Local Man Faces Challenges With His Gift of Life Request

MACK LEATHURBY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Coping with any physical, life threatening illness is tough, though having a community circle of friends and parents near to your heart at difficult times is a light that shines in the dark forest to help find a way home. And having a dog named Moose, who is as big as can be and who brings joy and happiness — helps to keep that light focused on each precious moment of a life.

At the end of January 2018, Corey Oliverio of Londonderry had suffered a collapsed lung that put him in the hospital again, though that stay is just one of the many battles he has faced since he was diagnosed with an obscurely rare lung disease named bronchiolitis obliterans. In this hospital emergency, Corey's

Four Candidates Running For Two Town Council Seats

At the March 12 Election voters will be asked to make a choice between four candidates that are running for two, three-year seats on the Town Council.

In an effort to give each candidate a opportunity to tell the voters why they should vote for them, the Londonderry Times reached out to each or them. Paul Skudlarek did not respond to our request.

Tom Dolan (incumbent)

I believe we are at a critical inflection point in our community. Proven leadership and experience is needed to move Londonderry forward.

Development and taxes?

The pace of commercial/industrial development near the airport is finally accelerating. The new tax revenue allows us to shift the tax burden from residential payers to commercial/industrial payers. The town tax rate has decreased for 5 years. Let's keep it going down.

What about the Woodmont Orchards sale?

I've been a longtime advocate of preserving our quality of life in Londonderry by preserving our open spaces. I was initially disappointed that we were not able to preserve Woodmont like the other orchards in town. My disappointment prompted me to rejoin the Council in 2010 to help shape the development.

What guides my decision-making?

I use 2 filters to guide me. First, is it good for the town? Second, is it good for the taxpayers? It takes both for my support.

Who is Tom Dolan?

Moved to Londonderry in 1986. Married to Kate Dolan, retired Londonderry teacher. Graduated from West Point; and

Town Council Gets Update On Woodmont Commons

RACHEL CISTO
LONDONDERRY TIMES

At the Feb. 11 Town Council meeting, both council members and the public got an update on the 600-acre Woodmont Commons project, including a little history and an explanation of why the town chose to use a development agreement.

Discussion about Woodmont Commons began several years ago. Developed and owned by Pillsbury Realty Development, the first phase of the multi-use development is scheduled to open later this year and will feature a mix of residential and commercial space, including the 603 Brewery.

The development will include an estimated 832,500 square feet of retail space, 1,300 new homes, and 700,000 square feet of commercial space.

The plan, available on the Woodmont Commons website, also includes senior housing, green space, and three hotels.

According to attorney Ari Pollack of Concord-based firm Gallagher, Callahan and Gartrell, who represents the developers, the agreement solidifies rules for both the developers and the town, while granting a little flexibility.

"It works really well when you're not sure what you're building but you know it's out of the box," Pollack said at the meeting.

The project has a 20-year timeline, noted Pollack. He said it was necessary since "the market can change a lot in 20 years," and the agreement ensures that the project will benefit Londonderry when complete.

"And," he added, "you have the comfort to know that everyone is going to step up and do their part."

earned a Masters Degree from Pepperdine University. After leaving the Army, worked from an engineer to an executive in several companies. My personal values are "Pay it Forward" and "Service to others". My heroes are those who serve their country/community in uniform.

In Summary

Londonderry is at a critical inflection point about to experience more development. We need experienced leadership to navigate through these uncertain times.

Please vote Tom Dolan on March 12.

John Farrell (incumbent)

My name is John Farrell and I have been a member of the Town Council since 2010. Prior to 2010 I served on the Planning Board for 11 years. I have had the privilege of living in Londonderry for over 20 years. I love this town. I first got involved in local town government for many reasons, but one of the major reasons was my Father. Growing up my Dad was always involved in our local government and I saw first-hand the difference that he made. I lost my dad over 20 years ago, but he still inspires me every day. The second reason that I decided to get involved in our local government was my mother-in-law Pearl Cummings who worked at Shaw's for many years and loved our town.

As a member of the town council, I have been driven to protect our community. I believe that the people of this town are what make us the best community in New Hampshire. The Council has strived to listen to the citizens of our town and to ensure that their voices heard.

Tom Dolan

The third reason that I joined our local government was my family. My wife grew up in Londonderry and so have my daughters. Now as young adults, our daughters both plan to stay in the Londonderry area and they inspire me to constantly think about Londonderry's future. I humbly ask for your vote on March 12th. Let's continue to build a great community together.

Debra Paul

A vote for Deb Paul on May 12, means you believe our Town Council should listen to the community, respect public opinion and make educated decisions on the issues presented. It means you value transparency, efficiency and common sense.

I am not new to political, but I am new to running for office. This may seem like a disadvantage, but if you think about it, there is actually a benefit in choosing someone who is coming in fresh, with a new perspective.

The person you choose to represent residents on the board should speak for the entire town. If you vote for me for Town Council, I promise to always get your opinions before making any decisions.

Residents should have a say in the actions that will affect you. I encourage everyone to come to me with your ideas, and I promise to listen and speak for you.

I already have a public record of representing our residents' on critical issues in the town. I have expressed strong opinions about over-development, our burgeoning traffic and safety issues. I've been discussing these issues for many years with hundreds of residents who've echoed these same concerns.

My voice is for sensible change, with a more proactive than reactive way to deal with current and future problems.

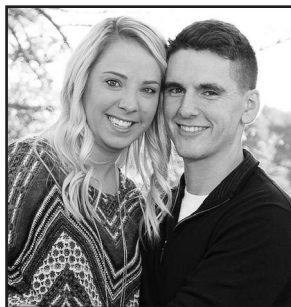

I am fully prepared to take on this role without hesitation, with the courage to vote my conscience and with the heart to fully represent our residents' concerns.

I have the integrity, temperament, courage and a strong work ethic to make a positive impact.

I love this town, and welcome the responsibility to help shape the future of Londonderry for our children and generations to come.

Engagement Announcement

Lindsey Elefante And Thomas Sullivan

James and Candace Elefante formerly of Londonderry are pleased to announce the engagement of their daughter, Lindsey, to Thomas Sullivan, son of David and Susan Sullivan.

The bride-to-be graduated from Londonderry High School in 2008. She earned her Bachelor's Degree in Elementary Education and Special Ed from Endicott College in 2012, and then her Master's Degree from Lesley University. She is a 3rd grade teacher in Concord, New Hampshire.

The groom-to-be is a 2009 graduate from Londonderry High School and graduated from Manchester Community College in 2013 with a degree in Exercise Science. He is co-owner of the gym Effective Fitness in Londonderry, NH.

A July 2019 wedding is planned.

Editorial

Meager Masses

We weren't surprised by yet another poor turnout at Deliberative Sessions in the area. A place were you can, lower, zero out, or increase budgets and warrant articles. High numbers and Deliberative Sessions definitely do not go hand in hand; in spite of taxes and an explanation or question on warrant articles can take place and be tweaked before going on the ballot

Many town's have adopted the SB2 Deliberative Session it hope of attracting more voters, and have all articles voted on by ballot. This got rid of the traditional New England town meeting, and switch to SB2.

Even though more people vote, compared to the number of registered voters, voter turnout is still very low

To give that some context, Hampstead has about 7,000 registered voters, Chester, with about 6,000 voters Sandown 4,500, and in much larger towns like Derry with about 22,000 and Londonderry with about 19,000. Only about 2,000 to 4,000 people show up to vote for town elections. We'll spare you the pitiful percentages.

In some cases, surprisingly enough, they represent a better turnout than usual. Do these figures mean that all the other voters agreed with the numerous articles on the town and school warrants and are ready for the voting booth March 6, highly unlikely. Ask the question are the people who represent you doing an outstanding job or just getting it done be honest

Regardless of what the majority of voters were doing that was more important than attending Deliberative Session, the next chance to participate in democracy is the March 12 election. You've got some time to study the candidates read about them in our pages and boost your knowledge of the issues that will appear on the warrant. We encourage you to study the numbers, check out candidate forums, ask questions, and verify what proponents and opponents of a particular warrant article are telling you.

This year's election has attracted, in most cases, a choice among candidates. Make your vote an informed one. If people have made the effort to offer their time for public service, we owe them, at the very least, enough interest to pay attention to their words and if their words are platitudes, agendas and generalities, to demand answers to the tough questions

Local politics matters and is bipartisan. We have far more of a say in town and school elections than in any other election. Send in letters letting other know how you feel and who you support. So maybe you missed your chance to participate at Deliberative Session. For your own good and the good of the community, please get out and vote on March 12.

Vote to have our Voices heard

To the editor,

I met Deb Paul when I attended a few town meetings regarding growth. I appreciated her involvement at these meetings. Deb is always asking questions, looking for answers and wants accountability.

She is passionate about her town, wants to understand decisions that are made and why. Over the last year or two, I have heard (and read!) that people are upset that our voices are not being heard. If you agree, then it is time for change.

Deb would be a great addition to our Town Council.

Please Vote Jenn Ganem

To the editor,

My daughter, Jenn Ganem, is running for re-election to School Board. Personally, I think she's crazy because I see, firsthand, how much time it takes out of her schedule, but I know it's important to her. I know she's not the kind of person who'll sit around and wait for someone else to change things. Jenn's father and I instilled in her that if you want something to change, you need to be the change. She comes from a long line of educators and nurses, as well as determined, compassionate, and realistic women. She fights for what she feels is right and for any underdog. She doesn't believe in an "adequate education", but rather she believes in academic excellence and equality for all.

When I moved in with her family a couple of years ago, I told her Londonderry was a nice community. Her response was it's a big town with a small town feel. She's right, but it's more than that. As a retired teacher, I'm impressed with all the activities the children in this community have. The more involved the kids are, the more involved the parents are. The more parents' converse with one another, the more it feels like a community. A community that supports its schools is a community worth living in and, therefore, drives up the sale/resale value of the homes in said community. As a senior, I think that's a win-win. That's why I'll vote for my daughter, Jenn Ganem.

Marguerite F. Ganem,

Re-elect John Farrell

To the editor,

I am writing this letter on behalf of John Farrell in his quest to be Re-elected to the town council of Londonderry. I have known John for Twenty years, as my councilman, neighbor and friend. Many times when I've had questions about matters before the council, I would ask John as to the facts in the matter. I found him to be passionate in protecting the interests of the town and its citizens.

Now for a side of John few people know. He presents a gruff exterior, in reality he is a softy. He is kind, caring and loving and all the platitudes in the boy scout oath fit him perfectly. Often after a snow storm, I look out the window and John is clearing my mailbox, knowing his mailbox had been plowed in, he knew mine also was. Or if the snow continues after my plow man has been and left, John can be seen coming down the street behind his snow blower.

Twenty years have passed since my moving here, John has become Middle-aged and I have become eighty-five, frequently ill and disabled.

I would not be able to live alone if not for the help from John and his wife Sherry and two daughters, Mackenzie and Meredith. He calls on the way to the grocery store to see what I need. He and Sherry take me to my doctor and hospital visits. They check on me daily to make certain that I am okay. If I don't hear or answer the phone, they come to house to make certain I am okay. (They have the lock code)

At the polls please consider John Farrell for town council, He has the experience and the passion to continue to serve the citizens of Londonderry well.

Bob Slater for School Board

To the editor,

It is a temptation that exists for all human beings, especially those seeking elected office - for talk and hype to replace action.

Coach Bob Slater, candidate for the Londonderry School Board, is the antithesis of talk and hype. Coach Bob Slater is a man of action. Silent action, I may add.

By that I don't mean he sits quietly by when something immoral or wrong is taking place without standing up to it. His character wouldn't tolerate that. I'm talking about his action in giving back to a community that he feels has given him so much.

In the same way that integrity is doing the right thing when no one is watching, Coach Bob Slater can often be found working behind the scenes (where no one is watching) to make our town and schools a better place. This is not something that he's only recently started doing in a hope to help his chances in getting elected. For over 30 years, he's been quietly giving his time, his resources and in many cases, his own money for one reason; to make it better for the kids and for the town.

In actuality, silence is strength. It always has been. Silence is truly the respite of the confident and strong. For through effort and action do you get measurable results all without having to say a single word or create any hype to build your position.

Show me, don't tell me.

Coach Bob Slater taught me that through his example. That's also called leadership.

As a father to four children under age 10, I could not be more at ease knowing that Coach Bob Slater has the opportunity to sit on the school board in an official capacity that will give him greater influence in his mission to get measurable results for our town.

Put him in that position and let your vote be validated as he does what he does best through action and humility. And be refreshed in knowing that action and humility really do still exist and are alive and well here in Londonderry.

Respectfully,
Bo Butler
Londonderry

I'm With Deb Paul

To the editor

I am voting for Deb Paul for Town Council and here's why. Deb has been involved with all facets of town government since she moved to Londonderry. She regularly attends all departments meeting and has served on the Heritage Committee, Charter Commission, Master Plan and Master Plan Steering Committee. She has also helped with many local groups including the Salvation Army, Blues Fest, Concerts on the Common, The Upper Room, Care givers, and Sonshine Soup Kitchen just to name a few. She is also active on the YMCA board in Londonderry. Deb has a very good understanding of where we are as town, and what needs to be done.

She has great ideas on how to do things better and faster, and step outside the "we've always done it that way" mentality. She is honest, fair, willing to discuss new ideas and loves this town. We need to do things better, be more efficient and be 100% transparent in all facets of government.

I urge you to go to her Facebook page www.facebook.com/Vote-Deb-Paul-for-Town-Council-357258431532234/ and check out what she stands for and her ideas. We need Deb on Londonderry's town council!!

The Cost of a Wall

To the editor,

Now that Congress seems to have come to some sort of compromise,

I cannot help pondering the cost of this "fence/wall".

$1.375 billion dollars for 55 miles. Big numbers that are hard to put in an everyday context. Try doing a little arithmetic. That is $4,735 per foot! If you live on a typical 1 acre lot in Londonderry (290 ft. x 150 ft.) and want to put up a security fence around it that would cost you $4,170,455.

Whatever side of the argument you are on - consider those numbers.

David Ellis
Londonderry

Ganem for School Board

To the editor,

First, I would like to say that it has been a privilege and honor to serve as a member of the School Board for the past three years. It's my hope that I will be re-elected so I can address the rising enrollment in the federally required Londonderry Early Education Program, as well as our kindergarten and the elementary schools. The challenge will be determining the most fiscally conservative manner in which to do this while maintaining the academic excellence for which the Londonderry School District is known.

My first year on School Board was spent learning about NH education laws and our District's policies. I must have met the Board's expectations, because I was unanimously nominated to Vice Chair my second year. Then this year, I was unanimously nominated to Chair which is both an honor and a significant responsibility. I approached being Chair in the same manner as I approach any new task; I set goals. My first goal was to increase Student Voice by encouraging more student-involvement with the School Board. At the Old Homes Day Parade this August, our elementary students helped the Board dispense candy to those along the parade route, and our older students dressed up as school mascots. We have also had several impressive presentations from students about issues that were important to them and a plan of action. For example, the Class of 2018 regarding the electronic sign for LHS; the MTS student who introduced us to the IGYB (I've Got Your Back) Program; and two LHS students regarding their senior project of piloting the use of a therapy dog for reading classes; and the LMS students who proposed dress code changes. I could provide more examples, all of which make me incredibly proud of our students.

My second goal was to address school safety. I feel strongly that we all should feel safe in our environment. In addition to approving increased security upgrades for our campus, I lead the charge for our teachers and staff to be trained for the God-awful possibility of an active shooter situation. While I pray we never need to utilize these safety measures, failing to plan is not an option in today's world. My third goal was to initiate a thorough review of the School Board Policy Book. If you've watched our recent meetings, or looked at the District's website, you've seen that this process has begun and will continue through next year.

Like most in town, you probably moved to Londonderry because of its great school and remarkable community. That community - even if you don't have children in the schools - is every taxpayer's return on investment. By having engaged students and parents, we create a little town feel in a rather large town. When the schools are known for their academic rigor, strong athletic programs, internationally-known music program, and a wide breadth of extra and co-curricular activities, it increases your home's value.

I hope to have your support on March 12th,
Jenn Ganem
Londonderry

Support Bob Slater

To the editor

I am writing to express my support for Bob Slater in his efforts to be elected to the Londonderry School Board. I have known Bob for over thirty years and during that time Bob has devoted countless hours to the community of Londonderry. Through his efforts and donation of time and expense Southern New Hampshire Poured Concrete Construction built the Londonderry High School weight room and the cable studio foundation. Bob coached the girls' lacrosse program at Londonderry High for years setting high standards for individual performance and student achievement culminating in a state championship. He founded a successful business located in Londonderry. I believe Bob has the experience and leadership qualities necessary to stabilize and influence budgets, student achievement and the growth and goals of the school district in providing equal education opportunities to all children. Bob's commitment to the continued excellence in Londonderry's school system and the community is exemplified through his experience, dedication and service. Therefore, please vote for Bob Slater for Londonderry School Board.

Deb Paul is the Best Candidate for Council

To the editor,

As a "concerned" citizen of Londonderry, I have been an observer of our town government for many years. During that time, I have witnessed a great advancement in the quality of people on our board.

On March 12, two seats will open up and make way for others to step up and fill that role.

Gift of Life

lung had filled to the point of nearly stopping him from breathing and the doctors saved him. Though at this point in time, Corey is susceptible to pneumonia and other lung ailments that could put him in jeopardy and his future depends on a double lung transplant.

However, Olivero is a fighter with a strong, positive attitude. He says his Father, who is a best friend of his, came up with the slogan: 1 day longer, 1 day stronger and that phrase is his daily mantra that keeps him robust and focused. Corey has the will to overcome this challenge to proceed to God's plan for his life. He has put himself on a healthy diet aligned for his body to take on the lifesaving transplant this year.

Corey now 29, attended Londonderry High school and enjoyed many athletic programs. He was a wrestler, who also played soccer and lacrosse. Corey also likes winter sports including snowboarding. My bet is that with the help of a lung transplant that Corey will get back to certain sports endeavors again. However, Corey and his family need our help, so he can get back to his life's calling first.

When he was first

diagnosed in 2016, Corey's condition deteriorated rapidly to the point where this disease affected his ability to breathe. He was sidetracked by the impact of the disease for a good time period and even had to relearn how to breathe and speak again. He is now headed down a top notch medical path as a patient of Boston's Brigham and Women's hospital to prepare his body for the transplant. His intention is to be ready for the lung donor list as soon as possible. Brigham and Women's Lung Center is at the forefront of global medical technology to treat respiratory and lung diseases and to do lung transplants.

I found that Corey has a great outlook on life. He lives in the moment, while planning for the future; though he is constrained in activities, and can't go from his home to work anymore, he takes in the simple joys around him. We talked about the mental preparedness and balance needed to face life threatening problems, and I found that Corey has an inner focus with an authentic sparkle in his soul that is contagious in a most wonderful way. He is a brilliant person to get to know... and I ask others to get to know him and support him, as he is the kind of person who appreciates others' considerations and could use our help at this critical moment.

As he prepares for his medical procedure, he is in the good company of his parents and his friends including a man's best friend, his dog Moose. This dog is a German Shorthaired Pointer, who is now three years old and still thinks he is a puppy. Moose is affectionate and intelligent, as well as boisterous and cooperative. Corey and Moose did obedience training and Moose is good learner. Corey says every day at exactly 5:30pm that Moose brings his dog food dish to him, so the they can have supper together.

The transplant such as Corey needs will likely cost more than a million dollars and insurance will cover only a small portion of the costs. And Olivero will face weighty expenses for pre-surgery procedures and follow-up work. After the transplant, he will need specialized care and daily anti-rejection medications. These types of medications are expensive, and they're critical to his survival.

As he is now being unable to work due to his declining health, his financial burdens are compounded. The prognosis after such a lung transplant is good, though there are many variables such as getting healthy organs and finding the right size donor organ.

Olivero's unique situation has deepened his spiritual quest and he finds his way to church often these days. Corey just wants to go back to work and get on with his life and start a family of his own. But right now, he needs your support if you can help.

Olivero advocates for everyone to become organ donors and to give the gift of life. He politely points out that he has a fund set up, if you can consider to help him through the National Foundation for Transplants. You can go to www.Transplants.org

The homepage there has place where you can search for Corey Olivero and support him with a tax-deductible donation to NFT in honor of Corey. You can also consider sending a donation by mail; please send it to the NFT New Hampshire Transplant Fund, 5350 Poplar Avenue, Suite 850, Memphis, TN 38119. Please be sure to write "in honor of Corey Olivero" on the memo line. Thank you for your kindness and consideration!

OBITUARY

Lisa J. Evarts

Lisa J. Evarts, 59, of Londonderry, NH died Thursday Feb. 14, 2019 at her home surrounded by her loving family. Lisa was born in Cambridge, MA, a daughter of Aurelia (Coelho) Scorgie and the late Thomas Scorgie. Lisa had lived in Londonderry since 1997.

Lisa was an avid reader and accomplished musician, a graduate of Emanuel College, Miss Massachusetts, Regional Access Director for Harron Cable, Creative Director of SMART wheel Inc., and dedicated mother and teacher of her three children. Lisa's life was a testament to the love and peace found in fulfilling God's will. She always saw past the issues people experience to the person beneath, investing in them and helping them reach beyond their skills, talents, and understanding. Advisor, councilor, friend, mother, and wife, Lisa lives on in the hearts and lives of the people she has touched and raised up throughout her journey, celebrating a victorious life in Christ Jesus.

She is survived by her husband of 24 years, Brian Evarts of Londonderry, three children, Tristan, Jaiden, and Bryeton Evarts all of Londonderry, her mother Aurelia Scorgie of North Attleboro MA, and sister, Stephanie Sloman of Pascoag RI.

Calling hours will be held on Wednesday Feb. 20, from 5 - 8 p.m. in the Peabody Funeral Homes & Crematorium, 290 Mammoth Rd., Londonderry. A celebration of Lisa's life will be held on Thursday Feb. 21, at 6 p.m. at the First Assembly of God Church, 45 Miles Dr., Auburn. Burial will be in the spring in Pillsbury Cemetery, Londonderry. Deb Paul, for Town Council. Deb is a great businesswoman, and a small business owner with experience in management and operations of not only her business but also all types of business because of her business. She is enthusiastic, open-minded, friendly and outgoing. She will work hard for us on the board.

I believe Deb would make the best candidate to lead Londonderry as we face many challenges and opportunities. I urge you to join me in voting for Deb Paul Londonderry Town Council.

Leeanne Casarano
Londonderry

We Need Someone New

To the editor

I believe Londonderry needs some new people and ideas in our Town government. Local government affect each of us more than any other. It is sad that more people in our town do not make it to the polls or to the town and school deliberative sessions, when it is time to participate and have a say in our local elections.

Deb Paul knows a great deal about what has been happening in Londonderry for years. Deb Paul owns and operates The Londonderry Times, our local paper. The Londonderry Times covers all of the important news that happens here in Londonderry; therefore she is very informed about town government.

I believe she will make a great Town Councillor. She is a caring person and is determined to act in the best interests of all Londonderry residents. I intend to support her candidacy in our upcoming election in March 12. It makes no sense to complain if you don't take the time to vote in our local elections. The polls will be opening earlier this year at 6 a.m. and stay open until 8 p.m. That should accommodate everyone's schedule. If you are not going to be in town get an absentee ballot at the Town Hall. Please Come Out And Vote - Every Vote Counts!

Vote Vicki Stachowske for Library Trustee

To the editor,

During my tenure as a Trustee of the Leach Library, I had the distinct honor of serving with Vicki Stachowske. Vicki was always a strong supporter of the library, and her advocacy and enthusiasm aided greatly to the library's vision and success. After taking time to care for her family, Vicki, who has always had the library at heart, has decided to once again dedicate her time and efforts to steering the library into the future by providing the best service for the residents of our community. Hence, I am asking for your support for her candidacy in the upcoming election.

Vicki, who is a medical professional and a long-term resident of Londonderry, has previously served as a library Trustees for nine years. She also served as a State Representative in Concord for two terms, as well as a member of the Londonderry Budget committee. In addition, she remains an active member of the Friends of the Londonderry Leach Library who raise money for numerous children's and adult programs. She is fiscally conservative, and she knows how allocate resources frugally, yet responsibly and effectively. Additionally, she has the ability to build a good rapport with other library trustees and staff.

I recommend Ms. Stachowske highly since she brings experience, a proven track record, and an unwavering dedication to make sure that the Leach Library has a successful future. I encourage you to vote for Vicki Stachowske for the Trustee of the Leach Library this coming March.

Vote Yes for Keno

To the editor,

I am strongly urging my fellow residents of Londonderry to get out to vote on March 12th, and to please vote Yes for 603 Keno. Before NH passed keno, residents of NH had to drive to Massachusetts to play keno, which they did in droves. Now that NH has keno, people who want to play a few games over lunch or dinner have to seek out the towns who currently have passed it. From all reports coming from the establishments who offer keno, sales of food and liquor have dramatically risen. It is up to the establishment themselves to determine if they want keno or not. Obviously not all places will be interested in offering it, but some will. As a Son of American Legion member of Post 27, our members are clearly excited about the prospect of not having to travel to Manchester, Hudson etc to play. I am also certain that the leadership of Post 27 would love to have an additional revenue stream for further helping out veterans in need. Extra money for the Post could mean a tank of fuel, a food donation, or monetary considerations for a veteran in need, or donations to other charities. In the budget committee meeting, Christine Patton commented she wouldn't want the "noise" of keno in a place she went to. For the record, keno is a silent game on a TV screen, and sporting events on the TV's create more reaction than keno ever does. Keep in mind not all places will carry it anyways. We shouldn't be so short sighted to not pass keno. In last weeks letters, the owner of The Stumble Inn substantiated the fact that patrons are going to other towns to play. While I do understand Londonderry at this time doesn't reap the benefits for Kindergarten, it doesn't mean that can't change in the future either.

Respectfully,
Andrew Hamer

Count on Tom Dolan

To the editor,

As a retired Londonderry schoolteacher and as a resident of Londonderry for over 30 years I have observed Londonderry go through many positive community changes on both the town side and in the schools. As a teacher, I have the training to teach but also observe and as a voter in our town there are some important traits that I have observed in town councillor Tom Dolan: a candidate for Town Council re-election on March 12th.

- His Effective Leadership Counts
  - His Understanding The Complexity Of Town Government Counts
  - His Open, Honest And Respectful Communication Counts
  - His Commitment To Protect All Londonderry Taxpayers Counts
  - His Integrity And Professionalism Counts
  - His Vision For Community Improvement Counts
- When an individual wants to give back to Londonderry by continuing to serve on the Town Council they have made a commitment to the "Counts" I listed. More changes are facing Londonderry in our near future. In that context, a voter can trust Tom Dolan's experience and vision to guide our town through these future changes knowing the results for our community will be stable and strong.

To my fellow Londonderry residents I encourage a vote for Tom Dolan on March 12th. Make your vote "count".

Thank you,

Vote Deb Paul

To the editor

It is my belief that it is always good to get new blood on the council. Deb cares deeply about our town and is pragmatic in her approach to problem solving and creative in her solutions.

The time is right for change and Deb is my choice to bring it.

Get out and vote

Sam Drazin Educates Students about “Changing Perspectives”

JENNIFER BERNARD
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Last Monday morning, North School students sat silently in wonder, when special guest speaker, Sam Drazin, Executive Director from the nonprofit organization “Changing Perspectives” graciously greeted the young audience. As he began sharing his personal story, children were mesmerized listening to the many challenges Drazin recounted as a child and teen.

Like the main character, Auggie Pullman, in the R.J. Palacio book and 2017 film “Wonder,” Drazin has the congenital disorder Treacher Collins Syndrome: a rare genetic condition that affects craniofacial bones and tissue in 1 per 50,000 people, causing physical abnormalities.

“When I was born, I was born a little bit differently than you,” said Drazin. “Not all of the bones in my face were grown all the way.” He then projected a happy picture of himself onto a screen as a child. There was a low, curious murmur, as the polite and attentive schoolchildren noticed that the face in the picture looked a little unusual. “I’ve had seven different surgeries on my face and wear a hearing aid,” Drazin continued. As he switched pictures, he told the children to pay special close attention to the little boy’s ears in the slide. “Now, I want you to turn to the person next to you, and talk about what you notice looks different about the boy’s ears.”

When students finished conversing, Drazin mentioned that when he was born, his ears looked different too. Directing students to touch and feel their ears, he asked if any of them knew the name of the skin they were feeling. “Cartilage,” correctly responded a second grade boy. “That’s right,” said Drazin.

Drazin went on to describe a surgery he had at the age of five, when doctors removed cartilage from his ribs, using it to recreate ears like his peers. “I’m still missing part of my ear though,” telling kids while gesturing to his ear. “Part of my ear canal is still missing. When I was young, I couldn’t always tell where sounds were coming from.” He went on to explain, “Sound travels to your brain, and it tells you what you’re listening to. That part of the maze in my brain works, but the sound can’t get in.” Pointing to the black hearing aid camouflaged to match his dark hair, the former elementary school teacher demonstrated how it worked. “When I was your age, I still had a hearing aid, but it was a lot bigger than it is now. Drazin had the young audience giggling, as he reminisced and told a favorite boyhood story. “When I was bad, there were some good things about having a hearing aid. If my parents were lecturing me, I could turn the hearing aid down or off, and just smile until they were done talking. Then, I would go out and play.”

Since Drazin removes his hearing aids at night, he said that he uses a special alarm clock to know when it’s time to wake up. The clock is built with three helpful features; a bright light bulb that blinks, extra loud volume, and a vibrating function. Every night, he places his alarm clock under his pillow. When it begins shaking, it’s time to get out of bed.

The slide presentation continued into Drazin’s teen years. During this period, he had surgical procedures to correct his jaw, small chin, and nose. “My jaw was a little more pushed back, so doctors went inside my mouth and moved everything. They wired my mouth shut for four weeks, while the bones healed into the new position.”

A concerned, eight year old member of the audience asked, “How did you eat or drink when your mouth was shut?”

responded, “At first I thought it would be awesome. I had a lot of blended up ice cream and milkshakes, but after a week I got bored.” Deciding to get more creative, he tried smoothies made of spaghetti and meatballs, as well as macaroni and cheese. Whenever it became too difficult to drink from a straw, he used a syringe.

“The next surgery I had was when I was a little bit older,” said Drazin. “I had nose surgery, because it was hard to breathe.” He mentioned that a person with Treacher Collins Syndrome typically has a nose that isn’t proportionate to one’s face. His nose was resculpted into a new position. “Your nose is also made of cartilage,” he stated.

“So why am I here telling you about this?” asked Drazin. Switching to the next picture in his slide presentation, the word “Kindness” appeared in big, bold letters. He proceeded to tell children the importance of learning to accept individual differences in one another. It may be how a person looks, acts, or what they are wearing. Drazin mentioned not to judge someone until you get to know them.

Students watched a video that brainstormed various acts of kindness from a child’s point of view. Examples included: sharing, not excluding people from activities or conversations, showing sympathy, and helping out those in need.

Following the book release of “Wonder” in 2012, Drazin assembled a lecture series focusing on Treacher Collins Syndrome and acceptance. After the success of his tour, Drazin decided to create “Changing Perspectives,” an initiative which promotes awareness, compassion and inspiring empathy. Based out of Bradford, Vermont, the nonprofit initially served the New England region, but is gaining momentum nationally.

When asked if people made fun of him growing up, Drazin answered, “I feel pretty lucky. People didn’t make fun of me, but I would see them point and look at me.” He does remember somber moments in middle school, when he sometimes felt invisible and alone. “Some kids wouldn’t talk to me or include me. It was really hard.” By high school, he transferred to a school where he felt more comfortable and welcomed. “You learn from all experiences: good and bad.”

Drazin believes that “Changing Perspectives” will provide a platform for schools to improve disability awareness and acceptance of all people. While he is confident today, he reminded students that he didn’t always feel that way. Thanking his newly informed audience for their hospitality, he concluded with a final thought: “I hope you are thinking a little more about being kind to everybody no matter what makes them different.”

Planning Board Continues New Zoning District Discussions

RACHEL CISTO
LONDONDERRY TIMES

At the Feb. 13 meeting, the Londonderry Planning Board discussed plans to create a new commercial zoning district in town.

The new zone would be the "commercial performance zone" and would cover properties in the NH-28 and NH-102 corridors that are currently zoned commercial 1 or commercial 2, or that have the "performance overlay district" designation.

The performance zone would consolidate these different zones into one uniform district and create performance standards, including for landscaping and architecture. According to town planner Colleen Mailloux, businesses along NH-28 that would be affected are mainly zoned commercial 2, which is the more "intense" commercial zone, or already hold conditional use permits for their properties.

She also said some of the mixed-use commercial properties off Exit 5 would also be included in this new district.

Mailloux said the intent was to balance clarification of the district rules - which can sometimes be a source of confusion - while maintaining current zoning as best as they can.

"We don't want to give them a free-for-all, but we also don't want to take away any rights the property owners currently have," she said.

She also noted that this change in district would not be making residential properties commercial or remove the 100-foot buffer zone required between commercial uses and residential uses.

Some of the heavier commercial uses that would be permitted in the C-2 zone, such as self-storage facilities, car dealerships, hotels and motels, and warehouses, may be permitted in the proposed performance zone by the Planning Board. Developers would have to present plans to the board and apply for a conditional use permit.

"The uses must keep with the character of the neighborhood," she said, "and it allows the board to look at it and say, 'yes, this fits', or 'no, this doesn't work'."

Mailloux said the corridor along NH-102 was a little more difficult since there are a mix of properties with different zoning designations, but that the same process would be followed: those currently C-1 or C-2, and properties zoned C-3, C-4 or AR-1 that are under the current Performance Overlay would become part of the Commercial Performance Zone.

"We're not changing the C-3 district overall," she told the board. "If they're not currently in the overlay, we're leaving them alone."

She said the board could consider rezoning and expanding the performance zone at a later date if there was interest.

Board member Chris Davies said he was concerned about the blending of the C-1 and C-2 districts.

"I am very concerned about the number of properties affected by this," he said. "We had a level of granularity before that we won't have with this."

He said he was in favor of having heavier commercial uses allowed by permit. "I think merging these districts and being so permissive isn't good," he said. "We've been permissive about the conditional permits in the past but at least it gives us some control."

Mailloux said that developers who want a conditional use permit don't have to have their plans entirely complete when they appear before the board.

"We don't ask them to be 100 percent engineered, we just ask them to have enough information to have you see what the planned use is, and that it makes sense."

She cautioned that the plans for the new Performance Zone are still being developed, and that nothing is set in stone.

"This is something we're still working on, but we want to open up the dialog and seek input," she said.

The next meeting of the Planning Board will take place on March 13, at 7 p.m. in the Moose Hill Council Chambers.

Woodmont

The development agreement spells out how the developers and the town will provide emergency services, utilities like water and sewer, and infrastructure.

Town attorney Michael Ramsdell said the agreement with Woodmont also "builds in a level of certainty for the future" in a way that a one-time "impact fee", which had previously been used, could not.

As the project continues, the agreement specifies that Woodmont will notify the town well in advance of the increased need for services, allowing negotiations to take place and ensuring that the town has everything it needs.

Town Council chairman John Farrell said the town has already begun looking at what will be needed as Woodmont grows.

One article on the March 12 ballot will allow the town to purchase 20 portable defibrillators to be placed in various town vehicles.

"With this development coming, we knew we had to get ready for that," he said.

The additional defibrillators will also allow other town personnel to be trained in emergency response techniques.

Farrell also noted that the development agreement with Woodmont was a first for not only the town, but for the state - and many third-parties like state and congressional leaders - had looked at the plan and were excited about it.

"We feel good about this," he said.

According to the project's website, the first phase will open this fall.

LONDONDERRY SPORTS

LHS Boys Basketball Team Get Ninth Straight Victory

IDAN VINITSKY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

In a season that has seen the Londonderry High School Boys' Varsity Basketball team win numerous close, wild games, last week, the team was able to enjoy two pretty comfortable victories.

With the tournament quickly approaching, the Lancers improved their winning streak to nine games and their season record to 12-2.

Weather postponed Londonderry's home game against Timberlane (1-12) from Tuesday to Wednesday, Feb. 13, but that did not bother the Lancers, who led 20-10 after the first quarter and with another 20-10 quarter, had a 20 point lead at the half (40-20). Londonderry was able to maintain that lead in the next eight minutes and the score before the final quarter was 54-34. There, the Lancers took the foot off the gas pedal and Timberlane was able to come close, as far as a seven-point deficit, but LHS woke up in time for the 65-56 win.

Top scorer, Ethan May finished with 17 points, Jackson Cox and Max DesRosiers had nine points each, Cole Keegan scored seven, Luke Marsh and Dean Haggett finished with six each, Zach Fawcett scored four points and so did James Buttafuoco and Alex Tsetsilas scored three points. Coach Nate Stanton said after the game, "I wasn't too happy with the way we played this game. It is a teaching moment. We have to show up to every game. We did not defend well and we must go back to the things that made us a good team".

Then on Friday, Feb. 15, the Lancers got a much easier 59-45 win in Manchester, over a below average Memorial team (2-11). Once again, Londonderry quickly built a nice lead, 18-10 at the end of the first quarter and 34-24 at the end of the second. The Lancers entered the final eight minutes with a 13 point lead (45-32) and did not leave room for any mistakes this time, finishing the game strong and securing another win. May and Haggett scored a team leading 11 points each and Cox and Keegan had ten points each, in a nice point distribution for LHS. DesRosiers scored three points, Buttafuoco had two and so did Will Reyes.

The Lancers are hoping to finish the regular season with the second seed heading into the DI Tourney. But they will be facing two tough teams this week. They played the undefeated DI leader, Exeter, on the road on Tuesday, Feb. 19, after the Londonderry Times went to print and on Friday, Feb. 22, they host Salem High School, who entered the week in second place, half a game ahead of Londonderry (13-2).

Sophomore point guard Jackson Cox had a combined 19 points this week to add to his season total.

Senior Lancer shooting guard Ethan May continues to rack up points as the team heads toward the season end and the playoffs. Photos by Chris Paul

Lancer Host Wrestling Division I Meet, Take Sixth Place

IDAN VINITSKY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

It was an eventful day at the Londonderry High School gymnasium on Saturday, Feb. 16, as the Lancers hosted the NHIAA Division I State Meet. When it was all said and done, the home team took the sixth place overall, scoring 129 points for the day. Timberlane, the took the team title once again with 275.5 points. Josh Bean had LHS' best performance of the day. He received a first round bye, won the quarterfinals, lost to eventual champion Sterling McLaughlin from Pinkerton in the semifinals and got two more wins in consolation matches, to take third place in the 182 pound bracket.

Sean Wilson (120 lbs) finished fifth. He got a first round bye, lost his first fight and had three wins in consolation (and one loss). Aiden O'Loughlin placed fourth in the 126. He too got a bye, then won the quarterfinal, lost to a Timberlane rival in the semis and won his first consolation match, before losing the third place match to a Windham wrestler. Another fourth place finish came from Brandon Drake (132). After winning once and losing once, Drake moved to consolation matches, where he had three victories before losing 10-7 his third place match. Alex Jeanty (138) lost twice in two matches and Dylan Barnes (145) finished sixth. He won the first round fight, lost in the quarterfinals and had two wins and then two losses in consolation.

Johnny McKinnon (152) and John Kelley (160) lost their two matches, while Vincent DelSignore got to the semifinals, lost there, won the first consolation match and lost his third place match, to take the fourth place in the 170 lbs bracket.

Another team leader, Ben Psaledas, finished fourth in the 195. He won the quarterfinals, pinning his Timberlane opponent, but lost to Kyle Setzer from Pinkerton in the semifinal. In consolation, Psaledas had another win and a tough loss to a Nashua South opponent he had beat at the team's dual meet. Nicolas Walter placed fifth in the 220lbs category, thanks to three wins and one loss in the consolations, after losing his first match. David Kichler (295) lost twice. Londonderry coach Jason Cucolo said, "Overall, it was a very good day for us. We wrestled hard and had a lot of guys who placed. Everyone came in and did their seed or even above it, so we wrestled even better than what we expected to. It's nice to host this kind of event. It is always nice to be on home turf. The kids enjoy it". The eight Londonderry wrestlers who placed in the State Meet (Wilson - 120, O'Loughlin - 126, Drake - 132, Barnes - 145, DelSignore - 170, Bean - 182, Psaledas - 195 and Walter - 220) will be competing on Saturday, Feb. 23, in the Meet of Champions in Nashua South.

JENN GANEM FOR SCHOOL BOARD Protecting Our Children's Future

- I have a vested interest in the Londonderry public schools as I have three children in our schools
- I believe in high-quality education for children of all abilities
- I support music, arts, sports, and extra and co-curricular activities as studies show this increases academic performance
- I have made decisions to ensure our schools are academically rigorous and safe while making financially prudent decisions for the taxpayers
- As Chair, I increased student and parent participation, ensured our faculty and staff were trained for an active shooter situation, and initiated a thorough policy review
- If re-elected, I will address the rising student enrollment in the lower grades; continue to engage all stakeholders in decision-making; increase student & senior citizen interaction; ensure technology is appropriately added into the curriculum; and maintain the investment in our buildings & other infrastructure

Lancer Hockey Squad Picks Up Two Important Victories

IDAN VINITSKY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

As their fight for a tournament spot reached its peak last week, the Londonderry High School Varsity Ice Hockey team was able to win two important games, and they pushing their winning streak to four games, improving their season record to 8-7-1.

The Lancers hosted Bow at the Tri-Town Arena on Wednesday, Feb.

13, and got an easy 6-1 win. Nicolas Pitarys scored after nine minutes thanks to a beautiful assist by Anthony Federico and the real action game in the first moments of the second period. Bow scored, a minute and 16 seconds into the period, but Londonderry had a great answer. It took the Lancers only 19 seconds to regain the lead with Pitarys' second goal of the day and a minute later, Zachary Rheault doubled the lead with a long distance strike.

Sophomore Rheault scored his second, a very similar goal to the first one, with 1:51 left in the middle period and in the final minutes of the game it was Mathew Naso and Noah Malcolm who made it five and then six to one in favor of the Lancers. "We are on a good run, we are disciplined and the guys understand how to execute", said coach Peter Bedford post game,

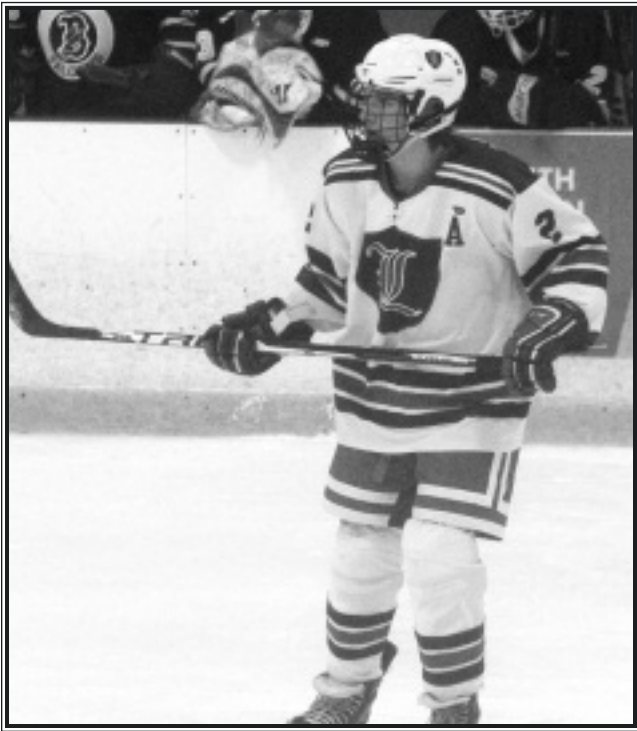

"We answered right away and the sooner you can do it, it is deflating for the other team, because you get the momentum back. And our fourth goal was the one that made sure they weren't coming back".

The Lancers kept things rolling on Saturday, Feb. 16, with a 2-1 win on the road over neighboring Windham High School. Federico scored the lone goal of the first period, with Pitarys contributing with the assist. Federico found the net again in the next period and LHS entered the final 15-minutes leading 2-1, and the Lancers were able to keep that one goal lead and leave the Icenter in Salem with the close win.

The Lancers were scheduled to host rival Pinkerton Academy (13-2) on Wednesday, Feb. 20, for their last home game, where they will honor the team's seniors. LHS will play their final regular

LHS Girls Hoops Team Drops Second Straight Close Game

IDAN VINITSKY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Londonderry High School Girls' Varsity Basketball team played only once last week, losing a close game at home 53-48 to a strong Manchester Memorial (12-3) team. The Lady Lancers dropped five of their last six games and their record stands at 6-10 entering the final week of the season.

Memorial raced out to a big 18-2 lead in the first quarter, using outside and inside scoring and completely shutting down the hosts' offense. The lead grew to over 20-points at the beginning of the second quarter, but that was where the momentum changed. LHS started making shots and went on a 35-18 run until the end of the third quarter. With eight minutes left, the Memorial lead shrank to only four points, making it a 40-36 game heading into the final period.

With some good defense by Michelle Marino and Paige Velie, and fast break points by Courtney Shay and Marino, the comeback was completed and Londonderry had a one point lead, with two minutes to go. But down the stretch, Memorial was able to hit their foul shots and make some big baskets to escape with the victory. Shay scored 20-points, Ashley Rourke had 17 (13 in the third quarter, including three three-pointers) and Marino finished with nine points and five rebounds.

"It wasn't because of lack of effort. The girls worked hard", said LHS coach Nick Theos, "We had the worst possible start, playing timid and getting out worked in our own gym and we just dug too big of a hole to climb out of, which is too bad, because we outplayed them for the final three quarters. I hope we can build off this game and continue to improve, as the playoffs approach. We need to be playing our best at this point if we want to make any noise in March." The Lancers played Exeter (7-7) at home on Tuesday (Feb. 19). Their final regular season game is on Friday (Feb. 22, 6:30) at Salem (12-4).

Week of Feb. 11

Josh Bean

Sophomore, Wrestling

Josh had a strong end of the season and a great Division I Tournament. He was seeded fourth going into the tournament and finished third in a weight class that featured upperclassmen men.

Michelle Marino

Senior, Girls Basketball

Marino is a senior captain that helped lead the Lady Lancers to a 15 point win against Winnacunnet. Michelle led the way, scoring 18 points in the victory. She then chipped in nine points and played hard defense in a tough last minute loss to Memorial.

LHS Boys Ski Team Finish 12th in State

IDAN VINITSKY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Londonderry High School's Boys Varsity Alpine Skiing team's season ended last Thursday (Feb. 14), when the Lancers took the 12th place, out of 18 competing high schools, at Gunstock Mountain, where the State Meet was held in a two day delay, due to the weather. The Lancers finished their long day with 418 points, just ahead of Spaulding, who had 414 points. Bishop Guertin won the state title with 732 points.

The game began with the Giant Slalom, where the fastest LHS team member was Jimmy Fitzgibbons, who finished 53rd. Brandon Fish took the 55th overall place and other Lancers to cross the finish line were Evan Dugas (71st place), Austin Theriault (74th), Sam

Palumbo (78) and Drew Gruchot (83rd).

After the lunch break, the Lancers competed in the Slalom, where Fitzgibbons led them with the 40th place. Gruchot improved to the 45th place, Fish was 54th, Palumbo finished 67th, Theriault was 72nd and Kevin Brown got the 87th place.

Local Director Gore Forms Ovation Theatre Company

A new theatre company has formed in the area and it promises to provide dynamic and unique performances and much more. Ovation Theatre Company, LLC is the fulfillment of a long-time dream for Meg Gore, Artistic Director and Manager. With a background in theatre production and direction of over 30 years, Meg has been extremely active in Londonderry and Derry for the past 12 years. She founded the Matthew Thornton Drama Club in 2008 and, along with various volunteers over the years, has built one of the top school programs in the area, producing and directing dazzling productions, most recently of Disney's The Lion King Jr., The Wizard of Oz YPE and Annie Jr. Meg continues to run the MTDC program, currently staging Once on this Island Jr. for March. Beyond the shows, that program has always been about teaching theatre to young students, including weeks of after-school training and workshops, long before the annual show is cast and produced. In the same vein, Meg has also directed two recent summer camp programs, Up with People Junior, which she also produced and managed, as well as Kids Coop Theatre's 2017 summer camp. That desire for education is one of the essential and unique elements Meg Gore will be bringing to Ovation. Kathie Gagnon, co-founder of MTDC, understands this well: "The combination of Meg's theatre background, passion and drive has made the (MTDC) program the success that it is. I am thrilled that Meg has made the decision to take her talents to a whole new level. I have no doubt that Ovation Theatre Company will offer those interested in theatre a comprehensive understanding of all aspects theatrical."

Meg's other directing credits in recent years include the hugely successful The Music Man production and the widely-acclaimed southern New Hampshire premiere of Disney's Newsies, both with Kids Coop Theatre.

Working with area youth for so many years, Meg has always had a vision for a program that would be about more than just one school or one town, that would focus on theatre beyond just producing shows, that would provide education and foundational skills applicable beyond the stage and that would introduce both participants and audiences to the best that theatre can offer. Ovation may initially focus on youth, but the vision is to also serve as a community theatre outlet for all ages. Much in the same way local dance and gymnastics companies offer programs for people of all ages and abilities, Ovation will strive to do the same, with year-round classes, workshops and camps. Pam Burroughs of Hampstead was one of the first to applaud Ovation's founding: "I'm so excited for this! Meg's artistic vision is amazing. She is supportive, encouraging and we are thrilled to be part of her company."

When it comes to productions, Ovation is planning to offer several unique elements. The shows may not always be in traditional theatre settings with a stage and auditorium-style seating. The casts will be drawn from throughout the area, bringing the best of area towns and schools to audition in a traditional, competitive environment that will strive for excellence and push actors, both young and old, to stretch their abilities and maximize their potential.

There will also be educational opportunities for off-stage roles in stage management, sets, props, lighting and sound.

Ovation is extremely excited to announce its first production, Les Misérables: School Edition, which will be presented May 24, 25, & 26 at Granite State Arts Academy in Salem. While rehearsals won't start until late March, auditions are very soon – Saturday, February 16th from 9am-3pm at Hampstead Middle School; interested students in grades 7-12 must sign up at www.OvationTC.com

Artist Submission

Are you an artist? Are you interested in crafting a part of Londonderry's history? If so, please submit a design for Londonderry's version of the Nutfield 300th Anniversary commemorative coin! All submissions should meet the following guidelines and be emailed to khildonen@londonderry-nh.org by Friday, March 15. The design should represent apple orchards or another part of Londonderry's agricultural heritage. It should be circular in shape and with detail appropriate to be engraved on a pewter coin approximately 1.5-2 inches in diameter, the drawing submitted should be 6-8 inches in diameter. It should be entirely of the artist's original design, but it can be either hand or computer drawn. The artist should ideally be a resident of Londonderry or someone with strong ties to the town. All ages are welcome to submit a design. Please include in your submission the artist's name, phone number, email address, and if under 18, the contact information for a parent or legal guardian. Questions? Please email Kirsten Hildonen at khildonen@londonderry-nh.org.

Law Enforcement And Your Smart Phone

Do you use your smart phone? If you do, you will definitely want to come to this Free lecture with N.H. Assistant U.S. Attorney Seth Aframe and two other attorneys will educate us on the many uses that law enforcement make of "smart devices" in investigations, including GPS tracking, cell site tower information, texts, What's App messages, and so forth on Thursday, March 7, at 7 p.m. at ETZ Hayim Synagogue. He will also discuss the conflict between allowing law enforcement access to the evidence on smart devices and the privacy interests of device users - a conflict that has led to several, recent Supreme Court decisions. He will also answer questions that you may have about how federal criminal investigations work - a constant topic in the news these days. Attorney Aframe is a supervisory AUSA at the United States Attorney's Office in New Hampshire and also teaches First Amendment law at UNH Law School. The lecture is part of Etz Hayim Synagogue's continuing education program, "Hot Topics, Cool Contemporary Stuff." It is free and open to all. Donations to help EHS continue to offer such programs are always gratefully accepted. For more information, please contact: Stephen Soreff, MD, at soreffs15@aol.com.

OBITUARY

Elizabeth Ann Gallagher

Elizabeth Ann Gallagher, 77, of Hampstead, NH, passed away at her residence after a period of declining health. She was born July 7, 1941 in Everett, MA, a daughter of the late John and Sarah (Keating) Homer. She was a long-time resident of Lawrence MA until retiring to Hampstead in 2000.

Elizabeth was employed for many years for the Town of North Andover and the Town of Chelmsford, MA where she retired from her professional life to care for the grandchildren. She enjoyed travel and beach life, listening to the waves crash on Myrtle Beach, or any beach for that matter. She also loved planning these trips and capturing the memories into her amazing photo scrapbooks. She loved music, reading, crafts and knitting. Doing puzzles and playing scrabble and other games with her husband and the kids Elizabeth dedicated her life to her family and friends, she was selfless and ready to help anyone at any time. Her smile would light up a room.

Members of the family include her loving husband of 56 years, James J. "Jim" Gallagher, two children and their spouses, Kathleen & Brian Dingman and James W. & Kristine Gallagher, her five grandchildren, James Peter Gallagher and Thomas Gallagher, Jack, Cody & Brianna Dingman, three sibling, William & John Homer and Laura McKenna, as well as many nieces, nephews and cousins. Elizabeth was predeceased by her sisters, Ellen McIntyre and Nancy Daigle.

After cremation, a memorial visitation will be held Saturday Feb. 23, from 10 - 11:30 a.m. in the Peabody Funeral Homes and Crematorium, 290 Mammoth Rd., Londonderry with a memorial service at 11:30 a.m. In lieu of flowers donations to Merrimack Valley Hospice, 360 Merrimack St., Bldg. #9 Lawrence, MA 01843, would be appreciated.
