The Londonderry High School Adult Education Program held its annual Spring Commencement on Thursday night, June 2, and proudly sent off 32 graduates with their High School Equivalency

Certificates.

Adult Education Director, Crystal Rich, welcomed families and friends to the event held at the high school gymnasium that evening, where 30 of the 32 graduates attended and received accolades for the achievement.

Superintendent Scott Laliberte and School Board Chairperson Amy Finnermore gave brief congratulatory remarks as the event got started, praising the students for overcoming obstacles they've encountered.

Councilor Looks for Details on Tax Incentive Program

CHRIS PAUL
LONDONDERRY TIMES

With one member of the Town Council needing more information on the town's idea for a commercial and industrial tax incentive program, the ordinance was continued until the next meeting before a vote could be taken on whether the board is in favor of the new plan.

The newly revised ordinance has been presented a number of times to the Town Council and on Monday night, Town Manager Mike Malaguti, disclosed the revisions made from comments given at a previous meeting.

One of the revisions was to get rid of one of the tiers in the program. Tier three would have allowed any project higher than $2.5 million to be eligible for a tax break, but now, the smallest project that will be allowed has to be at least $15 million or greater.

Another change that made was to make the time allowed shorter for the tax break. It was originally proposed for bigger projects to get 10-years of incentive, now it is just five-years.

In all cases, the Town

Council will review projects looking to take advantage of the Tax incentive program on a case-by-case basis and will grant them or deny them if they are deemed not to be in the best interest of the town.

The length of the expiration time was also altered in this revision. The program will now expire two-years after being passed.

Councilor Deb Paul was the only member that didn't see it as a benefit to the tax-payers, saying that she felt the ordinance benefited the businesses and not

High School Announces Valedictorian, Salutatorian

ALEX MAM
LONDONDERRY TIMES

This weekend the Londonderry High School Class of 2022 will be graduating marking the end of four years of high school.

This year's Valedictorian is Annabella Wu.

"Earning the title of Valedictorian is the perfect culmination to 4 years of sleepless nights, stress, and sacrifice. It is a reflection of all the effort I put into my academics. My title is also a reflection of the strong supportive network behind me," said Wu. "I couldn't have done it without my family, friends, and mentors."

Asked what her favorite moments were during high school Wu said "school was filled with memorable events like pep rallies and field trips, but my favorite memories were all the moments in-between."

"Singing loudly in the school bathroom with the dance team as we got ready to perform, rehearsing with the Mr. LHS contestants until midnight, joking and laughing with my classmates during work periods, cheering on athletic teams as they competed - those are the memories I will miss the most," said Wu.

Wu and the rest of her classmates also dealt with adversity during their school careers including dealing with the pandemic.

"Like many of my peers, I struggled mentally and emotionally during my junior year of high school. It was extremely draining having to maintain high achievements in school

During her time in high school Wu was the captain of the dance team, president of the National Honors Society, a representative of the Class of 2022, board member of Community Service Club, and a competitor on the math team.

"Outside of school, I dance ballet and contemporary, conduct sustainability research, and compete in the Miss America organization," said Wu.

This fall Wu plans to attend Dartmouth College where she plans to major in engineering and economics.

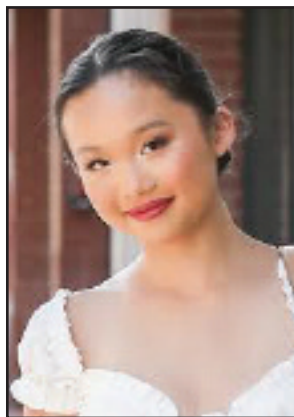

"My future career plans are open; I hope to explore my options in college," said Wu.

Salutatorian

This year's salutatorian is Grace McDonough.

McDonough said that the most difficult part of her high school career was managing her time.

"Juggling school, athletics, and extracurriculars took practice and patience," said McDonough. "As a dedicated member of all those communities, I always put forth my best effort in all areas, meaning my schedule would fill up pretty quickly and I would get overwhelmed at times with the number of commitments I had."

McDonough said that while she feels honored earning the distinction she said she doesn't feel she earned it alone.

"It's thanks to my supportive family, friends, and incredible teachers that I achieved such success in high school," said McDonough.

Asked what her favorite moments were during her time as a Londonderry student McDonough said it was the time spent outside of the classroom.

"I treasure walking the halls during spirit week, the pep rallies before Mack Plaque, Friday night football games, and simply catching up with friends in between classes, something we were temporarily deprived of due to the pandemic," said McDonough.

This fall McDonough said she plans on attending Connecticut College in New London, where she will also be running cross country and track and field.

"Although I'm unsure exactly what job I will pursue, I am interested in working with children in some regard, whether that be as a teacher, guidance counselor, or a different avenue," said McDonough.

A life long Londonderry resident her sister

Cailey was a member of the Londonderry Class of 2020.

McDonough said that the Class "were deprived of many senior activities and traditions, so I realize how fortunate we are this year for everything to be back to normal."

"My mom is a local preschool teacher in Londonderry, so that is where my love for working with children originated," said McDonough. "I am a member of the LHS girls cross country, indoor, and outdoor track and field teams and this past year, I served as secretary of our school's chapter of the National Honor Society."

McDonough said that she is thankful for the Londonderry community.

"I just want to thank everyone in the Londonderry school community," said McDonough. "From Moose Hill to Londonderry High School, I have felt loved and welcomed into every classroom, thanks to the countless educators and administrators at every level. I am so fortunate to call this Londonderry community my home."

Planning Board Approves Changes For Church Addition

ALEX MAM
LONDONDERRY TIMES

During the June 1 Planning Board meeting one of the agenda items was in regards to a site plan amendment for the construction of a 7,500 square foot two story building addition along with associated site improvements for the property at 136 Pillsbury Road.

The owner of the property is Orchard Christian Fellowship.

It was explained by Director of Engineering and Environmental Services John Trottier that the site plan was originally approved in 2012 which would consist of two buildings. He stated the proposal was to build the two buildings in two different phases with the first phase being the sanctuary and the parking and then the second phase being classroom and office space.

He said that they were looking for approval to amend the plan for phase 2.

Ian McGregor from North Point Engineering said that instead of having two buildings which was the original plan they were proposing to just have one building.

It was explained by Keri Owen the architect for the project that they want to match the new building to the existing features on the sanctuary including having the same vinyl siding.

"The sanctuary is very monomunetus and we didn't want to take away from the feel of the look of the sanctuary," said Owen.

Owen explained the second building will be built into the roof line of the original building.

Owen said that overall they are going to try to make the new building look similar to the current one.

"The biggest intent is to make it look like it was part of the original sanctuary when it was originally built," said Owen.

McGregor said they also submitted a revised traffic report. He said that it wouldn't create more traffic.

McGregor noted the storage shed on site will be relocated to the corner of the parking lot and that some grading will need to be done so it is flat for the shed.

Planning Board Ex-Officio Deb Paul asked what kind of school they would be having there.

"Primarily this is for our children's ministry," said Pastor Ken Glasier.

Glasier said that they are also looking at potentially having it be a childcare center for the Londonderry community. "That is something we are taking a look at," said Glasier.

Paul also asked if there is a plan for a fenced area for the kids.

McGregor said that their current plan is for kids to be there for an hour or two at a time. He said if there was a change and they would be looking to operate a daycare then they would have to go back to the Planning Board for a change of use.

Planning Board member Ann Chiampa recused herself from the application as a Planning Board member because she is on the Londonderry Historical Society board which is an abutter of the church. During public comment Chiampa said that they have been a good neighbor to the Society.

Members ultimately approved the plan.

Heritage Commission Gives Approval For Trades Storage Facility

ALEX MAM
LONDONDERRY TIMES

During the May 26 Heritage Commission meeting one of the agenda items was in regards to a proposed site plan amendment for the construction of a 7,200 square foot building and associated site improvements, for the property of 3 Akira Way which is owned by Fairwind Properties.

It was explained by Brian Pratt of Fuss and O'Neill that the original site plan was approved to be 9,600 square feet.

He said that the new developer wanted to do things differently which meant having it smaller.

Pratt explained that as an example the developer wanted to have it as a circulation around the building which meant having five storage units that are bigger instead of eight of them. Pratt said that it is expected for people like plumbers or electricians to have a storage area for their tools and supplies.

Pratt said one of the main benefits of shrinking the building was it could all be on one level making it easier for the customers but also allow a customer to rent out more than one unit at once. He stated that previously as part of the plan there would've been steps involved for some of the units.

Sarah Schaffer from Bruce Ronayne Hamilton Architects explained that they are going to have colors that will be similar to the theme of the Londonderry colors.

Pratt pointed out that the landscaping didn't change from the original plan and said that they also have added some green space to the plan.

He said that one of the main pieces of feedback they received from the Conservation Commission is that they weren't a fan of the pear trees which were originally part of the plan. He said that they would be swapping them out with what the Commission recommends.

Pratt explained they don't have specific signage shown because it will be up to each of the individual tenant. He said that the stipulations will be that they can have the sign of their company on a small tenant sign above their door. He said that they will be allowed to have up to 12 feet of signage per unit.

He said that customers aren't going to be going there and will be more primarily used as a storage so they don't need large signs.

Pratt also noted that they aren't going to have lighting for the monument sign.

One of the discussions regarding signage centered around the color of the signs. Pratt said that he doesn't want to put a burden on the companies when they put the logos on their signs if they have to all be the same colors. As a compromise it was suggested that all the background colors for the signs have to be the same which he agreed to.

The Heritage Commission approved the application with the one stipulation being that the monument sign must meet the ZBA ordinance.

Graduation Wishes

We all have defining moments in our lives that help shape our future as well as create memories. Some happen by chance, but others are an eagerly anticipated part of life; graduation from high school, graduation from college, first apartment, first real job, marriage, and childbirth, to name a few. Pinkerton Academy and Londonderry High School's ceremonies will hold their graduations on June 10, sending a multitude of students into the next phase of their lives.

Graduation is an ending, no question, but it's also a commencement. Perhaps it is better to look at it as a remarkable beginning, the next chapter. From a parent's perspective, graduation is an in-your-face reminder of the passage of time. The trusting eyes of a newborn and the small hand held on the first day of school now belong to a young adult, likely taller than his or her parents, soon to wear a cap and gown and walk confidently across the stage to accept a high school diploma.

We rarely see ourselves getting older until something momentous happens; there's no denying that hearing the name of your child announced as a member of the graduating class is one such occasion. For the graduates themselves, this moment marks the end of "childhood." While they may never have it so good again, the graduates are now officially on the path to building lives of their own. Whether the next step involves college, work, travel, or military service, they're responsible for their own decisions and for what the rest of their life becomes.

On a small scale, that may mean preparing their own meals and getting somewhere on time. But on the grand scale, it translates to setting goals and developing a path to achieve them, then stepping out onto that path.

It's exciting – and it's serious business. The life we make for ourselves is the only one we'll have. For both parents and students, graduation is a rite of passage, that's what all the robes and decorations and parties signify. It marks a transition again for both student and parent to the rest of life. Not much is more exciting or scary than that.

Our advice to the graduates, consider where you want to go, literally and metaphorically, as well as where you've been. Think of what has brought you to this wonderful occasion. Be safe. Be bold. Mistakes are inevitable. Don't be afraid to take that leap into your dreams.

Congratulations to both parents and students, and the best of wishes for what lies ahead.

Deers in the Orchard

To the editor,
I have lived in the "Old Red Brick Schoolhouse" now for over 25 years. It sits next to "Woodmont" and "Macks". It has always been my understanding that the entities are compensated for crop damage. I know there is an IRS Code for it also. This past year I was able to set up game cameras and welcome the animals. A hunting permit at night is not feasible. There are orchards in Pennsylvania with deer fences, although I'm sure it would be expensive. This is a no brainer and looks to be used extensively in this Town, but here are my thought. Let's forget about the history of the Town, rid the orchards, put up a few Pharmacies, then convert them to fire-works stores in time for the fourth, let them sit vacant for two years, then start another Over 55 complex without the thought of traffic. We are dealing with monthly mass shootings and we are putting this much effort into "Munched Branches?"

Thanks, posts should be monitored for potential shooter comments, and people should report these warning signs to authorities.

Schools should have entrances reinforced and locked, and only one entrance should be used. Alarm systems should be installed on all entrances except the main entrance. Weaponizing and training a few teachers/administrators should be evaluated. Why wasn't the Uvalde school police officer in the school at the time of the shooting?

Nineteen Texas police officers stood in a hallway outside the Uvalde school classrooms for about 48 minutes waiting for a tactical police force to arrive. During that time students made 911 calls while sporadic shots were heard in the classrooms. These officers should have shot open the door and broken windows to confront the shooter. Local police officers should not be waiting for tactical support in a situation like this, but should immediately stop the shooter.

Choose Love

To the Editor,
As a school board, we are thrilled to be able to support the many wonderful initiatives, teachers and staff we have in our district!

We were excited to hear about Choose Love and the growth of our social-emotional learning curriculum across the district. This program helps students, in age-appropriate ways, identify and select strategies to self-regulate and make thoughtful choices, and helps students understand the impact they can have on others.

We heard stories of children practicing their "brave breath" when they were nervous, and a wonderful story of a group of children practicing compassion in action when they stopped recess play when they thought a friend got hurt. By pausing their play, their behavior demonstrated the care they feel for their friend and showed the friend how much they are valued.

Social emotional learning has positive impacts both socially and academically. Students are not only taught to identify their emotions, but also encouraged to utilize self-awareness and management strategies to help them problem solve and communicate with the goal of working through and overcoming obstacles. Rather than giving up when faced with a challenging assignment, students have the tools to say "I'm frustrated", which gives their teacher and peers invaluable information they can use to respond.

It was moving to hear directly from students across grade levels. To hear directly from our students, please watch the April 19 school board meeting, from the 1:22 hour marker to 2:35 hour marker. From the School Board to our principals, teachers, staff and students: We were excited to hear from you about Choose Love and are happy to support such great programs!

Lessons Emanating From A School Shooting

To the editor,
The shooting in Uvalde Texas shows the need to restrict the sale of assault weapons to just the military and police.

The shooting revealed numerous factors contributed to the massacre, including warning signs that were missed on social media, the school was not secured, and police showed ineptitude in doing their job.

Retiring Industrial Arts teacher Terri Rocheleau was the Staff Speaker at the graduation. She spoke of how lucky she has been to watch so many of "her kids" graduate over the years.

She said to the class graduating, "Life is a book we all get to write our own. Some of the chapters are great, full of love, adventure and great prospects. Other chapters, not so much, they have heart ache, loss and don't always go our way. What we always need to remember that we can always turn the page and write a new chapter."

She added, "Always remember, if things don't work out the first

ZBA Approves Variance For Self Storage Facility Plan

ALEX MAM
LONDONDERRY TIMES

During the May 18 Londonderry Zoning Board of Adjustment meeting one of the agenda items was a variance request to allow for a self-storage facility at 6 Rear Roundstone Drive.

Representing the applicant and owner was John Cronin.

It was explained by Cronin that the owner acquired the property years ago and has looked at having a number of different uses on the property.

"He tried many different ways to find a use for it. A lot has happened since he has acquired it," said Cronin.

Cronin explained that on one side a road was built where the frontage is located and there is a conservation easement surrounding it.

"It's also surrounded by an airport drive conservation easement," said Cronin.

Cronin said that the property is located on about 14 acres of land and has some wetlands throughout it and is an irregular shape.

"The proposed plan protects all of the wetlands," said Cronin.

Cronin said that they are proposing to have 10 temperature controlled storage units and they wouldn't be seeking any variances for outdoor storage units.

Cronin said that inside the zone there are only a limited number of uses including have a trucking terminal there, along with a wholesale businesses or a warehouse.

Cronin said that the modern trend is people having a difficult time getting rid of things and when they downsize their homes they often get storage units.

"These temperature control facilities are really in high demand," said Cronin.

Cronin said that through their proposal it will give people in Londonderry another option when it comes to storage units.

"It will give them storage opportunities or options," said Cronin.

Cronin also explained that it would be a good tax generator for the Town because there wouldn't be a cost to the town because there won't be any children in school. He said that the use would cost very little to the Town.

Cronin explained that because of access to it and because of the traffic they don't think they could have a trucking terminal or warehouse on the property despite it being zoned for it.

"We believe we satisfy the hardship standard on two different standards," said Cronin.

Cronin said that a large warehouse or trucking terminal wouldn't fit into the characteristics of the neighborhood and would generate a lot of additional traffic especially compared to having storage units there.

It was pointed out by Cronin that usually traffic for storage facilities are busy on Saturday and Sundays and usually it is in and out traffic.

Cronin said that he doesn't think there will be any issues with the traffic for the neighborhood if the variance is approved. He also noted that the Planning Board has the right to ask for a full traffic study before they give approval.

No one spoke in support or in opposition for the application.

The Board unanimously approved the variance request with the one condition being that no outdoor storage would be allowed on the property.

the residents. She also feared that commercial property owners would also be able to take advantage of tax abatements, thus hurting the tax base.

She felt that the ordinance would de-value Londonderry, saying the town should be able to attract business on its existing merits.

Paul wanted more information on how other towns have taken advantage of this program and how it has worked for them.

It was brought up that only a few towns have used the state-offered legislation, so it will be difficult to collect the data she wanted.

The towns mentioned were Milford and towns in Coos County.

There were a number of residents that also spoke against the program during the public hearing and one that was in favor.

It was ultimately decided that the ordinance should be continued until the next meeting on June 20.

The LHS team picked up their second victory of the championship when they played host to the Windham High School Jaguars, the 10th seed, with a 10-0 drubbing of that team.

Junior pitcher Mike Crowley got the win, throwing six innings with seven Ks, two walks and four hits.

Lady Lancer Softball Survives Two Close Games in Playoffs

CHRIS PAUL
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Londonderry High School Varsity Softball squad is moving onto the semifinals by virtue of two one-run wins in the first two rounds of the Division I State Championships.

The Lady Lancers beat Spaulding High School 7-6 in the first round and Winnacunnet 4-3 in the quarterfinals and will face Concord at Plymouth State University for a chance to play for their first championship.

In the first round game over the Spaulding Red Raiders, LHS needed to overcome a 6-1 deficit by the third inning to claim victory and move on.

Londonderry entered the tourney as the number three seed and hosted the number 14 seed on Wednesday, June 1.

Three Lancer pitchers were called to the circle in the game, with sophomore Olivia Cutuli getting the win.

Sarah Woodruff was the game's starter, but was knocked out after two and two thirds innings, giving up six runs on seven hits and five walks.

Mya Gaspie pitched a third of an inning in relief and Cutuli finished the final four with nine strikeouts, one walk and two hits.

Senior Liana Sawyer was 3-4 at the plate, Cutuli had two hits on four at bats with a home run and junior Nina Corvino had two hits, two runs and two RBIs in the win.

Londonderry's biggest inning came in the third, down 6-1, Sawyer and Cutuli singled to start and Olivia Chau walked to load the bases. Corvino knocked two in with a single and two more runs came in on an error by the catcher.

Sarah Minton tied the game at six in the fifth with a single to drive in Corvino and Cutuli hit the game-winning home run in the sixth.

In the win over Winnacunnet on Saturday, June 4, Londonderry took a 2-0 lead early, but wound up needing an extra inning to beat the number six seed.

Cutuli got her second playoff win with a complete game performance, striking out nine batters, walking two and giving up just six hits. The three runs scored by the Warriors were all unearned.

Cutuli hit her second home run of the playoffs in the first inning two take the 2-0 lead early and in the sixth, Lauren Landini made it 3-0 with a sac fly to right, scoring

Chau who had hit a lead-off single.

Winnacunnet tied the game in the seventh, in part thanks to two infield errors, two singles and a double.

Landini also hit a game-winning single in the bottom of the eighth, driving in Corvino who had a leadoff single.

The Lady Lancers combined for 13 hits in the game.

Lancers Boys Lacrosse Squad heads to Semifinals with Exeter

CHRIS PAUL

The Londonderry High School Boys Lacrosse team is moving on to the semifinals in the Division I state championship after a 9-3 quarterfinal victory over the Merrimack High School squad over the weekend.

With only one game being played in the first round bracket of the state championship games, the Lancers tournament started in the quarterfinals, with a game against the number five seeded Tomahawks at LHS on Saturday afternoon.

The LHS team entered the tourney as the number four seed and wound up making pretty quick work of their MHS opponent with a 9-3 victory.

The Lancers took a 3-1 lead after one quarter and finished the half leading 4-1.

Two LHS goals in the third brought the contest to 6-1 with just one period remaining. In the final quarter, Londonderry added three more goals to Merrimack's two for the one-sided win.

Lancer junior Nathan Pedrick had three goals in the game, scoring one in all but the first period.

Senior John Baumann started the scoring in the first with fellow senior Josh DeFranzo getting the second goal of the game shortly after.

Merrimack got one back at 5:25 in the first, but Baumann answered with his second at 4:21 to finish the scoring in the first.

The second quarter was fair quiet for both side, but Pedrick scored his first of the game at 2:32 before the halftime break.

Colby Walden made a number of stops in goal for Londonderry in that period.

In the third, Pedrick made it 5-1 at the eight minute mark and Noah Malcolm added another just over a minute later for the 6-1 lead.

Malcolm, DeFranzo and Pedrick all tacked on one goal each in the final quarter for the 9-3 win.

The Lancers were scheduled to face the number one seed in the bracket on Wednesday, June 8, at the Bill Ball Stadium against Exeter High School.

The game was scheduled to start at 7:15 p.m.

Londonderry suffered two lopsided losses when they faced Exeter during the regular season, so the challenge to move onto the finals will be a major endeavor.

Londonderry Volleyball Moves Into Playoffs as the Number Four Seed

CHRIS PAUL
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Londonderry High School Boys Volleyball squad finished up the regular season last week with a 3-0 win over Farmington on the road.

The win helped give the Lancers their eighth shutout win and put their season record at 12-4.

That very solid regular season record gave the LHS squad a four seed in the NHIAA Division I State Championship and allowed them a bye in the first round of the playoffs.

The team's first game will be against the number five seed, Salem High School, in a quarterfinal match at home on Tuesday, June 7, starting at 6 p.m.

During the regular season, the Lancers and Blue Devils met once, in Londonderry, where LHS had a 3-1 victory.

If Londonderry wins their quarterfinal match, they will play the winner of the Windham and Mascenic game in the semifinals at Nashua High School on Thursday at 7 p.m.

"Just Be You" 5K

The non-profit Jen's "Just Be You" has restarted its annual 5K race. The organization was established in memory of Jennifer Janiak, a Pinkerton 2011 graduate, who passed away from a pulmonary embolism in 2015. The event raises funds to offer a scholarship to a PA graduating senior, as well as support educational initiatives, which focus on developing children's love of reading, writing, and learning. The 5K takes place on Sunday, June 5. The course starts at the Pinkerton football field, runs through the lower campus, and finishes back at the football field.
