Town Council Gets Preview of Proposed Tax Incentive Plan

ALEX MAM
LONDONDERRY TIMES

During the April 18 Town Council meeting, Town Manager Michael Malaguti was given the opportunity to give a preview of a proposal that would be heard during a May 9 public hearing. He said that it is a reiteration of a program that was tabled in January.

He said that the proposal is to create tax incentives that would help to reallocate the tax burden so it lowers the burdens on residential homeowners and increases it for commercial properties.

Malaguti said that by having the incentives their goal is to be able to bring in industrial and commercial users into town. He said that by doing so it would then decrease the amount that residential property

ZBA Denies Variance for Young Road Development

ALEX MAM
LONDONDERRY TIMES

During the Wednesday, April 20, Zoning Board of Adjustment meeting the Board denied a case where a developer was looking to build 45, three-bedroom residential units at 22 Young Road. The developer had modified his variance request from earlier meetings and was hoping the board would grant him the ability to build 45 homes where only 20.66 are allowed by the town.

The case had been continued a number of times, once to allow abutters meet with the developer, and once because of too few board members attending the meeting.

John Cronin, a lawyer representing the developers, said that they originally asked for 55 homes to be built. He said that they were asked at the last meeting to meet with the abutters and address their concerns to see if there could be anything done about the density.

"It is believed that the abutters are satisfied with the conditions," said Cronin.

It was pointed out by Associate Planner Laura Gandia that due to the soil type and size only 20.66 three-bedroom units are allowed.

"That is what is allowed," said Gandia.

Cronin said that the state has different regulations and would allow 67. He said that the town has more stringent regulations.

"A project like this doesn't work with 20 units," said Cronin.

Aaron Orso, the developer for the proposed project said that if the variance was approved they would propose putting in a sidewalk from their development to

Board Names Dan Black as Interim Superintendent

ALEX MAM
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Londonderry will have an interim superintendent for one year after the School Board unanimously picked the current Assistant Superintendent Dan Black to fill the role during the April 19 School Board meeting.

Earlier this year current Superintendent Scott Laliberte announced that he would be retiring at the end of the school year. His last day is slated for July 1.

After Laliberte announced his retirement the Board hired The Bryan Group to help the School Board with the search in finding their next superintendent.

During the meeting Black was the one candidate that had a long interview.

Before coming to Londonderry Black served as the Assistant Superintendent for the Keene School District from 2013 to 2017.

One question that was asked was what programs and initiatives he was most proud of during his time as Assistant Superintendent.

Black said that when he got to Londonderry he was impressed with the commitment from the staff and community but said that they had to make some adjustments academically.

During his first couple of years he pointed to developing the portrait of a graduate program as a success.

Another program that he pointed to was response intervention which was a way to thoughtful-

Home Construction on Wiley Hill Road Continued by ZBA

ALEX MAM
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Zoning Board of Adjustment heard a case regarding a variance request to allow a single family house to be built on a lot with 100.58 feet of frontage where 150 feet are required during their April 20 meeting. The property is located at 8 Wiley Hill Rd.

Representing the owner Belize Real Estate Holding was Doug MacGuire. He said that they originally submitted their variance request in December, and said that the case was continued to January because only three voting members were present.

He said that they went back to the Board and it was continued again.

"There were concerns about traffic at the intersection of Willey Hill Road and High Range Road," said MacGuire.

MacGuire said that when they went to the Board in March there were only two voting members so they decided to continue the hearing.

MacGuire explained that he met with the direct abutter, and said that they felt that the original home location proposal would be too close to the property line.

Because of this he said that he moved the location to be more centrally located on the property making it 93 feet of distance from the property line.

MacGuire explained that the property frontage is reduced by the abutting property. He stated the abutting property utilizes frontage that isn't directly in front of their home to accommodate their frontage. Because of this it creates a different shape for his client's property.

He said that aside from the frontage they would meet all other criteria.

Maguire said that he worked with staff on the site distance plan.

"Everything has been addressed on the plan," said MacGuire.

He said that where they are proposing driveway is a better location than Willey Rd.

Chief Building Inspector Nick Codner said that Director of Public Works John Trottier hasn't determined the width of the driveway yet.

"We feel there should be better documentation of the lot line and the town's right of way," said Codner.

Zoning Board of Adjustment Vice Chair Jacqueline Benard said that they haven't been presented anything about it.

Benard said that the line of sight doesn't meet the criteria for the guardrail.

MacGuire said that it would be a few inches that is impacting it and it could be moved.

"We lack the documentation for everything you're telling us," said Benard.

MacGuire said he hasn't been asked for it.

"The guardrail was an issue before," said Benard.

Associate Planner Laura Gandia said that the concern from town staff is infringing more onto someone's property by moving the location of the guardrail. She said that the town hasn't looked into where the right of way is.

MacGuire said that he would provide documentation showing that the guardrail can be moved.

The case was ultimately continued to the May 18 meeting.

Tax Incentive

owners would have to pay for taxes.

Malaguti said that the previous proposal would've limited the program to certain areas.

Under the new proposal he said that it would be for the entire town of Londonderry.

"I am proposing a town wide program," said Malaguti.

Malaguti said that it would be a trial period of 18 months and would stop after 18 months unless there is action taken by the Town Council.

He said that the previous proposal would've sunset after five years which was the maximum allowed.

Some highlights that Malaguti pointed to is that the Council would explicitly be required to decide before they are given the benefit.

Malaguti said that they would be looking to see if it is beneficial to the town and if it isn't then the benefit would be given. He said that they are going to consider costs and determinants as well. For example he said they would look at how much infrastructure would be needed.

"We don't want commercial development just for the sake of having commercial development," said Malaguti.

Malaguti said under their charter they only have a limited amount of things they are able to do when it comes to tax incentives but the proposed program is one of them.

"We have a limited set of tools the state gives us to help taxpayers," said Malaguti.

Council Chair John Farrell said that he has been talking about needing this type of program for about five years.

Malaguti also told the Council that he had received some calls from residents who wanted to watch meetings through the cable channel but the meetings weren't recorded because there wasn't any staff available to record it.

He said that they are now able to tape the meetings in the room even if someone isn't available from the cable staff.

The Council also approved sending proposed ordinances for poultry and ground water protection to a public hearing. The plan is to have the public hearing on May 23.

Maria went above and beyond in all aspects of her life, which was evident in the events that she hosted, no matter the size. By far her favorite pastimes were watching and visiting her grandchildren, traveling with her husband, and being with her family, whom she loved fiercely. She will be remembered as a partner, a friend, a confidant, mentor, and the best mom.

Maria is survived by her husband and high school sweetheart, Kevin Anderson. Her children; Erin Waldvogel and her husband Lee, Jason Anderson and his wife Kelly, Sarah Guilbert and her husband Scott, and Meghan Anderson and her fish Nemo. the Copperfield Development, when they get to the Planning Board.

He said that he would also propose a right hand turn out of their development.

The size of the units would be 1,700 to 2,300 Orso said.

One question that was asked is if they would still have some affordable units like was originally proposed when they were going to build more units.

Orso said that they may consider that.

"We're open to that," said Orso.

Another question that was asked about the size of the lots.

"These are postage size lots," said Jacqueline Benard, the Vice Chair of the Board. She said she was concerned about people wanting to come to the ZBA to have things like a pool.

Cronin said that it is made perfectly clear that it is common land and no one would be able to have things in the common area.

"No individual homeowner would have the right to expand past their footprint," said Cronin.

Orso said that they are going to try to keep the prices to the mid to high $600,000 range but said it will heavily depend on things like inflation. He said for example the same house that cost him around $300,000 last year cost $450,000 this year.

Heidi Bennett the owner of 20 Young Road said that they always knew that the property would be developed and are happy to see changes made to the original proposal.

"We always knew that the property would get developed," said Bennett.

Town Council liaison Deb Paul said she got two calls that day both who were thankful that the developer took the time to consider the concerns of the abutters.

"They're happy that they got something done," said Paul.

Paul said that they still have some concerns however about the number of houses being built and traffic.

"I do applaud the developer for working with the abutters," said Paul.

She said that if they were able to reduce the number of houses by a couple that would help. She said that the turn onto 102 only would help but she doesn't think it would be easy to enforce.

Longtime resident Steven Young spoke against the project, he said the road was named after his family and added that they have been on the land since the 1750s and own 20 acres around their home.

"I'm stunned by the impact of the development," said Young.

Young said that it doesn't fit with the character of Londonderry, which is supposed to have houses spread out.

"This is an urban development," said Young. "It's going to change a Londonderry that I have known and loved for a long time."

Young said that large developments like the one being proposed are hurting the quality of life in Londonderry.

"I'm ashamed that we're talking about the urbanization of a place that I love," said Young.

Cronin said if they do a 20 lot subdivision they would have to cut down the trees and would get more million dollar houses.

The Zoning Board of Adjustment ultimately voted to deny the variance request.

ly come up with ways to make sure every student is learning.

Black was also asked about the top priorities and challenges for the District and how to approach them.

He said that the hardest thing for the past two years was COVID-19 and said that because of it they got off track. He said that Londonderry is a very disciplined school district.

"Getting back to that normalcy and getting back to that discipline approach is a big lift for us," said Black.

Aside from losing out on academics Black said that students also lost out on socialization. He said that they are continuing to look at what they can do about social and emotional learning.

Black said that he thinks they have been able to handle all the problems they have faced in the last two years due to COVID.

"I think our school system found a way to deal with every problem that came in front of us," said Black.

Black was also asked about his role in budget development and management during his time in Londonderry.

He told the school board that while he was in Keene he was in charge of the budget each year.

"That is a big time consuming process," said Black.

Black said that when he came to Londonderry he was more focused on academics but was in the room for budget development and was in an advisory.

He said that he is prepared to have a much larger role with the budget if given the position.

"I did it for four years straight in Keene," said Black.

Those in attendance also had the chance to submit questions to the School Board to ask Black.

One question asked was when they would resume the search for a permanent superintendent.

School Board Chair Amy Finamore said that they would probably continue the search in August or September.

The School Board also unanimously approved for Finamore and Vice Chair Sara Loughlin to negotiate the final terms of Black's contract based on the current superintendent's contract.

“April Showers Bring May Flowers”

As April comes to an end, and we all have our boots, umbrellas, and ponchos out for the rainy days, lets not forget to take out our vases for all May flowers.

The age-old saying “April Showers Bring May Flowers”, still holds true today, but where did this saying originate?

The saying originated from a poem way back in 1157, written by Thomas Tusser. The poem saying: “Sweet April showers do spring May flowers”.

If we travel back in time a bit further to the end of the Fourteenth Century, where legendary poem Geoffrey Chaucer had his own say on the month of April in his famous collection of stories titled, “The Canterbury Tales.” Chaucer’s version goes as follows Translation: “When in April the sweet showers fall That pierce March’s drought to the root and all And bathed every vein in liquor that has power To generate therein and sire the flower”. Although it could be said Thomas Tusser may be the father of this saying, Geoffrey Chaucer is certainly the creator.

This could have come about to get us out of the depression that looms from a long hard winter and the dreary, rainy months of early spring and encourage us to look forward to the month of May and much better weather.

When writing this I kept thinking about other sayings like: weeping endures for a night, but joy comes in the morning; there is a silver lining after each dark cloud; and this too shall pass.

The reality of death producing new life parallels with spring, the thought of sunshine following a season of gloom and sadness. Bringing us back to the saying, April showers bringing May flowers

All of this aligns with what is going on now. It is a reminder that even the most unpleasant of things, in this case the virus of 2020, will pass and we can expect very enjoyable things indeed in the near future light at the end of the tunnel, the end of a rainbow all apply - even an abundance of flowers in May. “April showers bring May flowers” is also a lesson in patience, and one that remains valid to this day.

Many of life’s greatest things come only to those who wait, patiently and happily enduring the new way of doing things. Take in the sights and smells of May and the rebirth of life. After all, it’s easier to love something if you begin with an optimistic outlook.

Have you had a season of setbacks, disappointments or hindrances? Do not be dismayed. Remember these things: there has never been a wind that did not change directions, clouds do not hang forever and April showers bring May flowers.

My point being after all this, we will come out better prepared and stronger for it. Sometimes you have to go through something truly hard to understand what is important and we will be better for it.

Happy Spring

To the editor,

It still feels chilly, for sure, but the bees are already busy outside. If you have dandelions, apples or forsythia, you’ll see them. This is a great time to plant a packet of wildflower seeds in a sunny part of your yard or at the ends of the rows in your garden. Several years ago, my husband and I started planting intentionally for bees and butterflies, and boy, did we get them! And, as a bonus, we’ve seen a much greater variety of beautiful birds all year. If you have your yard sprayed for mosquitos, just ask them to avoid your wildflower areas. Most companies know to do this anyway. Happy Spring, Londonderry!

School Process

To the editor,

It is concerning that our newly hired interim Superintendent has a history of being less than transparent with parents. There is evidence of this behavior going back to the Keene SAU as far back as 2015. Is Dan Black really the best candidate to be the administrative head of our district?

The School Board’s selection process showed an absolute lack of transparency. Not announcing the identity or qualifications prior, only interviewing one candidate, and limiting and controlling public access to the candidate were all very intentional decisions made by our Board to limit public involvement in the process.

Londonderry’s official policy is that parents have a special and unique right to be informed of the day to day operations of the District-the actions of our School Board are not reflective of this, nor respectful to ANY parents, irrespective of the results of recent local elections.

Londonderry had a reputation years ago as the premiere education location in Southern NH, a place to raise your family in great schools. Sadly, my experience here as my children have hit school age is the exact opposite. I am continuously discouraged and disappointed by the actions, attitudes, and behaviors of people in leadership positions across the District, to include the School Board. I do not believe in my heart that the majority of these individuals are pro-children in their decision-making capacity. Local and State politics have led to SAU’s placing greater weight on employment security and privacy provisions for staff, than on actual professional development that would enable what could otherwise likely be a fine group of educators, support staff, and leaders.

We have elementary school administrators who blatantly disregard District Policy, as I have written before. We have a Kindergarten Administrator more focused on the next phase of her mural project than on advocating for Moose Hill to be higher on the district priority list than the District Office. And we now have an interim Superintendent who has blatantly told parents in the past “shut up and let me do my job” when questioned for not being transparent about opting out of standardized testing.

We have School Board members who lecture the town on proper behavior and misinformation, but then send out personal misinformation emails from their Londonderry.org email address without repercussion. I may be just a transplant but this is my Londonderry too and it is disheartening.

Parents who attended April 19’s School Board Meeting patiently waited through hours of presentations on Social and Emotional Learning, only to find out that the Board had made an Ad Hoc decision to remove the Public Comment period from the session. If only this much effort were put into making up for endless days of learning less over the last two school years! No Dan, Summer Math Academy doesn’t cut it.

No one at the District can provide a satisfactory answer to anyone, from parents to lifelong residents and taxpayers, on why we spend more dollars per child each school year, but have less success in our children to show for it. COVID isn’t the reason why some parents pay for reading instruction out of pocket. What happened to Londonderry being a leading education community?

Let’s get back there again.

the actions and direction of our Board. Our children are now adults; however, we love Londonderry and care deeply about the future of community.

The first things that struck us at the September/October meetings we attended was the presence of uniformed and armed police officers. If the School Board truly believes that it requires police protection from its residents and parents, then it may be time for the Board to take a moment to reflect on its own actions and on the manner in which it comports itself in its dealings with the public in attendance at these meetings.

The second thing that made an impact on us was the behavior of this Board, before and after the March 2022 election. Board members being dismissive and rude to parents and meeting attendees that do not toe the Board's line. The Chair of the Board does not hide her contempt for parents, rudely interrupt parents and residents providing testimony at meetings, they stall and do all in their power to delay or postpone the public comment portion of meetings to the end of many hours long meetings, literally run out of the room to a nearby corridor when confronted with tough questions, walk out of meetings to go into "secret" sessions during meetings, and generally behave in an unacceptable manner. They consistently gas light residents and parents on masking, sex ed, CRT, five years of lowering achievement test scores, Board appointments to vacated seats, the hiring of a new Superintendent, and many other current hot topics we are facing, all the while treating concerned parents like a bunch of uneducated rubes. Let's focus more on reading, writing, math, social studies and history and less on "woke" agenda items.

So where do we go from here? This School Board, both the 2021 and the 2022 versions, has polarized this town through its actions. The Board has politicized and poisoned the well on the appointment of interim members to fill vacant spots and the selection of the Interim Superintendent. We should be supporting and electing the best School Board candidates that will best serve our kids, not based on the political party they are affiliated with. This needs to stop. We are at the breaking point in Londonderry. We cannot move forward as a community and this is damaging families, kids, and the viability of our town as desirable place to live in NH. We have become the butt of jokes in Concord and throughout Southern NH. The Chair of the Board, the two new members elected in March, and the rest of the Board need to take a long hard look at themselves and change immediately. Enough is enough.

NH Education

To the editor,
This letter is for Gov. Sununu. Edelblutt is your man. You have pushed his appointment and now there is no distancing yourself from him. I am wondering how you think your friendly business approach is going to succeed? Are companies with young employees going to want their children to be brought up here in an education system that offers no support to its teachers? Indeed Edelblutt is doing all he can do to destroy public education. Promoting charter schools, freedom education accounts, which does allocate to home-schoolers $4500 per student with very little accountability, religious schools, along with the passing of the law that prevents the teaching of Critical race theory (which is not being taught in NH) no teaching of subjects he feels are not family values, i.e. transgender children, socialism just to mention a few of social values that he objects to. For an article that does much better justice to this topic, please read NPR's "NH's Top Educational Official accuses Teachers of Knowingly Dismantling" family values, by Sarah Gibson. Of note why, oh why would Sununu have wanted an education official who homeschooled his seven children?

In This Town

To the editor,
Much like the welcome signs that tell visitors "In the house, we ...", I imagine a similar message relating to Londonderry, and more specifically, to our public schools and the students they serve. An individual family might have a sign that reads very differently from the residents next door, but a community message would appeal to the broader interests of the collective. I created this for my own personal inspiration, reflecting upon what makes Londonderry great and how together, we might aspire to be better, together. When I reflect upon what makes Londonderry special to me, I picture the people who love unconditionally, who support their neighbors, and those who make every effort to leave this town a little better for the next generation. What brings many of us together, is a shared interest in creating a public school environment where students can thrive.

In this town, we value the teachers, administrators and support staff who commit themselves to our young learners and the monumental task of preparing them for a world beyond the one they know.

In this town, we practice gratitude for updated text books and technology that will propel students forward, giving them access to curriculum designed and supported by empirical data and longitudinal studies.

In this town, we recognize that all students deserve safe, affirming spaces that permit them to be exactly who they are with pride and joy.

In this town, our neurodivergent, differently abled, special needs, LGBTQIA, and PoC students remind us that we live among social constructs and norms that can and should be challenged to offer greater inclusivity.

In this town, we understand that social emotional learning builds self awareness and teaches self-control, establishing a pattern of mindfulness that will aid students throughout their ages and stages.

In this town, we see potential for growth and we invest in outcomes that will reflect back to us the changes we wish to see in the world.

In this town, we recognize that equity ensures that all students receive the resources they need to graduate prepared for the world.

In this town, we recognize that equity ensur-

School District Begins Fact Checking Public Comments During

ALEX MAM
LONDONDERRY TIMES

During the April 19 School Board meeting Vice Chair Sara Loughlin said after talking to the Administration in her role as the liaison for school administrators it was determined that they needed to come up with a plan to address information brought up during public comment at board meetings.

"There were questions, comments and concerns that needed to be addressed from the last meeting," said Loughlin.

In a letter following the meeting from the School District it pointed to "few factual statements to clear up the misinformation shared. One member of the public held up a book at the April 5 School Board meeting and stated this was a book in one of our libraries – specifically the middle school – that was controversial and they did not approve of it," the letter read. "The member of the public held up the book – 'This Book is Anti-Racist' by Tiffany Jewel. Our librarians determined that this book is not in the catalog at Londonderry Middle School nor any of the schools in our district."

Loughlin said that it's important to be transparent with the community about what is actually going on. She said that it is difficult to address comments during the meetings especially when they are sometimes hearing about it for the first time.

"I will admit I was extremely concerned at the last meeting when I first heard of a possible sexual assault happening at Londonderry High School," said Loughlin.

In the letter from the District it stated "One member of the public claimed at the April 5 School Board meeting from reading the Londonderry Police Log that there was a sexual offense that took place in Londonderry High School during the prior week."

"There was no sexual offense that took place at Londonderry High School. The School's SRO (School Resource Officer) took a report regarding an alleged sexual offense that took place off campus during off-school hours," the letter read. "The SRO submitted an 'Offense #' which initiates the report and investigation. There is a 'Location' section on that police log, which references LHS, because that is where the report was taken, not where the offense allegedly occurred. In the future, the LPD will not use a school address in a report if an incident did not occur within the school building."

Loughlin said that she wanted the community to know that they are looking into what is brought up during the meetings.

"We want the community to know that we are looking into all these topics that get brought up during public comment," said Loughlin.

Loughlin said that while they may not have a direct answer at the time of the meeting she said they would gather facts after the meeting so they can report out to the community what the truth is.

She said that if any administrator at the meeting has the facts at the school board meeting and wants to address something after public comment they will allow it. If not they will get the information.

Loughlin said that the facts would be provided before public comment at the following meeting.

"We want the community to know that we take all their concerns seriously," said Loughlin.

In this town, we take on the bold challenge to be warmer, more welcoming representatives of our community, know-

Lancer Baseball Squad Evens Season with Three Wins

LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Londonderry High School Baseball team strung together three, much-needed wins last week to put their early season record at 3-3.

After suffering three straight losses to open the 2022 season the Lancers three very solid victories in their second week against Timberlane, Trinity and Concord.

The week began with a third defeat, at home, on Monday, April 18, in a 1-0 game against Exeter High School, but the Lancers rebounded nicely with a 10-5 win over Timberlane for their first win on Wednesday afternoon.

In that game, the LHS squad came back from a 5-1 deficit in the fourth, plating nine runs in the final three innings for victory.

Mike Crowley, Brady Anderson and Tyler Miles combined efforts on the mound for six strikeouts, five walks and seven hits. Starting pitcher, Crowley, earned the win.

Senior Jack Marshall had a homerun in the fifth inning to drive in two runs.

Fellow senior Adam Wholly went 3 for 4 at the plate with a double and scored three runs.

Junior Kevin Rourke hit the team's other double, going two for three with two RBIs.

Overall the Lancer squad had nine hits with just two striking out.

Two days later, on Friday, April 22, the Lancers got their second win with a 6-4 victory of the Trinity High School Pioneers in Manchester.

Londonderry took a 3-0 lead in the first inning and never relinquished it for the two-run victory.

Wholly pitched five and two-third innings for the win with Jayden Hamilton coming in for an inning and a third to get the save. Wholly had five strikeouts and allowed five hits and two runs.

Hamilton, Aiden Washington and Johan Pena each doubled in the game.

Trinity mounted a charge late in the game with a run in the sixth and two runs in the bottom of the seventh, but LHS scored three in the top of the third thanks to Hamilton's double to hang in for the win.

The Lancer squad's week ended with a successful trip to the state capital, where they beat the Crimson Tide 10-6.

The LHS bunch got off to a four-run advantage by the third inning. Scoring one in the first, three in the second and two in the third for the 6-3 lead.

Concord brought it to within one, with two runs in the fifth, but Londonderry erased their momentum in the sixth, scoring three to help solidify their win.

The win went to young freshman Brady Gillis, who pitched five innings, allowing five runs on eight hits and striking out three batters.

Rourke came in for two innings in relief and got the save, allowing one run and three hits.

Pena and Owen Carey each had a double in the game. Connor Fennell and Hamilton each went two for four at the plate.

The team will finish the month of April this week with games against Bedford, on the road on Monday, and home games with Alvirne and Keene.

Lancer Tennis Teams Battle to End April

CHRIS PAUL
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Londonderry High School Boys' and Girls' Tennis teams finished their matches for the month of April last week and both nearly had their first team wins of the season.

The boys had three games on their home courts last week and nearly pulled out their first team win in one of them.

On Monday, April 18, the Lancers faced the Exeter Blue Hawks and came away with two wins for a 2-7 result.

Camden Poitras added to his winning streak in singles for one of the Londonderry points with an 8-0 win. In doubles, Poitras and Connor Lord had an 8-3 victory.

In the match two days later, against the Merrimack Tomahawks, the Lancer came close, but were not able to get their first team win with two of their starters out of the lineup due to illness.

Poitras had another 8-0 win in singles and Aiden Board added to the team total with a 8-2 win in the #3 spot.

In doubles, the team of Poitras and Lord won 8-5 and Board/Devon Pacheco won 8-3.

In the team's final match of the month, against Keene, the boys were able to win three for a 3-6 result.

Poitras dealt another 8-0 defeat to that team in singles and sophomore Devon Pacheco came up big with a 9-7 win of his own, battling for every point in his singles match. Poitras and Lord won in doubles 8-4.

The girls only had two matches last week.

On Monday afternoon the Lady Lancers lost to Exeter 0-9, but they bounced back quite nicely against the Lady Tomahawks two days later.

In that match, in Merrimack, Londonderry got an 8-6 win from Susan Kim and an 8-0 victory from Maylee Valentin in singles.

They also got two wins in doubles. The team of Catherine Brown and Jillian Mazzola managed a 8-4 win and the pair of Maylee Valentin and Shayna Elghazal won 8-3.

Lady Lancer Lacrosse Squad Drops a Pair in Week Two

CHRIS PAUL
LONDONDERRY TIMES

After starting the 2022 spring sports season at 2-1 with solid win against Merrimack and Hollis-Brookline, the Londonderry High School Girls' Lacrosse squad stumbled in the second week. The Lady Lancer had two road games last week and were edged out by their opponents in both games to put their early record at 2-3. On Monday afternoon, April 18, the LHS squad traveled to Nashua South High School and suffered a tough 9-7 to the Lady Purple Panthers. To Londonderry's credit, the Nashua South squad finished the second week of the season undefeated and the Lancers had the closest finish during the Panthers six-game winning streak. In that two-goal loss, Londonderry had goals from seniors Tara

Tara Wright

Wright and Caroline Leone with two each. Freshman Ava Naar, sophomore Lilah Melia and junior Lauren Allen each had one goal. In the team's second loss of the week, on Friday, April 22 at the Bill Ball Stadium at Exeter High School the Lady Lancers dropped a very close 12-11 game to the Lady Blue Hawks. Tara Wright was the goal leader for her team with four shots getting by the Exeter goaltender. Lauren Allen had three goals, and Ava Naar and Ashleigh Leone each had one. Assists went to Melia, Wright, Leone and junior Abbie Whitley. The schedule didn't get much easier for LHS this week. They had a game Monday afternoon at Pinkerton Academy (4-1) followed by a game against the undefeated Bedford Lady Bulldogs, at home on Friday, April 29.

Lancers Boys Lax Team Gets Second Win in Close Battle

CHRIS PAUL
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Win have been hard to come by in the early stages of the spring season for the Londonderry Boys Lacrosse team, but they got their second win in a close 6-5 victory over Nashua South High School to end the second week of the season. After suffering two, wide-margin losses at home to Bishop Guertin and Exeter High School during the first week of the season, the Lancers began their second week with a one-goal victory on the road against a very tough Purple Panther team. The 6-5 LHS win marked the first loss of the season for Nashua South and the second win for the Londonderry contingent. In the Lancers second game of the week the boys traveled to Cape Elizabeth High School in Maine, where they battled into overtime to a tough 11-10 defeat. That loss put the Lancers season record at 3-2 with three tough games to look forward to in the third week of the season. The team played Pinkerton Academy at home on Monday followed by another game at LHS on Wednesday against Malden Catholic and they finish the week at Bedford High School on Friday, April 25.
