthday. The weekend-long celebration was attended by nearly all of her 63 immediate family members - her children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren, and great-great-grandchildren. One of the highlights was a motorcycle ride on the back of a Harley, organized by her grandson Tim Fortin.

and Madden Road in Derry. Folsom Road, and subsequently Tsienneto Road, would be upgraded, and the intersections would be improved. In total, the Proposed Project corridor from I-93 to the intersection of Tsienneto Road and New Hampshire Route 102 (Chester Road) would be 3.2 miles.

The purpose of the project is to reduce congestion and improve safety along Route 102, from I-93 easterly through downtown Derry, and to promote economic vitality in the Derry and Londonderry area.

The goal is to have a plan in place by next summer to begin a design phase with construction to begin in 2019 and completion by 2022.

mer to begin a design phase with construction to begin in 2019 and completion by 2022.

DOT is currently working with Derry and Londonderry, in cooperation with the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA), to advance an updated environmental study for the 4A project.

Both Derry and Londonderry have committed $5 million to the project, a sum that leaders from both towns stated was the cap for their involvement, despite any potential overruns.

It's a project that has been in the works since 1985, when the Town of Derry suggested it to the State, and while in 2007 plans had been approved to route traffic through Tsienneto Road, because so much time has passed since that decision, Cota explained that it was necessary to re-assess the route and other alternatives pondered then.

Out of 47 possible routes, five were deemed feasible in 2007, and each is again being looked at, along with the potential to do nothing, letting traffic continue through downtown.

The environmental analysis, a Supplemental Draft Environmental Impact Statement or SDEIS, is looking at traffic and transportation, surface and ground water resources, land use and socioeconomics, air quality and noise, threatened and endangered species, wetlands and vernal pools, cultural resources, contaminated properties and indirect effects and cumulative impacts.

Alternative A, the plan that Cota explained is still being leaned toward, would basically see traffic run from a new one-mile connector roadway to Folsom Road, near the intersection of North High Street and Madden Road, and then travel to Tsienneto Road to dump out onto Route 102.

Alternative B, rather than using existing roads, would see a new alignment roadway constructed to connect north of Folsom and Tsienneto with Route 102.

Alternatives C and D would see Exit 4A be constructed further north on I-93, about a mile south of Exit 5. Alternative C would have a new connector road north of Tsienneto to connect to Route 102, while Alternative D would follow New Hampshire Route 28 to the Route 28/Tsienneto intersection, and then upgrade Tsienneto to where it connects with Route 102.

Alternative F would involve the upgrade of 1.7 miles of Route 102 through downtown Derry, largely keeping the status quo.

Community leaders also spoke briefly about the process last week.

Mike Fowler, director of public works in Derry, said the main difference between the current discussion and previous ones is that the DOT is fully behind the project now. Fowler said that as with any project, there is not a 100 percent perfect solution, and he urged people to get involved and ask questions and feel free to visit him with inquiries.

While questions and input from the public spanned a wealth of areas and largely sought more information on the project, some were clear that changes for them were more important than reducing travel times or congestion, or where lights would be placed, as they lived on roads that could see major changes and the taking of property.

Some urged the status quo, but Cota cautioned that such a move was not particularly feasible, as more lanes would be needed for increased traffic flow. He rhetorically asked which side of downtown should be used for another lane of traffic.

While many residents asked for specific details about what each alternative would look like, Cota said the process wasn't at that point yet, but safety and a host of environmental concerns were being looked at.

"We're not focused on a solution right now," said Cota to specific concerns about the safety of Tsienneto Road, but noted it was certainly an integral part of discussions.

The first step is to decide on a route, and then work out the specifics of that route, noted Cota.

There was also significant concern about how the routes would impact the Rockingham Rail Trail, as some of them have it bisecting that popular trail. With the use the trail is seeing, investments that communities have made and goals for expansion, some were concerned that there needed to be some way of crossing over or under any major thoroughfare that would interrupt it.

Concerns about keeping drivers and potential customers in a struggling downtown were also noted. While the traffic will likely reroute people, Cota said he suspected many commuters were already using side streets to bypass the area and that the lack of congestion would bring local business back.

"What I expect is that the diverted traffic will come back on the system," said Cota.

Last week's meeting was not the sole public informational meeting on the issue, as at least one more is set to happen once more review on the alternatives has occurred. Plans are to have a final public hearing in the spring of 2017 before final approval is sought from the Federal Highway Administration.

Cota explained that the DOT is also willing to meet with community groups who want an overview.
