Homeowner Seeks to Continue Addition After Halted by Town

MIKE BYERLY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The owners of 8 Tanager Way had a home expansion project halted mid-way through by town Code Enforcement for failing to obtain a building permit. Through their representative, Jeff Moulton of Moulton Engineering in Derry, Ryan and Kimberly Ouellette, claimed that the contractor they hired failed to obtain the permit.

When the owners did apply for a building permit, the town informed them that their addition was partially located in the Conservation Overlay District (COD) buffer and exceeded restrictions for what is allowed in the COD.

As a result, the owners would need variances granted by the Zoning

Conservation Pushes Back on Proposed Wetland Impact

MIKE BYERLY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Conservation Commission reviewed a Conditional Use Permit (CUP) and a project design application for a resident looking to subdivide their property at 17 Bancroft Road. Presenting for the owners, Chris Hickey of Eric Mitchell Associates, said the proposed project would result in roughly 5,800 square feet of conservation buffer impact for a driveway, grading and a drainage system.

Commissioners noted that the buffer border as drawn on the proposal was incorrect, so that the actual impact would be larger. They also pointed out that an Eversource easement ran along part of the property and asked if that area could be used for the driveway, since it would avoid the wetland buffer.

Hickey said that they had not pursued that option because they felt it would be tricky to get approval from Eversource. Commissioners told Hickey that a CUP to impact wetlands could only be granted if there were no other options available to the developer and instructed him to contact Eversource to explore that option.

Glen Aprile, who started on July 1 as the town's Conservation Ranger, attended the meeting to give an update on what he has been seeing the first few weeks and to show the Commission the vehicles he uses in his role. He said that he has been actively patrolling conservation areas including Kendall Pond and the powerlines encircling the Musquash area. He noted that he handed out a warning at Kendall Pond for public drinking and littering. Residents have started calling him for other issues including the removal of a snake from a

Resident Reacts to Court Order and Fines Issued by Town

IDAN VNITSKY

Longtime Londonderry resident, Rob Boyce, appeared in front of the Londonderry Town Council last month and expressed his frustration regarding his legal troubles with the town regarding a compliance issue. He was told by the court last week that he has a seven-day deadline to have his driveway, on Grove Street, "in compliance" or he will be assessed a $33,000 fine. Boyce was also informed that he will have to pay the town's attorney fees of $5,100. Now, he is thinking of taking legal action against the town, as he claims that the entire process was extremely problematic.

In an interview with Boyce, he repeated the details that he presented to the Town Council during Public Comment on June 17.

Boyce said that he has been living in Londonderry since 1967 and that in 2014 the town took legal action against him for a number of issues, including a few unregistered cars on his property and the height of the pool fence.

According to Boyce, these issues were fixed before the deadline, and the town signed off on them.

A year and a half ago, he suddenly received a notice saying that he is facing action by the town for breaking some ordinances. At that point, Boyce says that he contacted Al Baldasaro, who is a member of the New Hampshire House of Representatives.

Baldasaro suggested that Boyce set up a meeting with Town Manager, Kevin Smith, which he did. When that meeting took place in Feb. 2018, according to Mr. Boyce, Baldasaro, who was present, told Smith, jokingly: "You are going to have to charge me too, because I

Police Department Welcomes Their New Patrol Dog 'Ammo'

IDAN VINITSKY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Londonderry Police Department is adding a new member to their team: A Belgian Malinois named Ammo. The dog and his handler, Officer Rafael Ribeiro, will begin academy training during September. As long as there are no unexpected issues, it is anticipated graduation will be in December, after they pass the Boston PD patrol K9 course.

Ribeiro has been an officer for seven years and he is also a Use of Force instructor in the Londonderry Police Department. Ammo is a one-year-old dog and will be certified as a patrol dog after the 14-week long academy training course. The course will teach both Officer Ribeiro and Ammo how to properly search, track and apprehend.

Officer Ribeiro and Ammo, who is being taken care of by Crossroads Animal Hospital, will be patrolling the town by the end of this year. According to the department, next year Ammo will also be certified in Explosive Ordinance Detection, which will benefit the town, airport and the special events that are hosted in Londonderry.

Officer Rafael Ribeiro, will begin academy training with "Ammo" in September.

The department's Facebook post that announced about the new addition to the force received over 3,700 "Likes" and was shared and commented on by over 1,000 people. Next to comments congratulating the department and Ammo, many other comments referred to the good looks of Officer Ribeiro, who said he would be happy to give an interview and share his story once the course is completed.

LHS Graduate Winner of Londonderry ALERT Scholarship Award

IDAN VINITSKY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Hunter-Madison Langley, who recently graduated from Londonderry High School, was awarded with the 2019 Londonderry ALERT Scholarship.

Langley will be attending Rivier University in Nashua next year for Criminal Justice and is pursuing a career in law enforcement.

Langley attended the Londonderry ALERT meeting recently with her mother and accepted the award from ALERT President, Rich Semaski. She was chosen out of over a dozen candidates who applied for the $500 scholarship. Three of the applicants qualified for the final round, where Langley was declared as the winner.

Tim Vrettos, Director at Londonderry ALERT, told the Londonderry Times that this is the fourth year in which the organization has given a scholarship. The graduates send in their applications, based on criteria that was set by the organization and are asked, in addition to their GPA from high school, to also write an essay explaining how they see themselves in the future as part of the public service (Police, fire department, etc.) world.

During her time at Londonderry High School, Langley was involved in a car accident, suffered from a concussion and missed school time, but recovered and graduated with good grades. The scholarship money comes from fundraisers and Vrettos said: "We are very happy to be able to help the winner."

Londonderry ALERT is a volunteer emergency response team that assists the community and its public safety departments in times of need. The organization has approximately 50 members these days and is looking for more people. The volunteers receive training in search and rescue, operate the Emergency Shelter 24/7 when it is open and work closely with the Londonderry Police, Londonderry Fire and the New Hampshire Fish and Game Departments.

The volunteers provide a resource through training, certifications and scheduled exercises that help them stay prepared for a variety of emergency situations. The ALERT website says that the team's mission "is to maintain a trained, dedicated group of volunteers to: Assist our community and its public safety departments in times of need; serve as a source for education about emergency preparedness and prevention; and provide a valuable resource for the community through the continuous training and involvement of our members."

The team trains with various other organization and safety bodies from the area and recently was able to add a new communications trailer that is providing the foundation for development in the area: "A growing base of licensed amateur radio members within ALERT are setting up the structure for an efficient communication system", says the ALERT website.

The Londonderry ALERT organization will have a booth at the town common during this year's Old Home Day celebrations in Londonderry and the public is welcomed to approach the booth and ask the volunteers question about the organization.

Board of Adjustment before they could restart the project.

The planned additions include a sunroom, a gazebo attached to the sunroom and the expansion of an existing cement patio around an existing pool. If the variances are not granted the owner would need to remove the partially built structures.

In total, the homeowner needs eight variances to be granted by the ZBA. The variances were being requested to allow uses that are not permitted in the COD – a cement pool apron patio, a sunroom and roof overhang, pressure treated beams and asphalt roofing and to allow accessory structures larger in size than what is permitted in the COD.

Since the variances relate to the COD, the memo from town planning staff to the Conservation Commission stated, in part, "upon receipt of an application for a variance to the CO District ordinance, prior to the Zoning Board of Adjustment (ZBA) holding a public hearing on the application, the ZBA shall forward a copy of the plan and application form to the Conservation Commission for review and comment. The Conservation Commission, shall after reviewing the plan and application, forward any appropriate recommendations to the ZBA for their consideration."

In making his pitch to the Conservation Commission, Moulton said he recognized that the applicants were in a tough spot. He focused on the contour of the property, which sloped downward about 10 feet from the pool and house expansion toward a neighboring wetland. He said the owners offered to put in a stormwater management system that would capture runoff at the high part of the property to keep it from running toward the wetland. Specifically, he offered to install gutters and a dry well that meets New Hampshire Department of Environmental Services standards.

Looking at the proposed plan, the Conservation Commission noticed that there was also an existing propane tank in the COD. When questioned on that, Moulton said that propane tank was placed there years ago by the propane company who misunderstood the direction from the town on proper placement.

On the variance requests, Commission member Mike Byerly expressed the opinion that he felt that the case was straightforward. The owner built in the COD buffer in a way that is not allowed, so they should not be granted the variances.

Countering that, Commission member Mike

Speltz thought that the Commission should consider that the stormwater management system would be a net improvement for the property and its environmental impact.

After a lot of back and forth about whether to vote on each variance individually or as groups of related items, the Commission decided to take them one at a time. The summary effect of the votes was that the Commission recommended to the ZBA that they allow the sunroom even at a larger than allowed size, but not allow the gazebo and patio extension. The approval for the sunroom was contingent on the installation of the stormwater management system.

The vote to allow the sunroom was 6-1 with Commission member Mike Noone voting against.

The votes to deny the gazebo and patio extension were unanimous. The recommendation of the Commission will be passed onto the Zoning Board, who will rule on the variance in an upcoming meeting.

Why Civic Engagement is a Necessity

Why are you important to the town? To your community? How do you tie into the bigger picture or into the grand scheme of things?

We often find ourselves worrying about navigating the ins and outs of our own day-to-day lives. However, the way that we as people, interact in our community is critical to the role we play in our town and how are contributions support the workings of our town.

The idea that we make a difference in our communities by using our voices and becoming involved is known as civic engagement. It is especially important for residents who plan to live in a town for a while. It creates your place within the community.

By encouraging residents to become active participants in their community, it helps the town grow and improve. Involvement also creates citizens who are better informed on events happening in the area and how the local government operates.

However, how many of us can name all of your Town Councilors, School Board members and State Representative? How many of us pay attention to local elections and to decisions that affect your taxes? Probably not many.

We believe that civic virtues are essential to a successful, strong, healthy, vibrant, community. Being civic minded is the spirit of service; it is a sense of personal ownership of one's role as a citizen in town, making society work better. An example of this is casting your vote in your local, primary and general elections. Let your voice be heard! Even on a small scale a vote can have a much larger effect.

Instead of complaining over what and how decisions were made remember you have the ability to change those outcomes. Take action now and get involved in your community. What is important to you may be good for all of us.

Letters

On the Lundgren Road Race

To the editor,

My home on Peabody Row has been a "Water Stop" for the Lundgren Road Race for 38 years.

We handed out needed water, encouragement and cheers to thousands of runners over 38 years.

It was a fun, an accomplishment and a life changing run for many people inside and outside our community. Lasting friendships were made each year.

With the abrupt cancelling of this race, I am seeing more and more of this behavior in my town in recent years than ever before.

It is both sorrowful and troubling. David Lungren did not deserve the way it was handled. He is correct in saying "It Totally Stinks."

Southern Border Insecurity

To the editor,

My thanks to Mr. Pitre for continuing this discussion. In his most recent letter, he questions why anyone would not be extremely proud to be an American. Perhaps the best answer lies in the Gallop Poll study that started this discussion. It said that 91% were proud of American scientific achievements, 89% were proud of our Military, and 86% were proud of American culture and arts. We were less proud of our economic achievements (75%) our sporting achievements (73%) and our diversity in race, ethnic background, and religion (72%). What are people least proud of – our health and welfare system (37%) and our political system (32%). Democrats strongly support universal health care in one form or another including containing the high cost of prescription medication. I think there is more or less universal agreement that interparty strife is preventing us from dealing with the most important issue of the day.

Secondly, Mr. Pitre asserts that Democrats want open borders. Opposition to the "wall" does not mean we are for open borders. In fact, Democrats have supported and continue to support fencing where it is the most effective way to address illegal entry. I believe in strong effective border security and I also believe that it is in our national character to help neighbors in trouble. So, I think we need to separate this problem into two parts – one is stopping illegal entry and the other is addressing the humanitarian crisis in Central America. I personally feel that the wall is the most, costly and least effective method for securing the border. With respect to illegal entry I suggest that a range of options would help to reduce/eliminate the problem. An effective guest worker program would facilitate hiring workers for those jobs that Americans don't want to do. Legal status but not citizenship. A combination of barrier and technology to monitor our southern border would be a more effective, cheaper way to combat illegal entry.

As to the humanitarian crisis, let's address the problem at the source. Instead of cutting off foreign aid and threats, increase foreign aid coupled with an alliance with neighboring Spanish speaking countries to provide policing services. Take control of these countries back from the gangsters. Resolve the problem for millions not billions. Show the world our true nature as caring neighbors. Again, only speaking as one democrat, I think there is room to explore alternatives that may better serve our national interest.

Jim Green
Londonderry,

Old Home Days Road Race

To the editor,

I recently learned that the Old Home Days Committee has decided to change the name of the annual Lundgren Road Race.

This race was the brainchild of Dr. David Lundgren thirty-eight years ago. The race has been run smoothly every year since then.

It has provided an opportunity for runners of all levels to compete in a fun run. Dr. Lundgren has contributed many hours and resources to this event to insure its continuing success. In addition he has helped the community in several others ways. Dave has served as a State Representative for several terms and as a charter member of the Londonderry Rotary Club.

To take his name off this race strikes me as very shortsighted.

If there is a good explanation, I would be happy to hear it.

Resources Available For Seniors in the Granite State

JOHN J. GOGLIA
LONDONDERRY TIMES

On July 23, 2019 I had the pleasure of interviewing Suzanne O'Gara who is the only full-time Counselor for the Referral, Education, Assistance and Prevention Program (REAP) in the State of New Hampshire.

REAP is a prevention program available to anyone in New Hampshire over the age of 60 and is committed to referring seniors to the services they need to remain independent for as long as possible. The REAP program is funded by multiple state agencies: Bureau of Drug and Alcohol Services (BDAS), Bureau of

Elderly and Adult Services (BEAS), Bureau of Mental Health Services (BMHS), NH Housing & Finance Authority (NHHFA) and NH's ten community mental health centers. REAP counselors provide free, confidential and in-home visits for any senior who needs information about resources available to meet their daily living requirements, including but not limited to: transportation, stress, relationships, grief, isolation, emotional wellbeing, substance use or quality of life. REAP can make referrals for screenings for depression, Alzheimer's, substance use and cognitive memory situations, as necessary and upon request. Suzanne is also available to meet with caregivers and family members dealing with seniors. REAP also offers education sessions on a variety of topics impacting older adults. Anyone can request a specific education session for wherever older adults congregate.

REAP provides services only if the senior participant voluntarily agrees. The solution referrals can be for services available for the short term or the long term. In addition to Londonderry, Suzanne and her staff assist seniors in the towns of Manchester, Bedford, New Boston, Goffstown, Hooksett, Auburn and Candia.

Suzanne has a wealth of knowledge about senior concerns and potential solutions because she has been doing this work for 5 years. Suzanne and her family live in Londonderry and she has been a life-long resident of our town. She is very passionate about senior issues as a result of taking care of her parents who both passed away at 62 & 67, respectively. She is a member of the Londonderry Senior Resources Committee (SRC), the Steering Committee for the NH Alliance for Healthy Aging (AHA) and the NH Senior Companion Advisory Council (SCAC).

The AHA is a statewide coalition of several groups focused on aging issues and the SCAC is a federally funded organization, but they are both private entities. Suzanne has a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Psychology from Plymouth State University, a Master of Science Degree in Organizational Leadership from Southern New Hampshire University and is working towards a Master of Arts Degree in Clinical Mental Health Counseling at Rivier University, so she is well qualified for her position.

Suzanne recommends that anyone requiring REAP information contact her at the Mental Health Center of Greater Manchester office at 668-4111, ext. 4599 or her direct line at 836-4599. She also would suggest that contacting ServiceLink at 1-866-634-9412 is another way to get REAP assistance. ServiceLink is also a statewide organization providing resources on aging and disability issues.

Lastly, Suzanne offered that the Tufts Health Plan has done a 2019 NH Healthy Aging Report for Londonderry and all other NH towns which includes demographic information on older adults living in our communities which is available at: <https://healthyagingdatareports.org/new-hampshire-healthy-aging-data-report/>

Heritage Commission OKs Signage Plan For Warehouse Near Airport

IDAN VINITSKY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Londonderry Heritage/Historic District Commission had a relatively short meeting on Thursday (Jul. 25). The main focus was a continuation of the design and formal review of an application that was discussed at the May 23 meeting.

The application for design review is for a site plan to construct a one story, 141,765 square foot warehouse/distribution facility and associated site improvements at 44 Rear Pettengill Rd., south of the Manchester-Boston Regional Airport. The Heritage Commission requested the applicants to attend the meeting for further review of the proposed exterior signage for the building.

The project's civil engineer, Jim Petropoulos, reminded the commission that at the May meeting, at which he was not present, but his colleague was, the commission already reviewed the site plan and it was later approved by the Planning Board. Petropoulos presented the commission members with the site plan and sketches that show that the lower portion of the building is going to be built with brick and have a red-brown color to it. The upper section's color will be grey.

With regard to the signage, the code allows for an up to a 100 square foot sign on the building and nothing over 10 feet in height. Petropoulos emphasized that this is just an early part of the project and that usually a decision on a sign takes place much later, but promised to come back to the commission if there will be a significant change. He said, "I want to have a clean process and receive the commission's approval in order to move forward with the project."

The sign is going to be placed 100-150 feet away from Pettengill Rd. and will, according to the current plan, be 8 x 12 feet with a green background and white letters. There will also be a ground sign at the entrance to the facility. The commission approved the signage plan.

Later in the meeting, there were two staff reports. The first was regarding an application for design review of a condominium conversion at 39 Mammoth Rd. that was already approved by the Planning Board. It is an existing duplex that is being converted to condominiums.

The second was regarding an application for design review of a subdivision plan to subdivide one lot into two, for building purposes, at 17 Bancroft Rd. This application has not been brought before the Planning Board yet. It is still on the design review application process, so this was currently an "information only" presentation for the Heritage Commission members.

Going Green in Londonderry: Reducing Food Waste At Home

COURTESY OF THE SOLID WASTE AND ENVIRONMENT COMMITTEE AND NH DEPARTMENT OF ENVIRONMENTAL SERVICES

Over 20% of our garbage is food waste. Put another way, it's been estimated that 40% of our food supply goes to waste. The amount of land used to grow food that's never eaten is the size of India and Canada combined. And the lost food is just part of the story. All of the resources - land, water, energy, labor, manufacturing, packaging, transportation - that went into growing the food and getting it to the table are also wasted, along with your money.

Most of us don't realize just how much food we waste as consumers: uneaten leftovers, overportioning, forgotten pantry items, freezer burn casualties, wilted vegetables and overripe fruit make it to our trash cans every day. Reducing our food waste has many benefits, especially for the earth. It cuts methane emissions from landfills, conserves energy associated with food production, and avoids high trash disposal costs

Plan more and buy less

Here are some strategies you can incorporate in your daily routine to cut the waste - and save money to boot:

Plan your meals - scan the food in your fridge and cabinets before grocery shopping to make sure you don't buy something you don't need (or forget something you do!). Go grocery shopping when you need to, or on a schedule, not on impulse.

Understand "sell-by," "use-by," "best-by," and expiration dates. (Note: these are not safety dates.) A "Best if Used By/Before" date indicates when a product will be of best flavor or quality. A

"Sell-By" date tells the store how long to display the product for sale for inventory management. A "Freeze-By" date indicates when a product should be frozen to maintain peak quality.

When stocking your fridge, put new items behind older like items so older items aren't forgotten. Avoid washing berries until you eat them to avoid mold. Store bananas, apples, and tomatoes by themselves, and keep fruits and vegetables in different bins.

Freeze or can surplus fruits and vegetables. Freeze food or leftovers that you won't be able to finish before it goes bad. Casseroles, stir-fries, frittatas, soups, and smoothies are great ways to use leftovers. Store leftovers in clear containers, and label frozen items with the date.

Rescue food that's lost its freshness

Repurpose your food: think dried out bread for croutons, vegetable scraps for soup stock, and make banana bread with overripe bananas. And when you eat out, share with others or order only what you'll eat or take home. Donate any untouched and safe food to local pantries or food banks, such as:

- St Jude Community Parish Food Pantry in Londonderry (603-432-3333)

- NH Food Bank in Manchester (nhfood-bank.org)

Start a compost pile at home.

Contact Londonderry's Dept. of Public Works to buy a discounted compost bin and kitchen scraps pail. They come with instructions on composting.

Composting is a great way to make use of your food waste, as well as other organic waste on your property. The basic ingredients of a good compost pile includes "brown" materials that provide carbon (such as leaves, grass, paper towels and shredded paper), "green" materials that provide nitrogen (such as grass, vegetable scraps, egg shells and coffee grounds), and occasional water.

Girl Scout's Storybook Trail Project Ready for Sponsors

MACK LEATHURBY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

At their most recent meeting, the Heritage Commission unanimously supported the project by the Londonderry Cadette Girl Scouts for the Storybook Trail plan.

The idea behind this Storybook Trail plan is to place informative storybook kiosks on the trail in the Kent Allen Forest. The idea is that the kiosks will present with a fun story for people to learn about respecting the forest, wildlife in residence, and about leaving no trace, disruption or harm to forest areas. This will hopefully provide a unique experience for people, young and old.

Troop 12591 leaders, Gwen St. Germain, Sarah Fagan and the Cadette scout troop will have a booth at Old Home Days on Saturday, August 17 to meet with and gain sponsors to help fund the project. Shaelee Ambler, Alyssa Fegan and Hailey Grenier are project artists who have developed the artwork and storybook concept along with Katia Chylinski, Emily Galante, project authors and Sophia Miller and Megan St Germain, project leaders for the construction, marketing, sponsorships and fundraising efforts.

Much of the kiosk artwork for the storybook trail project will be on display at the booth at Old Home Day on that Saturday for sponsors to check out. The Troop is now accepting sponsorships from families, individuals and businesses. Sponsorships are not expensive and the sponsors chosen will have a historic plaque set up on the Kent Allen Forest trail at a kiosk. Interested sponsors can contact the Troop directly now and at the Old Home Days booth. Girl Scout Project Leaders, Sophia and Megan are available to help sponsors with logistics and support.

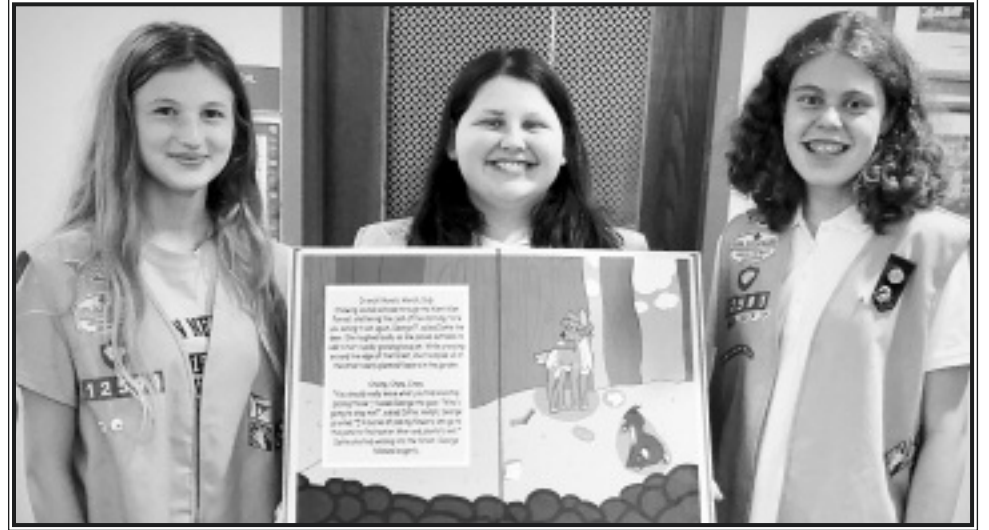

The storybook message will be outlined across the trail using 8 kiosks developed in collaboration with Meredith Allen. The story is about animals living in the forest area and about the forest environment. "Leave No Trace" is among the Girl Scout principals about treating the forest respectfully and about problems that can happen if people are not mindful of their environment.

There is Dottie the Deer and George the Goat who meet up with Trevor the Turtle at the pond – who is not happy to be disturbed, so Dottie and George move down the trail to find Charlotte the Chipmunk, who informs Dottie and George about proper forest behavior and responsibilities. Different challenges and some bad smelling stuff challenge the animals, as they continue though trail. However, the deer and the goat get lost in the forest and through a series of adventures, George the Goat and Dottie the Deer meet Walter the Woodpecker, who directs them to Olivia the Owl to learn "Leave No Trace" principals.

Leave No Trace Principals:

- 1.) Plan Ahead and Prepare
- 2.) Travel and Camp on Durable Ground
- 3.) Dispose of Waste

The artists Storybook Trail Kiosks for Kent Allen Forest Project are: Alyssa Fegan, Hailey Grenier, Shaelee Ambler project.

Properly

4.) Leave What You Find

5.) Minimize the Effects of Fire

6.) Respect Wildlife

7.) Be Considerate of others

Kent and Meredith Allen have help to groom and maintain the forest and the trail area that is located adjacent to the Town Commons. The storybook trail project will further enhance the vision of this area as part of the Town's Treasure for the community. The forestland was originally donated to the Town by the Mack family.

The good news, is the approval from the Londonderry Heritage commission came just in time to support the project logistics to meet its deadline of September 30 and have artwork ready for presentation at Old Home Day. Town Manager, Kevin Smith, has also given support for the Storybook Project, that is likely to become a Town marker.

The Cadette Girl Scouts proposed the project to the commission originally last January.

They met with them again in the spring to move the approval process forward, as the Commission pondered guidelines for the project. The troop is also using this project to earn a Silver Award for the girls involved in this project.

There is a dramatic storybook ending that awaits us all upon completion of the project in September. For further information contact Gwen St. Germain or Sarah Fagan – Leaders, Londonderry Cadette Girl Scout Troop 12591.

basement and to report that someone was using chickens to bait and shoot coyotes.

Aprile has also connected with a NH Fish and Game officer who covers Londonderry to talk about how they can work together. Aprile did collaborate with them on an abandoned truck found in a Hudson conservation area with a VIN that traced back to a Londonderry owner.

Commission members also got to see the pickup truck, trailer and ATV that Aprile uses when patrolling. As a reminder the town voted for the Conservation Ranger role at last year's ballot with 100% of funding from the Conservation Budget in the first year, shared conservation and police department funding in year two and full budget coverage thereafter from the police department.

In past conservation meetings, it was agreed that the Commission should develop a prioritized list of properties that could be conserved, so that they could be ready to respond to various state grant and wetland remediation opportunities that periodically occur. With lots of development in Londonderry, including the I-93 project, it is not uncommon for a developer who is allowed to build on or near wetland, to be told by NH Department of Environmental Services (DES) that they need to compensate for that impact. Sometimes that comes in the form of payments into the Aquatic Resource Mitigation Fund which funds land conservation statewide. However, Londonderry has been working with DES, to find conservation opportunities in Londonderry to compensate for Londonderry-based projects. Having this prioritized list will allow the Commission to respond more quickly as opportunities arise. Mike Speltz brought a proposed list to the meeting based on the priorities in the 2011 Open Space Task Force report. The list included about a dozen properties that could be conserved, some that had been conserved already and many that have been developed since 2011.

In other business, Chair Marge Badois shared that so far ten companies had requested bid packages for the project to assess the environmental condition of the former orchard at 35 Gilcrest Road. Bids are due in to the town by August 15.

have some things lying around in my driveway from the winter.”

By the end of that meeting, Boyce said that both sides agreed that he was in compliance and that the issue was cleared up and Smith told him that he wants to have another meeting, with code enforcement, “to make sure this doesn’t happen again”. Boyce answered that he would also like to have a meeting with code enforcement. From that moment on, according to Boyce, he tried to set up the second meeting without success, despite going in person to Town Hall several times.

“I thought that Kevin was a standup guy after our first meeting,” Boyce said. “The problem was fixed in one meeting and he was reasonable and listened to my story. But when I finally met with him again this year, Smith asked me ‘how come you didn’t provide documentation last year on the shipping container that you have in your yard?’ I told him that he never asked me to do that, but that I have it and I gave the documents to his secretary a few days later. I also told her that I can get more information if needed and that they should just give me a call. Kevin never called again, and just gave the documents to the lawyer to investigate. In court, the lawyer said ‘we couldn’t verify it, so we’re going to let it go’ concerning the issue of the container. The container was there before the town even put their ordinance into effect in 2008. So you couldn’t do your job and now I have to pay for it?”

Boyce says that after months of trying to arrange the second meeting with Smith and code enforcement, he finally ran into the Town Manager, as Smith was decorating the Christmas tree outside Town Hall, around Thanksgiving time. Boyce voiced, “The Town Manager makes $120,000 a year and has time to decorate a bush for Christmas, but he doesn’t have time to call me back?”

The second meeting eventually happened several months ago, but only after Boyce received in April a summons, with no warning or prior notice of violation. The summons said that there were unregistered cars in the yard again and Boyce said that not only this was not true and that the town was forced to back off of some of the complaints in court, but that the evidence was obtained unlawfully by the town: “They never contacted me or notified the home owner. They just came to my property, stood in front of a ‘no trespassing’ sign and took pictures. How can they use it to prosecute someone, and for something that is not a crime, but a violation of an ordinance that is not a law? The town showed that they are incompetent in calling somebody back.”

When asked why he decided to speak in front of the Town Council last month, Boyce answered that he wanted to present his story to the council members “and the lack of integrity in regards to Kevin Smith not calling me back, when he knew I’m in financial hardship. I wanted to show that they didn’t do their homework, and that they are bringing forward the same things from 2014 and 2017, with no reason.”

After Boyce presented his side at the Town Council meeting, the Town Council Chair John Farrell answered, saying that he could not fix anything at that moment and that to his understanding, this was a situation that has been on going for numerous years. Farrell added that the council could ask Smith to talk to the Town Attorney and see if there is a way to work with the court, based on the progress that Boyce already has made. “Once we file the complaint, it’s in the court’s hands and there is not a lot that we can do”, said Farrell. “We can withdraw, but we are not going to, because the other people in town that pay taxes have rights too.”

“I thought that response from Farrell was condescending. I know that other taxpayers have rights, but I am not violating any of them. I did not harm or injured or damaged the property of anybody.” Now, Boyce has only a few days until the deadline and even if he manages to be “in compliance” with the town’s demands, he still must stay in compliance for 24 months, or he will have to pay the $33,000 fine. “I don’t even know what that means, ‘in compliance’, and neither does the town, because it is not equally enforced.”

He says that he is very upset with the town and is considering his actions moving forward. “They didn’t do their job well. This is the corporation that works for us, the citizens. The town is there for us, not for them and the Town Council is supposed to represent all citizens, including me. Letting me speak to the council doesn’t mean that you are representing me. Attacking me doesn’t mean that you are representing me. I gave them a last chance to withdraw and they didn’t, so now what? I have to come after them? Corporations are not the only ones that can bring litigation. Citizens have far more rights in court than corporations do. I was living my life, minding my own business, but I have been damaged.”

After contacting Smith for comment on the allegations made by Mr. Boyce, Smith replied, “The court and town files and the court orders tell the entire story. The town has tried to work with Mr. Boyce since at least 2013 to bring the property into compliance with our zoning ordinances. During that time, the town has served Mr. Boyce with multiple Notices of Violation and one prior lawsuit, which was served less than a year before the most recently concluded lawsuit. The town strictly followed state law in bringing the recent action against Mr. Boyce. After the action was filed, the town tried to resolve the matter with him.

During the six months the lawsuit was pending, Mr. Boyce never cleaned up his property. As a result, the court ordered him to do so by Wednesday, July 31.

Mr. Boyce appears to forget that for six years the town has responded to complaints from his neighbor about the condition of the property. The situation was serious enough that the neighbor, without any prompting from the town, appeared at the court hearing last week. Mr. Boyce also appears to forget that the town dismissed the earlier lawsuit against him, without any penalties, to give him yet another chance.

As for my contacts with Mr. Boyce, until after this recent action was filed, the focus of our conversations had been the ongoing dispute between Mr. Boyce and his neighbor. Mr. Boyce did not bring documents to the town until after the action was filed and it was obvious that he was in violation of at least one of the zoning ordinances.

I was at the Town Council meeting. After Mr. Boyce admitted to the Council that his property still had not been cleaned up, Councilor Farrell told him that the Council was not going to interfere with a matter that was in litigation. The information was not condescending and Mr. Boyce did not appear to receive it that way at the time.

It is our hope that Mr. Boyce obeys the court order and cleans up his property.”

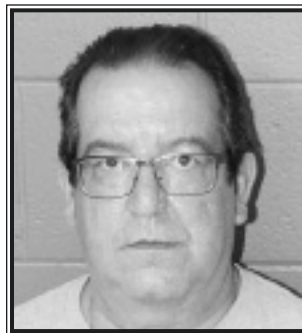

Local Man Arrested For Hit-And-Run

IDAN VNITSKY

The Derry Police Department arrested Thomas Marzola III of Londonderry on Monday, July 29, after he turned himself in. Marzola is the suspect of a hit-and-run accident that occurred in Derry on June 23.

Shortly after 1 p.m., Marzola, 57, of 12 Autumn Lane, Londonderry, arrived at the Derry Police Department after being notified that a warrant was issued against him for Felony Conduct After an Accident.

On June 23, at 7:15 p.m., Marzola allegedly hit with his car John Pothier, who was mowing his lawn on North High St. in Derry. Police say that Marzola left the scene without stopping to assist the injured man. Now, Marzola is also being charged with Insurance Fraud (Misdemeanor), related to the information he allegedly provided to his insurance company regarding his damaged 2008 Ford Edge that was hit during the accident.

Thomas Marzola III

Marzola was released on a $1,500 personal recognizance bail and will face arraignment at the Rockingham County Superior Court on Aug. 9.

The Derry Police Department credited social media and local news media for sharing the news of the incident and helping in developing the information that eventually led to the identification of the suspect.

LHS Lancer Power Program Wrapping Up Successful Summer

IDAN VINITSKY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Lancer Power program at the high school will be wrapping up another successful summer next week, on Aug. 8. This year, 220 kids participated in the program and it offered two avenues for training: High school and college, or middle school. Founder of the program, Michelle Hart-Miller, the Londonderry High School's Athletic Trainer, says that these are "pretty good numbers for the summer."

The program is seven weeks long and focuses on strength and conditioning. The older kids come in the morning, and have 90 minute sessions. "The hope is that a lot of these kids have trained during the school year and this program can provide them an opportunity to keep training during the summer, so they get the year-round program basically," says Hart-Miller.

For the middle school kids, grades sixth to eighth, Lancer Power is more of a foundational program and helps them get used to the movement and structure. There are also teams who sign up together for the program and this year there is a timeslot with primarily field hockey players: "We hope that our fall sport athletes sign up as a team or a group and we can train them and get them prepared for their season. We don't do anything special for specific sports, it's all particular movement patterns that they need to work on."

Each team has 12 athletes in it and is led by a coach, with a lot of former Londonderry High School athletes, who went through the Lancer Power program, coming back to work for the it now. Hart-Miller oversees everything and gives an extra set of eyes, or hands, whenever there is a need.

Every training day, with the main days of the program being Monday, Tuesday and Thursday, begins with warm-ups and mobility to prevent injuries. Then the kids move to the track for different kinds of speed work (Straight ahead, lateral and multidirectional), followed by power and strength work in the weight room, before conditioning activities to finish the day. The football players train an extra day and some athletes also have the option to add a fourth day to their program.

"We try to get them to be consistent during the summer, between vacations, camps and other stuff. If they are consistent, then you can definitely see a difference in the fall season between kids who participated in the program and others who didn't. Kids that did tend to be less prone to injuries and in better shape", explains Hart-Miller.

This year there has also been an important change in the program. "We incorporated our concussion management with everybody," says Hart-Miller. "We used to do this only with the football players, but we see concussions in soccer and field hockey as well. We are working on neck strengthening and other things like that."

Lancer Quarterback McEachern Ready For The Challenge

IDAN VINITSKY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Londonderry High School's Varsity Football team will be kicking off its training camp for the new fall season on Aug. 16. After a very successful regular season, that ended with the Lancers entering the playoffs as the South Division I number one seed, before losing a first-round heartbreaker to rivals Pinkerton Academy, expectations are high in Londonderry and a lot will be resting on Jake McEachern shoulders, and arm.

The senior is the leading candidate to become the new starting quarterback for the Lancers, after spending last season as the second string quarterback, behind Evan Cormier. McEachern, an "excellent student and a very hard worker", according to the Varsity Football team coach Jimmy Lauzon, led the Lancers' Freshman team to an undefeated season three years ago: "We also beat Pinkerton that year. That was a good one for us and we were really proud of that. We are waiting for the game against them this year," McEachern shared.

As a sophomore McEachern played mostly for the Junior Varsity team and enjoyed another good season. He also played in some kick-offs with the Varsity team that year, getting his first taste of Division I football. Last year he played on defense for the Varsity team and got a few chances at quarterback, primarily after Cormier got hurt in a game against Dover: "That was the game when I really got my chance to see what I can do. We came back and won and I was able to step up."

He started playing football in first grade, but did not play quarterback until eighth grade: "One of my coaches just told me I'm going to play quarterback that year," he recalls. From that moment on, he followed the footsteps of his brother, who was the high school's quarterback before Cormier and played as a senior when Jake was in eighth grade.

He also says that he learned from his brother and predecessor, "Evan had to fight that injury that he had and he is a really good quarterback. I watched and learned from him and he was always there to help me. You learn more as a quarterback each year. It gets harder, but at the same time gets easier."

Now, McEachern

knows: "It's my time to shine. I've been waiting for a long time for this year to come around and it finally has. You just have to wait for your turn. It's the life of a quarterback." Regarding the expectations from the team he says: "I feel confident in the team that we have this year. We want to beat Pinkerton and we want to make the playoffs, get ourselves in the State Championship game and win it. We are always thinking about expectations and want to get the Lancers a nice championship win, but we still have work to do."

And what about personal goals? "I want to be the Gatorade Player of the Year," he says.

Jake McEachern is the leading candidate to become the new starting quarterback for the Lancers.

Tight Race Continues for the Londonderry 50+ Softball League

IDAN VINITSKY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Two games were held on the evening of Sunday, July 28, by the Londonderry 50+ Softball league, and both ended with the higher ranked team losing to the lower ranked.

Rocco's Pizza, who started the season with only one win in seven games, was able to get its second victory in a row and did so against the league leaders, Justin Time Snacks (AKA Eagles), handing their rivals only their second loss in nine games this year, with an impressive 17-10 final score.

In the second game, American Nationals closed the gap from second place with a big 12-9 win over Efficient Energy Systems. Two more games were held on Tuesday, after the Londonderry Times went to print: Birch Tree Counseling Center, who rested last week, faced American Nationals and Efficient Energy System played against the Eagles. This Sunday (Aug. 4), two more games are scheduled: American Nationals will face the Eagles (5 p.m.) and Birch Tree Counseling Center will try to put an end to the Rocco's Pizza two-game winning streak.

After nine rounds, and despite their loss, the Eagles continue to lead the five-team league with 21 points. Efficient Energy Systems is second with 15 points (5-4) and American Nationals is third with 13 points, but they played only eight games so far. Rocco's Pizza, thanks to their two wins, has left the last place for the first time this season and is fourth with nine points and Birch Tree Counseling Center has seven points.

High School Grounds Crew Get Fields Prepped for Season

IDAN VINITSKY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

It is the quiet time of the year at Londonderry High School and Ground Supervisor Jon Robinson is enjoying every minute of it. "This is the only time of the year where I can concentrate on the little things I see throughout the year. Trees that need to be fixed and things like that. Usually, during the school year, I always get phone calls from a coach or a team that need something right now. To move equipment or fix it or something. Usually I get called to do a thousand different things, including from the middle school."

But for Robinson, who has been working for the school for the past seven years, there is still nothing like the real deal: The sports seasons. He and the other two full-time employees (Plus two-three summer helpers) are in charge of over 30 acres and a total of 15 Varsity, Junior Varsity and training fields. And if you walked around the high school or middle school recently, you could tell that Robinson and his team know exactly what they are doing.

"The summer is a good break, but I'm excited about the new season. We will start painting the fields soon and then it's putting up the football posts and suddenly the days are getting shorter. When people come to us during the summer and say that the fields are looking great it helps. It gives us confidence and energy to keep working hard."

He has been working in the business for 25 years and uses his and the staff experience to take care of the fields and get them perfectly ready for the fall season: "You have to know when to water the grass, and how much, because you don't want to go too much. And you have to know when to 'feed' it and how to avoid problems. We have different combinations, depending on the time of the year and the weather. We cover a huge space and if something develops, it can cost a lot. So we do our best to make sure everything is fine with the fields, all the time."

Robinson admits that the least favorite part of the job is the snow plowing in the winter: "We take care of six different schools and have to make sure everyone can get safely from place to place. Other than that, we use the winter season, where all the sports are indoors and the fields aren't in use, to do our maintenance on the equipment,

After a soggy ending to last year's season, the varsity football field is looking ready for the season thanks to the efforts of Ground Supervisor Jon Robinson.

change oils and things like that. We are lucky to receive high quality equipment from the district and the School Board that votes on it. Otherwise we wouldn't stand a chance doing everything with only three people on our staff."

As soon as the winter is over, everybody is eager to go outside, which can also be challenging for Robinson and the ground crew, as they are trying to prepare the fields that are recovering from the snow: "A few years ago, the baseball team's first game was also the first day we were able to go outside and work on the field and it is intense, because you're not sure that the field will look good. But most coaches understand and I have good relationships with them. They know that if we say that they can't work on the field that they, it's for safety reasons and not because we don't want to go there and get it ready or something. You can always replace the grass, but we don't want to see a kid blowing up his knee or something."

Londonderry 9U Baseball Team Wins Another Tourney

IDAN VINITSKY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Londonderry 9U All-Star Baseball team's summer game schedule continues to be a very successful one as they headed south of the border for another test of their skills.

Fresh off winning the championship at the Salem Tournament, the All-Star baseball team took home another trophy this season, this time at the Tyngsboro Tournament in Massachusetts.

The final game of the tourney was held on Thursday, July 25, and Londonderry's pitcher, Sully Daron, led his team to victory during what was a great pitchers' duel with Windham's Kyle Hayes. The game also featured a few great defensive plays on both sides and the teams did not have very many chances to score runs.

Eventually, Londonderry was able to hold on to a one run lead in a tense final inning, with reliever Owen Gray getting the save and securing a 3-2 title win. This was the second year in a row that this Londonderry team won the Tyngsboro Tournament, after they did so at the 8U level last year.

The team's roster includes: Dom Frasca, Cam O'Donnell, Cory Kearney, Sully Daron, Luke Sochanek, Luke Daniels, Connor Loughlin, Owen Gray, Michael Bell, Jake Cervantes, Connor Beaudet, and Owen Monahan. Coaches: Mike O'Donnell, Dave Daron, and Joe Frasca.

track on Monday, July 29. Organizers of the popular summer activity received another 250 pounds of food for the local food pantries, bringing the total food tally this year up to 1,400 pounds.

Skylar Marzolf of Derry continued her success in the 9-year-old girls' run, while Patrick Ramsey of Londonderry won the boys' run, ahead of Derry's Parker Digan and Rowen Michols. Isabella Schreiner and Addison Martinez of Londonderry took the first two places in the 10-year-old run and Samuel Schreiner, Sam Barry and Quinn Morrison, all of Londonderry, finished in the top spots of the boys' parallel run.

Meara Horan of Londonderry won the girls' 11-year-old run and Eve Klok of Derry finished second and in the girls' 12-year-old run, Sophie Dandawa of Derry crossed first the finish line. Matthew Morrison of Derry won among the boys and Connor St. Hilaire of Londonderry finished third. In the boys' 13-year-olds run, Killian Daron of Londonderry won and Bailey Yager of Derry placed third.

LONDONDERRY TIMES

Londonderry's Post 27 American Legion baseball season was all wrapped up on Monday night, July 29, when the Junior team played its last regular season game this year and missing out on qualifying for the playoffs. The Post 27 team was able to stay in contention for a few more days after getting back-to-back victories over Raymond on Wednesday, July 24, and Newmarket the next day.

Against the Raymond squad, at the Londonderry High School field, Post 27 won 7-3. The visitors started the game well, scoring two early runs in the opening inning, but Londonderry answered with four first-inning runs, scored by the first four batters in the lineup, to take a 4-2 lead after a three-hit inning. Raymond scored again in the top of the fourth, to make it a one-run contest, but the home team woke up in time and with one run in the fifth and two in the sixth inning, secured the win.

At Newmarket High School, Londonderry managed a close 5-3 win. Once again, the Post 27 team started strong on offense, scoring twice in the second inning after a couple of singles. Newmarket had a good third inning and came back to take a 3-2 lead, but Lon-donderry's bats kept working well and with two fifth inning runs and one in the seventh, the visitors left the field with hope.

Unfortunately for Londonderry, the next day, Friday, July 26, Salem's 20-10 wild win over Newmarket gave the Post 63 team the fourth and final spot to this year's playoffs.

Since Salem had the head-to-head advantage over Londonderry going into their game on Monday, after beating Londonderry twice in two games earlier this season, the Post 27 team already knew they would not be able to advance, no matter the result.

The game, which was originally scheduled for June 20 and was rained out, was then planned to be played last Friday in Salem, but then was moved to Monday night, July 29, in Londonderry.

This may have caused confusion that led to the umpire not showing up and the teams just ended up playing five scrimmage innings to wrap up the regular season. Salem won 5-0 and it was later recognized by the league as an official game (Since it had no implications on the standings), so the season could move forward without the need to complete this meeting in another date.

Post 27 ended their season with a 7-11 record.

Local Coach to Take Part in Annual Maple Sugar Bowl

IDAN VINITSKY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The 66th annual Shrine Maple Sugar Bowl Game will be held this Saturday, Aug. 3, at Castleton University in Castleton, Vt., where the Vermont and New Hampshire football teams, made up of graduating seniors, will meet for another great battle.

Londonderry High School does not any players or coaching representing the school in this year's game, since the eligible Lancers, who had the opportunity to play in one of the summer fundraising games, chose to do so for the Londonderry High School Varsity Football team coach, Jimmy Lauzon, who was the Team East Head Coach at the Children's Hospital at Dartmouth-Hitchcock (CHaD) East-West New Hampshire High School All-Star Game, which was played at the University of New Hampshire Wildcat Stadium on Jun. 29. The students must select one game between the CHaD game and the Maple Sugar.

But Londonderry will still have a representative at the Maple Sugar Game, former Windham High School Offensive Line Coach for the Varsity Football team, Bryan Fenn, who resides in Londonderry with his wife, two boys and two dogs.

Fenn grew up in Lyndonville, VT, so for him, this is a "coming back home" game as well and he actually played for the Vermont team in the 1984 Maple Sugar Game. A "strong New Hampshire team", Fenn recalls, ended up winning that game 25-0. "I have great memories from that game", he told the Londonderry Times. "I met many new friends and still have the game's program as a souvenir."

Another thing he strongly remembers from that experience was visiting the Shriners Children's Hospital: "It will stay in my mind forever. The little kids there were not in an easy situation, but always had a smile on their faces. The Shriners are a great group of people, who are doing nice things for the kids."

After graduating Lyndon Institute, Fenn attended Plymouth State College, where he was part of the football team but did not play too much. He started his coaching career in Bow, NH, coaching his son at the youth level for several years and later moved on to coach for the local high school for two years, before joining Windham, where he worked for the last eight years.

He will not be returning to Windham next year and hopes to continue his coaching career somewhere else, preferably in New Hampshire or Massachusetts: "I hope our kids will put on a show," he says about his final game with the Windham players (three of them will be playing in this year's Maple Sugar Bowl). "I am looking for a new high school and this will be my goodbye from the Windham guys. I look forward to this opportunity, to be with our kids for one more game."

Five Generations Celebrate with One of Londonderry's Oldest Citizens

The 101 and a half year-old local World War II veteran John Powers was surrounded by over 65 of his immediate family members during a family barbecue held at his son Chuck's home in Londonderry over the weekend. John has lived in Londonderry for a number of years with each of his two sons, John Jr. and Chuck. John Sr. grew up in Arlington Mass. and served in the military from 1940 to 1946 when he and three others volunteered for service in WWII. There were five generations of family members that gathered for the cookout on a hot Saturday afternoon. Powers is pictured above with his two sons.
