Chicken Distributor Seeking to Build New Facilities On o Wetlands

ALEX GUITTARR
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Poultry Products Northeast, Inc. (PPNE) is hoping to establish a distribution center here in Londonderry, but its location is causing concern.

On April 25, Jim Petropelis and Vlad Harris, representatives of PPNE, spoke with the Londonderry Conservation Committee over whether or not the committee would give a recommendation to the Planning Board on May 3rd, who will ultimately decide whether or not PPNE can build their distribution center.

PPNE has been in business for over 30 years, providing products to New England and New York through their three other distribution centers.

The property PPNE is seeking out spans 26 acres on 31 Jack's Bridge Road. The distribution center, which will hire roughly 230 employees, will utilize most of the land initially, with some areas kept clear

Londonderry Police Department Recognized by Town Council

ALEX GUITTARR
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Town Council began this week's meeting by showing their respect to the Londonderry Police Department.

At the beginning of the Monday, May 1, Town Council meeting, Chairman Tom Dolan recited a proclamation to recognize National Police Week, which will take place from May 14th until May 20th. Police Chief William R. Hart and Sergeant Jason Tuefel were present for the proclamation.

The proclamation recognizes the nine hundred thousand police officers throughout the United States, including those working in Londonderry, but served to focus on those who have been injured and killed while on duty. It noted that there were fifteen thousand assaults on officers in 2015 alone, which led to over fourteen thousand injuries. More significant, however, is that since the first recorded police fatality in 1791, over twenty thousand officers have sacrificed themselves in the line of duty, whose names are engraved on the National Law Enforcement Officers Memorial in Washington, D.C.

The proclamation then went on to describe various events that will occur in D.C. and be recognized throughout the country. These include the 29th Annual Candlelight Vigil, which is sponsored by the National Law Enforcement Officers Memorial and the 36th Annual National Peace Officers Memorial Service, which is sponsored by the Grand Lodge Fraternal Order of Police and Grand Lodge Fraternal Order of Police Auxiliary.

Upon finishing the proclamation, Chief Hart noted that the department appreciates the sup-

Town Council Appoints New Members to Various Boards

ALEX GUITTARR
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The bulk of the Town Council meeting on Monday, May 1, focused on the town's efforts to fill vacant spots on the town Zoning Board and Planning Board, interviewing four applicants about their expertise and what they would bring to the boards.

Roger Fillio was first to be interviewed. Fillio is currently serving on the Heritage Commission and, if elected, would have to leave his seat on the commission.

Fillio was looking to join the Planning Board because he feels that if you want to change laws and make a difference in town, you need to be where change is needed. He also brought up his concern over traffic problems and his desire to advocate for fixing these issues.

Councilor John Farrell mentioned that traffic has always been a major point of concern on the Planning Board, but that the board must follow a strict set of regulations and rules, making achieving solutions complicated.

Fillio then noted that he had spent thirty five years in the military is very accustomed to following rules.

Councilor Joe Green asked Fillio several questions, including what he would bring to the Planning Board, how he would achieve solutions and what his vision for Londonderry's future was, to which Fillio told him that we would follow the rules, but still seek out what the public needs, all in an effort to help Londonderry grow. Councilor Ted Combes asked if Fillio had any real estate experi-

Charter School Funding Remaining The Same Due To Budget Failure

ALEX GUITTARR
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Concern over charter schools have once again been drawn into the public eye, but not for reasons that most are used to.

Due to the house failing to pass a budget in the beginning of April, the New Hampshire Alliance for Public Charter Schools sent out a news letter on April 14, highlighting the legislation that would have increased aid to pupils in charter schools in the state and the fact that it was ignored due to the failing budget.

The house budget, failing for the first time since the 1960's, was seemingly caused by a desire by Republicans to make major cuts to the budget and a lack of democratic support due to a lack of funding to drug and alcohol abuse relief, no full-day kindergarten and changes in benefits for retired state employees. It was defeated 177-169, minus 32 Republican holdouts, and the unaffected budget will pass onto the senate.

As a result, no changes will be made to the funding going towards charter school students. Under current law, each student from 1 to 12 grade will receive $6,735.82, but under the now-defeated legislation, funding per student would increase by $250 by 2018 and $350 the following year.

According to the news letter, Senate President Chuck Morse has been a long-time champion for charter schools and hopes to continue on the budget and working on funding towards these schools.

The news letter also noted that Governor Sununu's budget proposal also featured a large increase in funds towards student aid. The proposal would discontinue the static funding formula currently used for funding, instead having the aid amounts at 48.5% for 2018 and gradually rising to 50% in 2019, leading to an increase of over $950 per student.

Charter schools have been a point of controversy for many people over the last couple of years. The schools are independently run, publically funded operations that are sometimes operated by for-profit companies. Many issues have been raised over the independent nature of the schools when it comes to hiring unionized teachers and not having to take orders from local school districts, not to mention inconsistent data concerning testing scores and performance. None the less, enrollment has increased to 2.5 million students nationwide since 2014.

The state budget is set to be finalized by June, with the issue of charter school funding hanging in the air until then.

Just For the Record

"The report of my death was an exaggeration," Mark Twain wrote, after his cousin's illness was mistakenly attributed to the well-known author. Rumors are easy to start and not so easy to stop.

So you might be pardoned for wondering about the future of your newspaper, only to find you were not getting all the facts. You probably haven't heard about it, but the future of "Nutfield Publishing" has been an on and off obsession with neighboring newspapers and bloggers for a few years. But they all have failed to notice that Nutfield Publishing, LLC is the company that publishes the Londonderry Times, Nutfield News and Tri-Town Times. It is not the company that owns a building at 2 Litchfield Road in Londonderry. A building and a newspaper company are not one and the same.

And while the owners of both entities are part of the same family, the building does not produce your newspapers; it merely houses the office – the team – that does.

These days, most newspapers (ours included), are printed "remotely." Computer files are sent electronically to a printing press many miles away. There is no printing press at 2 Litchfield Road, so we can produce our papers just about anywhere.

What all this means is that if you hear that "Nutfield Publishing" might have to leave its Londonderry building, it will not impact your local news.

We're proud to have been preserving an historic building for nearly a decade, but if the newspaper had to move, it would not stop us from getting our communities word on all of the things happening in their towns. Our relocation would not change the fact that our readers will still need to be updated on town meetings they missed, election results, all of the things they get from their hometown news.

We're not blind to the fact that in the age of digital media, print papers everywhere are having a rough go of it. As more and more people turn to the internet for their information, more advertisers will shift their focus to that audience. Perhaps in the near future your hometown news will move to digital, but for now our readership and demand is still with print, so in print we trust. There's just something about having the paper in your hands that a screen can't compete with. Maybe it is just a novelty in this day and age, but we know that a lot of our readers depend on the paper, so we will continue to produce, whatever it takes.

Whatever transpires, these newspapers will remain locally owned and locally produced. Whatever the office address may be, wherever we are, we're here for you.

Water Ordinances

To the editor:

I've been attending Council meetings concerning suggestions about a lawn ordinance. John Farrell said he wanted to get one that is fair to those who want to water their lawns. I am more concerned and interested in having an ordinance that leans more towards fairness for the 88 percent well users in Londonderry who have no water or problems with their wells since or before October 2016.

Both can be accomplished!

The state gave all municipalities a model ordinance 41.11-D other towns chose what I feel is more applicable to all. I suggest you all especially those with wells read it. www.des.nh.gov.

Call the town managers and council members. Do not allow them to pass an ordinance to date that really does not protect you. Ours, I feel, does not!

The state breaks it down to three categories and restrictions. They also break it down after time for not watering 8am-8pm. The fine for the third violation is $1,000. Maybe that will get the attention of those who are not following the ordinance. Go to des website www.des.nh.gov, Drought

Clean Up Londonderry

To the editor:

Drive around town and you will see litter all along our roads, especially the more heavily traveled ones. Some may think that the town takes care of that, but they do not. It is not in the budget, so it is up to volunteers to clean it up. As part of the annual Beautify Londonderry program, dozens of volunteers have been out starting to clean up, but the volume is overwhelming. A lot more help is needed. Even a little bit of time can make a big difference if a lot more people are involved.

How can you help? The easiest thing to do is spend a few minutes picking up litter in front of your house. If you can be a bit more ambitious, walk along the road to the left and right of your property to pick up trash. This is especially helpful in the many cases where there are vacant lots or undeveloped properties between houses. Consider making it a family affair to set an example of being community minded.

Beyond that, some people have organized their neighbors to do clean ups in their local neighborhoods. This past weekend one such group did that on Gilcreast Road. If you work for a business in Londonderry, you could organize your co-workers to help out.

If you can go a step further, please volunteer to help clean some of our most littered roads. Often these highly travelled roads do not have as many houses on them, so the litter really accumulates. Beautify Londonderry can help you find such a road.

Apart from the spirit of volunteerism, some people "volunteer" to satisfy school, church or court requirements. Others take advantage of volunteer time off programs through work. Whatever your reason please pitch in to help this year!

Beautify Londonderry can assign you a project and supplies everything you need - trash bags, gloves, water, safety vests and new this year a great t-shirt as a thank you.

To learn more visit the Beautify Londonderry Facebook page, the Beautify Londonderry section of the town website (www.londonderry.nh.org/Pages/LondonderryNH\_BComm/Beautify/Index) or contact chairman Mike Byerly at mikebyerly89@gmail.com or (603) 537-9551.

LHS Student Produces Blessing Boxes for Senior Project

ALEX GUITTARR
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Londonderry has become the latest home to a growing charitable concept that has been seen popping up all over the country.

Kayla Vanagel, a senior at Londonderry High School, has been at the forefront of a local effort to produce a series of Blessing Boxes to assist the less fortunate in the town.

Vanagel chose the Blessing Box as her senior project this year.

A Blessing Box is a metal, wooden or cardboard box placed in a random location, typically on street corners and other accessible locations, which is filled with basic amenities, such as non-perishable foods and personal hygiene products, that anyone is free to take from as they desire.

Kayla has been placing these boxes around town for over a year now, working with other students, groups and organizations around town to spread the word about Blessing Boxes.

According to Londonderry High School Assistant Principal Abbey Sloper, this is very typical of Kayla, noting that "Kayla has exemplified our Mission Statement, in exhibiting her school pride by becoming involved and giving back to our community in a selfless way." Sloper has said that Kayla has always been known to be relentless and is always capable of adjusting to any roadblocks in the way of her accomplishing her goals.

"We are always talking to our learners about, giving back and taking care of one another. Kayla went even further, to take care of the members of our community...This is Kayla's way to give someone what they or their family may need to make it through the week or until their next pay check", said Sloper.

Kayla said the idea actually came from a friend and has had a lot of help putting the project together. "I definitely did not do it alone as I have many people to thank for helping me such as my family, friends and mentor who told me to never give up, The Lawn Butler, Pastor Ken and his wonderful church, and the community as a whole for donating and keeping it running", said Kayla.

Kayla noted that the whole idea is kept anonymous for those who may be afraid to come forward for help.

Sloper says Kayla's ultimate goal is two-fold: hoping that people won't be ashamed to take from the boxes if they need to and spreading the message that the Blessing Boxes are about both taking when you need to and giving when you can.

Chickens

until PPNE decided to expand the facility. No animals are planned to be housed there, as only previously butchered product will be sent to the building for packaging.

The major concern, however, comes from the fact that PPNE wants to build directly on top of over 34,000 square feet of wetland. PPNE are fully aware of this issue and have already made several compromises with the committee over the size of the facility, such as rebraiding and bracketing efforts that should have off about 3,600 square feet from the facility and providing $168,000 to the Aquatic Resource Mitigation Fund, which specialize in protecting local wetlands, with the New Hampshire Department of Environmental Services.

Questions were raised over other elements of the project, such as how to minimize the damage to the affected wetlands and the size of the parking lot, to which the representatives reminded them that with 230 people coming and going across three shifts, a larger parking lot is necessary.

PPNE's biggest obstacle came from trying to explain to the board why their facility should be able to get around the zoning ordinance protecting the wetlands. Four criteria for a permit to build on the land needed to be elaborated on, and PPNE seemed to have no issues with criteria 2 and 3 (Minimizing impact on the wetlands while providing restoration efforts to the areas effected and explaining why there is no other feasible location to build).

However, Petropelis explained that they were confused by criteria 1 and 4, which asked the permit seeker(s) to show that land not within the protected area was being used productively and prove that the project is not only seeking out "economic advantage", respectively. They were mainly confused as to how the criteria would pertain to a business facility such as theirs, aside from contributing more job opportunities to the local economy. Mike Speltz, a member of the New Hampshire DES, noted that he saw no reason, aside from economic purposes, that the zoning ordinance should be ignored.

And while the committee agreed with Speltz's sentiment, they all seemed to agree that despite not being compatible with the zoning ordinance, the fact that PPNE was willing to compromise about certain aspects to the build and would provide $168,000 to the ARM Fund, which would be used to rebuild the wetlands elsewhere in town, the committee unanimously approved a recommendation for the Planning Board. PPNE will go before the board at their next meeting on May 3.

Budget Meeting Sees New Members and New Chairman

ALEX GUITTARR
LONDONDERRY TIMES

April 27 Londonderry Budget Committee was somewhat uneventful, mostly focused on the nomination of members into key positions on the committee.

After calling the meeting to order, the board began by choosing a new Chairman, Vice-Chairman and Secretary. Tim Siekmann was given the role of Chairman, as the former Chairman, Jay Hoo-ley, did not seek reelection, and Siekmann had already served as Vice-Chairman in the past. Gary Vermillion was elected Vice-Chairman due to his experience with the Committee and Town Hall affairs and Christine Patton was elected as the secretary.

The committee then had to elect liaisons to keep tabs on the Londonderry Town Council, School Board and Planning Board. Siekmann and Patton volunteered to go to Town Council meetings.

Patton also decided to go to Planning Board meetings and the newest member of the committee, Alex Rego, will be attending School Board meetings.

Rego just recently began his role in the local government, having run for a state representative position in 2016, albeit unsuccessfully. Rego noted that he always wanted to serve the state and that a seat on the budget committee was the next best thing to his original goal.

After the reorganization, Siekmann announced that training would be offered to any and all members of committees and boards in the town government on June 22.

The training would consist of two classes at two hours apiece, covering the topics of Right-To-Know laws and how to conduct board meetings effectively.

After only twenty minutes, the committee meeting was adjourned. The committee will hold its next meeting on May 25th.

Local Volunteer Organizations Work To Prepare for Spring Fling Dance

ALEX GUITTARR
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Londonderry High School Pay It Forward club recently worked together with the Londonderry Lions Club to prepare for the annual Spring Fling Dance.

Held on April 21st, the event venue was decorated by the Pay It Forward club and Lion Club, who have been working hard with each other for the past 5 years.

The Pay It Forward club, started around 6 years ago, is a volunteer group made up of students from LHS that began in 2011 after helping out with Bras Across the River event. Deciding that there was no reason that they should stop volunteering after one event, the students proceeded to create the club as a constant source of volunteer work.

Since then, the Pay It

Forward club has done everything from hosting veteran's breakfasts, to working at soup kitchens to helping with down's syndrome Buddy Walks. The group typically does 2 to 3 events each month.

The Lions Club is based out of the Lion's Hall, also seeking the same goals as the Pay It Forward club. Lion's Club International was founded back in 1917 in Oak Brook, Illinois by Members of the Lion's Club and Pay It Forward Club preparing for the Spring Fling Dance

Melvin Jones. Jones followed a personal code, stating "You can't get very far until you start doing something for somebody else", which has always been the goal of the organization as a whole. The volunteer group was grown to having over 1.4 million members spread across over 200 countries. Lion's Club covers a wide variety of volunteer programs, including disaster relief, environmental programs and efforts to assist with those who suffer from hearing and visual disabilities and prevent the diseases that cause these disabilities.

The Londonderry chapter was chartered in 1970 and began to work with the Pay It Forward club five years ago, working together on projects such as the Spring Fling Dance, as well as working to unload 300 Christmas trees last winter.

The dance itself, which was attended by over 100 people, was focused on raising money for various scholarships. It featured dinner, a live band and silent auction.

When asked about the dance and groups, LHS Assistant Principal Katie Sullivan noted that "it's nice that a local organization works with the school and everyone benefits from it."

Town Council Discusses a Wide Range of Agenda Items

ALEX GUITTARR
LONDONDERRY TIMES

During the Monday, May 1, Londonderry Town Council meeting a number of minor agenda items were discussed by the board.

Board member John Farrell suggested that Londonderry's Town Manager, Kevin Smith, should be working closely with Chief Hart over residents beginning to water plants and lawns, as the May 15th Town Council meeting will have a vote on whether or not the town watering ordinance will be lightened due to the decreasing drought status. Farrell suggested that officers show some understanding concerning these matters in the coming weeks.

The bulk of the evening revolved around the Town Council interviewing four residents for positions on the Zoning Board, Planning Board and Heritage Commission. (See related story pag 1).

New business was then discussed, starting with Chief Hart and Sergeant Tuefel announcing their desire to get the Town Council to sign off on a grant from the New Hampshire Department of Safety. The grant would help the Manchester airport purchase five new radiation detectors to replace their out-of date models, paying one half of the total price, or $9,709, while the airport would cover one quarter and Londonderry would cover the remaining quarter. The Town Council unanimously approved of the matter.

Steve Cotton took the podium next, for two matters. First, he requested $8,450 to both clean up the walkways surrounding Town Hall and upgrade the Fire Departments pager system, to which the Town Council obliged.

Next, Kevin Smith joined Cotton to discuss his plans to replace the street lights in town with LED lights. Smith noted that on top of the rebate they would receive for the project, the use of LED lighting would save the town money in the long run and increase the town's eco-friendly status. Smith hopes to place LED lighting in the police and fire departments in the future.

A video produced by the state and featured Londonderry's efforts for a greener community was shown to council.

After announcing temporary council member Stacie Street would be leaving the board and noting that it was Jim Butler's birthday, the meeting was adjourned.

Knights of Columbus to Hold Life-Saving Drive

Residents will have a chance to make a big difference by giving "The Gift of Life" later this month.

The Bishop John Neumann Knights of Columbus Council #6949 of St. Jude Parish in Londonderry will be sponsoring their annual Spring American Red Cross and Rhode Island Blood Center Blood Drive and Marrow Typing Drive respectively on Friday, May 19 from 1 to 7 p.m. in the Londonderry Lion's Hall, located at 256 Mammoth Road.

There continues to be an overwhelming need for blood products, especially with all of the storms that had taken place late this winter. Those in good health and over 17 years old are called to donate to help at least come closer to meeting this growing need.

Homemade desserts and the Knights' world-famous chilli will be available for all donors.

Along with the Red Cross's blood drive, the Rhode Island Blood Center will be holding a "Be the Match" registry bone marrow typing drive for Ally Little, a 20-year-old Stoughton, MA resident recently diagnosed with Severe Aplastic Anemia, a rare disease in which bone marrow stops producing healthy blood cells. A bone marrow transplant is currently the only cure for this disease, and Little does not have any matches in the bone marrow registry at this time.

In addition to making a life-changing donation for this University of Southern Maine student, Rhode Island Blood Center hopes to find a match for over 6,000 patients awaiting a bone marrow transplant. The test takes a mere 10 minutes, and information obtained will be added to the "Be the Match" registry in hopes of matching potential donors' DNA well enough with a patient awaiting a transplant. Past donors will be available to answer any questions regarding the transplants.

Police

port the community gives them every day and have a "one-of-a-kind relationship with our community...that's built on trust, understanding and communication". Chairman Dolan followed up by asking Chief Hart to tell the police department that "the Town Council supports them and thanks them for their service."

The National Police Week started off as National Peace Officers Memorial Day, which takes place on May 15th and was signed into law by President John F. Kennedy on October 1, 1962. The law was amended in 1994 by the Violent Crime Control and Law Enforcement Act of 1994 to have all government buildings fly flags at half-staff on this day.

A memorial service began in 1982 in honor of National Peace Officers Memorial Day at Senate Park, eventually growing into a series of events that lasted an entire week, eventually leading to the creation of National Police Week in 2012. It has been known to draw in from twenty five thousand to forty thousand attendees from police departments across the United States and agencies throughout the world.

New Book Set To Discuss History of Londonderry Through News Articles

ALEX GUITTARR
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Local history buff and former writer for the Londonderry Times Sandy Dahlfred has recently completed her book which gives readers a glimpse into the past of Londonderry.

The book, titled "Londonderry Tales: Glimpses Into Londonderry, New Hampshire's Past", utilizes both her own articles and Londonderry news articles from as far back as colonial times to inform about the long history of this town.

Living in Lowell and Kingsborough for most of her life, Dahlfred took an interest in history from a young age after learning about topics like the Lowell Mill Girls, women from 12 to 30 who were recruited into the harsh working environments of textile mills during the Industrial Revolution. She moved to

New Hampshire in 1997 and joined the Londonderry Historical Society, eventually joining the Londonderry Times in 2008 and wrote with them until last year.

Dahlfred has also worked with Arcadia Publishing to help them to write produce a volume of their Images of America Series, this version based on New England. Founded in Dover, New Hampshire and now based in North Carolina, the Images of America Series essentially accomplishes the same goal as Dahlfred's book, showcasing the past of various regions and towns, as well as major events and incidents, albeit through pictures instead of news articles.

Over the last year, Dahlfred had been browsing through old news archives to piece together the history of Londonderry and producing this book, despite admitting to not having a large amount of writing experience. There is no one major topic of focus in the book, as she prefers to focus on as much as possible to encompass everything that makes Londonderry what it is. It is said to cover both subjects and specific events, with each chapter covering a new topic. Dahlfred is hoping the book will grab people's interest not only in Londonderry's past, but in history in general.

As for selling the book, Dahlfred will primarily advertise the book online, but will also be selling copies to local libraries and offering copies to the historical society, in the hopes that this will actually drum up support and membership for the society.

When asked what the biggest reason was that motivated her to produce the book, Dahlfred said that "this is my way of contributing."

Londonderry's Women's Club Hosting Annual Toy Swap Event

ALEX GUITTARR
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Londonderry Women's Club will be holding its 15 Annual Community Toy Swap on May 13 at Matthew Thornton Elementary School.

The toy swap, which happens to be the LWC's largest annual community project, starts by having anyone who wants to donate/sell toys to the event pick up a registration packet and use its contents to label, organize and price their items.

On the day of the toy swap, the toys are set up on a series of tables inside the school's gymnasium and proceed to sell as many of the items that they can. After the sale comes to an end, those who sold toys return to the school to retrieve the profits from the sale and any remaining toys that were not bought.

However, as this is a charity event, sellers will only get back 2/3 of the sales, while the other 1/3 goes back to the LWC. The money they receive will then be donated to the Community Alliance for Teen Safety. Founded in 1996 after a series of car crashes led to the deaths of 9 teenagers, CATS seeks to promote safe habits amongst youth by increasing awareness of high risk behaviors, encouraging healthy choices and fostering community alliances.

Having been active since the 1960's, the LWC's website notes that it "brings diverse women together, creating an environment that nurtures friendships while encouraging community involvement through volunteerism." Its mission is to commit to future generations by funding community projects to ensure the LWC's influence on the community.

It also gives out an annual $500 scholarship to any Londonderry woman seeking to improve her education.

The event will begin at 7:30 a.m., starting with seller registration until 9:00 a.m. The toys will be sold from 9:30 a.m. until noon, with sellers coming back to pick up their profits and remaining toys from 1:00 pm to 2:00 pm.

More information about the toy swap and the LWC in general can be found at <http://londonderrywomensclub.com/>.

The annual Londonderry Womens Club Toy swap is a favorite for the younger shoppers in town.

ence, to which Fillio mentioned he was a real estate agent for several years.

Recent resident Brendan O'Brien was next to be interviewed, seeking a spot on the Zoning Board. His family moved to Londonderry three years ago and has practiced law in New York, New Hampshire and Massachusetts, specializing in litigation and insurance defense work.

Farrell asked O'Brien what he thought about the direction of Londonderry, to which he approved of its direction, but also noted that it also "has a lot of opportunity for the future". He wants to preserve the character of Londonderry. Green asked O'Brien how he would achieve change on the Planning Board, to which he said that he would need to look at existing laws and address issues on a case-by-case basis. He also recognized the consequences of haphazardly removing laws.

Another new member to the community, Peter Commerford, was the third resident interviewed, he was also seeking a spot of the Planning Board. Commerford has lived in Londonderry for two months, grew up in the construction trade and is currently employed as an electrical engineer.

Green asked Commerford what his vision for the town would be in the next five to ten years. Commerford admitted he doesn't have much experience with the town, but believes the town is in good shape. Green also asked how he would address issues, with Commerford noting he too would view each issue on a case-by-case basis, asking as many questions as he could. He has had experience dealing with Planning Board in the past, particularly site easements concerning nearby road.

The final interviewee was Kris Kenney, also applying for an open position on the Planning Board. He has lived in Londonderry for six years, originally moving here for the school system, but growing to admire the town for its blend of nature and commerce.

Farrell asked Kenney how he felt about local speed limits and whether he was more concerned with town ascetics or planning, to which Kenney noted he was more concerned with planning. Green asked him what he would bring to the Planning Board, which Kenney responded to by noting his experience as a purchasing agent and construction experience. He was also very comfortable with the direction of Londonderry and would like to see the community come closer together.

After all interviews were completed, the council unanimously voted O'Brien on to the Zoning Board.

Kenney was not appointed to the Planning Board, the two vacant seats instead were given to Fillio and Commerford by a vote of four to one.

However, because Fillio's seat on the Heritage Commission was vacant, the seat was offered to Kenney, who elected to go up for the position. The council unanimously voted him into the seat.

Lady Lancer Softball Crew Mauls Merrimack to Remain Perfect

LONDONDERRY TIMES

After a week-long break from competitive action, the Londonderry High softball squad didn't miss a beat in pushing its 2017 record to a superb 6-0 this past Monday, May 1 by thumping the visiting Merrimack High Lady Tomahawks by a 6-1 tally at LHS.

The Lady Lancers hadn't played since Monday, April 24, when they shut out the visiting Exeter contingent in Londonderry 3-0. But after the vacation, the locals went back to work against a Merrimack crew which came into action with just one win in six games. And the

The Lancer squad plated all six of its runs before Merrimack was able to do any scoring, notching one run in the bottom of the first, two in the fourth, one more in the fifth, and then two more in the latter half of the sixth. The Lady Tomahawks finally snuffed out Londonderry's shutout hopes in the top half of the seventh frame.

The victorious hosts finished the contest with nine hits, with Katrina Rivard lacing two doubles, driving in two runs, and scoring one run. Ila Brown also smacked out two hits and scored twice, and Liz Niven also drove in two teammates with her one hit which came with her in a pinch-hitting role.

Andi Nelson snagged another pitching victory for her squad, which was left facing an extremely busy week in the wake of the mauling of Merrimack.

That slate had the locals on the road at Nashua South on Wednesday May 3 - after Londonderry Times press time - followed by a ride to the state capital to face the Concord High Crimson Tide the next day, which was to be followed by a shorter road run over to Derry to face off with the rival Pinkerton Academy Lady Astros in Beeman Trophy play on Friday May 5, weather permitting.

Lancer Hardball Crew Gets to 6-2 With Merrimack Win

CHRIS PANTAZIS
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Londonderry High baseball squad snagged its fifth win in its last six games and pushed its season record up to 6-2 with a 5-2 defeat of the host Merrimack High Tomahawks this past Monday, May 1.

The Lancers scored twice in the top of the first and twice more in the top of the second in racing out to a 4-0 lead, and the LHS team never lost the upper hand.

Londonderry's offense finishing the day with just five hits. But five was also the home-standing Tomahawks' hit total, with LHS starting pitcher and game-winner Nick Salcito giving his side six strong innings of hill work.

Andy Ross was the lone Londonderry batter to tally two hits, but Jonny Meskeil made his one hit count by lacing a double and driving in two of the Lancer runs. Nate Sullivan went hit-less but drew two walks and scored twice.

The team's schedule continues this week on Wednesday, May 3, with a home game against Nashua South, after Londonderry Times press time followed by a rematch against Pinkerton Academy to whom LHS lost in a one run game in their first meeting.

Lancer Laxmen Do More Winning, Bump Season Mark to 5-1

Face-off ace Tyler Grant has managed to contribute plenty to the LHS lacrosse offense this spring as well, and he scored twice vs. Portsmouth on Monday. Photo by Chris Paul

LONDONDERRY TIMES

Sean Snyder and Anthony Federico combined for seven goals in leading their Londonderry High boys' lacrosse squad to a 9-8 edging of the host Exeter High Blue Hawks on the seacoast last Thursday, April 27.

The Lancers, who advanced to 4-1 on the season with that success, received four goals from Snyder and three from Federico, with Pete Navarro and Merrill Neiman each tickling the twine in the Exeter net once. Navarro also dealt out three assists, and Dom Federico passed out one.

Face-off ace Tyler Grant won 15 of the 20 draws he battled for for the Lancers, and Londonderry goalie Alex Fawcett also had a big impact for the winners by contributing some 16 saves.

The Blue Hawks fell to 3-2 on the season with that defeat, but the Lancers came into this week looking at a Monday road match against another hosting seacoast opponent - the Division II powerhouse from Portsmouth High - which was a perfect 5-0 through its first handful of 2017 matches.

And the Lancers were all kinds of impressive on the seacoast this past Monday, thumping the host Portsmouth Clippers by an 11-6 tally with Snyder scoring three times and dishing out one assist, Grant scoring twice and excelling on draws again (13-for-15), Pete Navarro, Jake Holland, and Merrill Neiman each bagging a goal and a helper, and the Federico boys and Cullen Behling each contributing single scores.

The win put the team at 5-1 for the season.

In the wake of the resounding success at Portsmouth, the Lancer laxmen found themselves facing a pretty daunting and challenging schedule in their next few matches which would absolutely test any contingent.

The locals were to face a defending state champion Bishop Guertin bunch - fresh off of its slim loss to Pinkerton back on Monday - fully intent on getting back on the winning path at LHS on Wednesday May 3, after Londonderry Times press time.

Then comes a Beeman Trophy battle with undefeated Pinkerton in Derry on Friday May 5, followed by a run to Bedford on Monday.

Lancer Spikers Give Guertin a Real Battle But Fall, 3-2

CHRIS PANTAZIS
LONDONDERRY TIMES

In its first six matches of the 2017 season, the Londonderry High boys' volleyball squad showed plenty of spirit and fight but had zero match wins to show for its effort.

The Lancers put forth one of their most fiery performances Tuesday, April 25 in their own gymnasium in a tough, 3-2 loss to the visiting Bishop Guertin Cardinals from Nashua.

The Cards - who stepped into the match right at the .500 mark with a 2-2 season record - powered their way to a 25-9 blowout success in game

one. But the Lancers rebounded beautifully in game two in snagging a 25-18 success which evened the match score at 1-1.

The hosts then jumped into the lead where the match score was concerned by taking game two by a 25-23 score.

But Guertin knotted the match tally at 2-2 by winning game four by a margin of 25-20, and the visitors put the match away by taking game five by a 15-8 count.

"We started the match on our heels, but really dug in and performed well in sets two and three," said coach Dave Starin. "Once Bishop Guertin adjusted their strategy we weren't able to adapt and we missed some critical serves that really changed the momentum of the game when we attempted to make a comeback in set four."

Londonderry received 25 assists from Mike Vivian, 12 kills and three blocks from James Buttafuoco, some 11 service points with two aces from Matt Nickerson, and seven digs, six kills, and three service aces from Jackson Lycars.

In the wake of the tough, tight loss to BG, coach Starin and his charges were intent upon keeping their noses to the proverbial grindstone and continuing to work hard toward a first match victory.

"We have a full week of practice before our next match to really work on some technical and game-play fundamentals," said Starin. "Our younger players are also getting valuable varsity level experience that will help our present and future program succeed."

The Lancers stepped into this week looking at returning to match play on Wednesday, May 3 - after Londonderry Times press time - with a home battle against a Souhegan High Sabers' squad from Amherst which began its 2017 season struggling with an 0-4 record. Then comes a Beeman Trophy rematch with Pinkerton in Derry on Friday.

Lady Lancer Lax Crew Sees Win Streak Stopped by Pinkerton

CHRIS PANTAZIS
LONDONDERRY TIMES

After bagging its sixth consecutive victory by blowing out the Nashua North Lady Titans early last week, the Londonderry High girls' lacrosse squad had that winning streak stopped by the rival Pinkerton Academy Lady Astros in an incredibly tight, one-goal game at the end of the week.

The Lady Lancers pummeled North by a dozen goals at LHS on Tuesday, April 25 in bouncing their season record up to 6-1. But the week's competitive events came to a close for the Londonderry crew on Friday April 28 with a tough, 6-5 loss to Pinkerton.

In the 16-4 pummeling of North, the Lady Lancers received four goals apiece from Catie Derhak and Emily Holland, two apiece from Meghan Jackes, Erika Tsetsilas, and Kiersten Hoglund, and single tallies from Shannon Fraser and Camille Lamont. Single assists were dealt out by Sarah Duarte, Derhak, Tsetsilas, Hoglund, and Holland.

The hosts led 9-3 at halftime and then put the finishing touches on the massive success by outscoring their guests 7-1 in the second half.

The victorious locals received five saves from Kaitlyn Marchant and two from Morgan Brutus in the truly lopsided match.

However, the Friday battle with Pinkerton was tight throughout, sitting tied at 3-3 at the half before the visiting Lady Astros managed to be a single goal better than their hosts in the second half.

The Lancers received three goals from Tsetsilas and two from Holland, who also contributed one assist. Marchant was good for six stops in the LHS net, and she and her teammates were left looking ahead to a Beeman Trophy rematch with the defending state champs this coming Friday, May 5.

"My defense and goalie played a fantastic game. However, our lack of fight for ground balls at the draw and in the offensive end limited our scoring," said coach Scott Walden.

"It hurt us so much that we only really had nine actual offensive possessions. We scored on five of the nine, which is pretty good. My girls all came off after the game saying they know how much better they are than what they showed at midfield. Our defense and goalie, in my opinion, are the best in the state, and next Friday when the rest of the team comes to play it will be a different result."

The schedule for this week had the LHS contingent playing host to Bedford this Tuesday, May 2 - after Londonderry Times press time - prior to the big Friday rematch with Pinkerton.

Astros, Lancers Playing For Beeman Trophy on Friday

CHRIS PANTAZIS
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Pinkerton Academy grasps a 2-0 lead in the early stages of the 2017 Beeman Trophy games between the spring varsity sports teams from Pinkerton Academy and Londonderry High. But there's still a whole lot of intense competition to come this Friday, May 5 when Beeman Trophy play continues in earnest in Derry.

There will be no less than seven varsity athletic events taking place on the campus of Pinkerton that day, with possession of the Beeman Trophy and the bragging rights which come with that award lying in the balance.

The Astros snagged their 2-0 lead back on Tuesday, April 18 by collecting girls' and boys' track and field victories over at Londonderry High.

This Friday's action commences with tennis play at 3:30 on the Pinkerton courts behind Pinkerton's Stockbridge Theater.

Both baseball and softball will get rolling on their respective fields at 4, boys' volleyball (in the Hackler Gymnasium) and girls' lacrosse (on the PA football field) will commence at 5:30, and the boys' lax match is scheduled to be played under the lights on the Pinkerton football field beginning at 7.

Londonderry last won the Beeman Trophy in 2014, with Pinkerton going for a three-peat this spring after claiming it in both 2015 and 2016.

The Beeman Trophy games began back in the early 1990's - along with the winter Ball Family Trophy Games - following the success of the Mack Plaque games which were begun in the fall of 1983.

The Beeman Trophy is named for the beloved Mike Beeman, a Pinkerton graduate who both coached and taught at Pinkerton Academy and then Londonderry High before moving to Georgia with his family. He was inducted into the Londonderry High School Hall of Fame last fall.

LHS Tracksters Compete Well at 15th Black Bear Invitational

CHRIS PANTAZIS
LONDONDERRY TIMES

A slew of Londonderry High School athletes competed at the 15th Annual Black Bear Track and Field Invitational at Coe-Brown Northwood Academy in Northwood last Saturday, April 29. And a number of the Lancer males and Lady Lancers did quite well there.

The Lady Lancers had the bigger contingent of athletes in attendance at that annual competition, and the girls were paced by second place finishes from Maddy Croteau in the pole vault (an effort of 8 feet, 6 inches) and the 4x100-meter relay quartet (time of 51.81 seconds).

Other scoring, top-six performances were collected by Kalin Gregoire with a fifth in the 1,600-meter run (5 minutes, 23.69 seconds) and the Lady Lancers' 4x800 relay quartet (10:39.22).

Other top 20 finishes were delivered by Gillian Vilela in the unseeded

100-meter dash (seventh), Jess Brien in the 200 dash (seventh) and the high jump (12th), Julia Ethier in the unseeded 100 dash (12th), Brittany Fernandez in the unseeded 100 (14th) and the 200 dash (20th), Kiera Wright in the javelin (14th), Croteau in the 200 dash (15th), Devin Enwright in the javelin (16th), Bella Ziolek in the 400 (17th) and the triple jump (18th), and Jill Doris in the triple jump (19th).

Other Lady Lancer competitors included Julia Fothergill in the unseeded 100, Elizabeth Stubbs in the 800-meter run, Gianna DelViscovo in the pole vault, and Akolam Wambu and Lindsey Guenther in the discus and the shot put, and Paige Velie in the discus.

The Lancer males were paced by seasoned veteran Chris Zaino, who finished an impressive second in the 800 (1:58.77).

And Patrick Hagearty also bagged a top-six finish by placing fourth in the shot with his fine effort of 43'7". Additionally, Hagearty claimed a top-20 finish (14th) in the discus, as did his teammate Jared Barton (17th).

Other top 20 finishes by Londonderry High males were tallied by Dylan Hotter (14th) and Christian Smith (15th) in the 1,600. Coach Matt Smith's LHS males also had Shane McEachern compete in the long jump and Nathaniel Cohen compete against the crowd in the javelin.

Skilled long-jumper Shane McEachern was one of many Londonderry High tracksters who competed at the annual Black Bear Invitational in Northwood last weekend. Photos by Chris Paul Versatile and extremely talented Lady Lancer track standout Maddy Croteau helped her team to two high finishes - including one in a relay - at the Black Bear Invitational last Saturday.

Athletes of the Week

Week of April 24

Declan Hotter, Senior, Boys' Track and Field

This talented, battle-tested veteran set a new personal record in the 1,600-meter run at the recent Black Bear Invitational, running to a finish of 4 minutes and 35.74 seconds. He also helped the Lancers' 4x400 relay team run its fastest time of the season.

Kalin Gregoire, Junior, Girls' Track and Field

This talented middle-distance runner has really stepped up her game this spring, working diligently to become a powerful competitor and team leader. And the payoff came with a huge personal best and an impressive fifth place finish in the 1,600 at the Black Bear Invitational.

Eagle Project Benefits Local Agency and Its Clients

KATHLEEN D. BAILEY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Brenda Guggisberg, executive director of The Upper Room, expected a quality project when an Eagle Scout approached her about building a door to camouflage a storage area just off the entrance. She didn't expect a door worthy of HGTV.

"It's so Chip-and-Joanna-Gaines," she said, referring to the popular hosts of "Fixer-Upper." "It's aesthetically current, and perfect for this building, which is a remodeled farmhouse." She slid the big barn-style door, and it moved smoothly on its hinges.

Kenyon Schick, an Eagle Scout from Newfields, chose The Upper Room for his Eagle project. His remodel of two dated areas at the family service agency will help staff, and especially clients, feel more comfortable as they go about the business of strengthening families.

Guggisberg said Schick, the son of staff member Susan Schick, came to them inquiring about a possible project. Guggisberg has worked with corporate and civic volunteers before, and had a "wish list" of updates and upgrades. "We gave him some thoughts of things he could do both inside and outside," Guggisberg said. "He said he wanted to do the storage area and the waiting area."

Schick disappeared for a few months and the staff didn't hear from him. But when he resurfaced, it was with a shovel-ready, or at least hammer-ready, project.

"He had raised all the money and come up with a complete design," Guggisberg marveled.

And Schick had built the sliding door on his own. "It was sturdy, it met our needs, and it is beautiful and relevant to how people live today," Guggisberg said.

Schick also purchased chairs for the waiting area and set up the alcove, where clients can wait for an appointment with Guggisberg or any Upper Room staff member.

"He started in March, and he came in a couple of Saturdays with his volunteers, including some other Eagle Scout candidates," Guggisberg said.

Without Schick, the project wouldn't have happened, or would have had to wait for another volunteer, Guggisberg said. "As a not-for-profit, we don't necessarily have the capital to do this kind of work," she said. "This allows us to spend our money as the donors want, in providing direct services to clients."

And if those clients come in through an attractive foyer and have a comfortable place to wait, that's fine with Guggisberg. "The individuals who come to us for help," she said, "deserve to feel, 'you are valuable. You deserve a beautiful space.'"

To volunteer or sponsor a project, contact Guggisberg at 437-8477 or visit www.urteachers.org

Scoutmaster Funding Scout Trip Through Bird Houses With Donated Wood

ALEX GUITTARR
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Boy Scouts Troop 109 is seeking lumber donations for a fundraising project in preparation for an upcoming trip to Minnesota.

Dennis Menick, the current Scoutmaster of Troop 109, which is currently based out of the Londonderry United Methodist Church, is in the process of gathering as much lumber he can for his troop so that they can build and sell a variety of bird houses so that they can attend the Northern Tier High Adventure Camp in July of next year.

Menick is looking for wooden planks of any length, treated or untreated, that are 1 inch wide and 6 to 10 inches long. He said that they have three different designs for the bird houses and plan on selling them at various locations, including local flea markets.

The field trip is one of three that Boy Scouts can attend, others of which take place in Florida (Sea Base Adventure) and New Mexico (Philmont Scout Ranch), but in order to attend any of them, their troop must first enter a lottery and earn the right to go.

Northern Tier High Adventure Camp, based out of Ely, Minnesota in the Superior National Forest, is right on the border with Canada and is one of several High Adventure programs attended by the BSA, having been in operation since 1923. The trip in itself is a canoeing trip that will span 50 miles across 10 days and will include fishing, conservation projects and so on. The trip was described by Menick as similar to the adventures of Lewis and Clark, as the troops will be given basic amenities and not even be allowed to have phones on them, instead only having satellite phones in case of emergency. Northern Tier works in the Charles L. Sommers Canoe Base and assists over 4,000 scouts annually.

Menick himself was with the Boy Scouts for most of his childhood stayed until he was 18, when he decided to join the Army. He spent 25 years with the Army Communications division, eventually rising to the rank of Warrant Officer.

Upon leaving the Army, he learned that Troop 109 was seeking a new Scoutmaster, offered his help and has been with them for roughly a year. He also volunteers at Camp Carpenter in Manchester, which is a joint organization run by the BSA and the Daniel Webster Council that provides youth-development programs for families and community organizations. His son is currently in the Boy Scouts (in Troop 109), where is almost an Eagle Scout, while Menick's daughter volunteers at Camp Carpenter with him.

When asked about how the troops feel about the canoeing trip, Menick noted "they haven't done a high adventure...they are totally hyped up."

Menick will be accepting lumber donations until next spring. He can be contacted at (603) 965-4590 and will pick up the donated lumber himself.

Flea Market Holds Fundraiser for Pets

The word "flea" stirs up negative feelings in pet owners, as the creature is universally considered a plague among pets and people alike, but for the Greater Derry Humane Society (GDHS), that word will take on an entirely different meaning come June.

The Londonderry Flea Market is currently accepting donations for an upcoming fundraising sale on Saturday, June 17. All proceeds from the sale will benefit the GDHS helping to pay for food, supplies, and veterinary care for the animals in their care.

Requested and suggested items include kitchen items such as small appliances, dishes, glasses, pots and pans, home décor items such as pictures, figures, etc, toys including books, puzzles, games, CDs, DVDs (the vendors request that donors do not bring VHS tapes), and various other items including gardening equipment, outdoor decorations, small furniture, baby items, and jewelry (vendors request all jewelry be brought in small boxes).

Vendors will not be able to accept any electronics including television sets, VCRs, computers, printers, video game consoles, VHS tapes, used candles, linens, pillows, clothing, "junk drawer" items, or anything not in working order.

Those who would like to donate are asked to bring items already priced to the GDHS table before 8:00am on June 17. Donors are asked to call GDHS Board Member, Sue Bares, at (508) 498-7482 to find out where to go. Donors are advised that the GDHS has limited opportunity for items to be obtained ahead of time, and those who would like to inquire about that possibility are asked to contact GDHS Treasurer, Sharon Comeau, at (603) 231-3265. General inquiries are also to be directed to either Bares or Comeau at their respective phone numbers.

For more information on the Greater Derry Humane Society, call (603) 434-1512 or visit derryhumanesociety.com.

I HATE THE DENTIST

Is this you? Modern dentistry can be pain free. Our office and staff provide a safe and supportive experience.

Our office offers Botox and Filler, as well as cosmetic, prosthetics, implant, dentures, root canals, routine dentistry, Zoom whitening (bleaching) and cleanings.

We offer nitrous oxide and can reverse the numbness after a procedure.

We take most insurance plans. We also offer a $149.00 New Patient special for uninsured patients. This includes a cleaning, Full Mouth X-ray, exam and oral cancer screening (over $400 value).
