High School Looking for Hall of Fame Candidates

CHRIS PAUL
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Although the Londonderry High School Hall of Fame induction ceremonies haven't taken place in a few years, due to the pandemic restrictions, the committee is looking to get back to work and needs the communities help in finding new nominations.

The Hall of Fame committee had just got back up-and-running before the pandemic hit and caused a stall in the nomination process.

Now the school is looking to reignite the process and have an induction ceremony in the fall, during Mack Plaque.

Town Manager Lays Out His Strategic Priorities

LONDONDERRY TIMES

During the Monday night Town Council meeting, Town Manager Mike Malaguti discussed some of the town's Strategic Priorities for 2022.

Earlier in the year, the Town Council requested to hear from department heads as to what would be significant short-term and medium-to-long-term goals for their Departments.

Although the Finance and Police Departments presented to the Council back in April, it was determined that a wider scope needed to be looked at.

From that, Malaguti worked out a number of priorities for the council to look at.

The first goal discussed was Water Infrastructure.

He said the town has been working with the Department of Environmental Services on an almost weekly basis to mitigate PAS contamination and expand the availability of safe, reliable water throughout town. He added that he has obtained several grants, as well as voter support for these efforts.

In the last several weeks, DES and our engineering consultants have advised that Phase I of Londonderry's project is anticipated to cost between $50 million and $55 million and it would extend water supply down High Range Road, and connect residences on High Range Road along the route to public water.

Phase II of the project would build the system out into many neighborhoods and may require interconnection continued on page 6

Energy Task Force Continues Its Solar Panel Discussions

KAIT BEDELL
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Energy Efficiency Task Force saw a solar panel presentation from Rachel Eades of ReVision Energy at the most recent June 16 meeting.

Eades is one of the few presentations that the board is to hear as they start the planning process for a potential energy program.

Eades gave the board some baseline information regarding the cost on solar panels and three-phase power and said that it generally costs about one million dollars to the mile.

A previous solar business had told the commission that an option for the town would be to put panels on the school buildings, which Eades also said would be "financially attractive" for the town.

According to Eades, panels work best when they are placed on a high electricity based area, making the town schools a candidate.

Eades asked the task force what their goals were moving forward.

"Our goal is to get to net zero eventually," committee chair Debra Paul said. "I can't speak for the schools, but I think it would be a good thing for the taxpayers if our buildings were net zero. I know that doesn't cover oil or propane or anything like that but there are other options out there and we're looking at those..."

Vice Chair Martha Smith said that the town had a relationship with revision energy in the past, which she said she believed involved Kevin

Local Students Plant Sunflowers at Pollinator Garden

The Londonderry GREEN Team had some help from local elementary school students planting sunflowers recently. The local GREEN team had provided students with the seeds and soil earlier in the year and they had been growing the plants this spring. Last week, they were invited to the garden to plant the sunflowers. The fruits of their labor will be seen later in this summer.

Old Home Day Committee Continues Planning for Event

PAUL CONYERS
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Londonderry Old Home Day Committee discussed its ongoing progress for the main Old Home Day event. Committee Chairman Katie Sullivan summarized the progress of the yearly celebration so far.

Fireworks are planned for Friday, August 19th with the following Sunday as a rainy day alternative. "Booth and parade sign-ups are still happening" according to Sullivan, and she encouraged anybody looking to sign-up for a booth or the parade to speak to Kirby Brown at the Londonderry Town offices.

Jen Rich has organized a Touch A Truck event at Moose Hill and the Committee expects to have 15-20 trucks available for families.

Other events for younger participants include several games like an oversized Jenga set. The children's section of the events will also include carnival games, Holly's Kona Ice, and two trains. The Committee also hopes to have face painting and a dunk tank.

Sullivan wanted to thank the elementary school for their help. "Historically, we've reached out to the elementary schools to pick out a theme for the t-shirts." The fourth-grade theme was "we want apples" while the fifth-grade theme was a motto of "things aren't always easy to accomplish, but Londonderry has accomplished 300 years of independence." The third motto from Matthew Thornton was "good vibes and Londonderry lives." The Committee hopes to tie all themes into the celebration.

603 Brewery is looking to have some adult games in combination with a beer tent. Anybody with artistic knowledge is encouraged to contact with Committee. A new name will be chosen for the adult section of the celebration.

The Historical Society has been planning since March and has several plans including a cannon being set off hourly during the celebration. The Society stated that "it took us three months to find a food truck" but "we finally got B's Tacos" for the event. Despite some difficulty, food should be available for the most crowded days of Old Home Day.

A Grand Marshall have been chosen for Old Home Day although the Committee will not announce the selection until their next meeting. They assured the public that "Every in this town will be happy with who we picked."

Sullivan went over alternatives to events like the baby contest, senior night, and the battle of the bands at Mathew Thornton elementary school. There is no alternative plan in case the Old Home Day Parade is interrupted due to weather.

"We're pretty well covered" stated Public Works Director Dave Wholley who promised that all necessary preparations have been made for the band and parade participants.

Overall, the Committee declared the event to be "in good shape," despite some lingering concerns.

The Old Home Day Committee will hold its next meeting on Monday, July 11th. Members of the public are encouraged to attend if they have questions about the celebration or wish to volunteer for any of the events.

Conservation Commission Gets Update on Lithia Springs Purchase

ALEX MAM
LONDONDERRY TIMES

During the Londonderry Conservation Commission meeting held on June 14 one item under discussion was the purchase and sale agreement for the old Lithia Springs property.

Conservation Commission Chair Marge Badois said that it is now about doing their due diligence when it comes to things like grant funding to help purchase it.

"Now it is all the due diligence," said Badois.

Badois said that one of the first things they have to do is to have a public hearing for the Conservation Commission and a public hearing with the Town Council. She said that there's for the Conservation Commission to be during the next Conservation Commission meeting.

It was pointed out by Conservation Commission member Mike Speltz that the title work is $800 and he was told that it is going to be funded through the town manager's office.

He said that in addition to that an environmental inspection needs to be done for phase 1 which is expected to cost about $1,600.

Speltz said that it made sense to vote to spend the funds so they don't have to be delayed anymore.

An appraisal also needs to be done on the property which is expected to be done by the end of July.

Speltz said that they also have three requests for quotes from surveyors. He said that he hadn't heard from any of them yet at the time of the meeting.

"That will be a much bigger chunk of change," said Speltz.

Also during the meeting Badois announced that she had received an email from who lives in the Woodmont Commons development who said that there is an interest by some of the neighbors in cleaning up the conservation area behind the pond.

Badois said that they want to make an access to the pond for ice skating and kayaking. Since it is a walking trail and also a passive open space they wanted to see if they needed written permission from someone on the Conservation Commission before they did it.

It was explained by Badois that they wanted to remove the invasive species but said her concern is that a lot of people say that they know what they look like but aren't sure if they actually all do.

She said that she thinks there needs to be educated supervision of the removal of it if they are going to allow it.

Badois said that if they are going to have a word day of something to that effect then someone should be there from the Conservation Commission.

It was decided that they would have a time to meet there to look at it before they allow it to happen.

Summertime and the Livin' Is Easy

Now that school's out, and summer has officially arrived. There are plenty of fun things to do like, camping, ballgames, swimming, fishing, hiking, or just fooling around in the neighborhood.

It's also the time of the year when our youths are most vulnerable to accidents, or worse. This is particularly true where water and streets are involved.

Water is an attractive plaything for children and too often a fatal one. Pools, streams, rivers, ponds, and lakes, regardless of the depths, all hold a special fascination for children. It seems ridiculously obvious to remind everyone, that no one should be in or near water alone. As drowning is the silent killer.

Like the water, our roads can be just as dangerous with kids walking, running, riding bikes, etc...on and near roads, parents can issue all the warnings, but that won't keep kids off the streets. Unlike the threats posed by water, motorists can play a big role in preventing serious accidents. When driving in residential areas, slow down and be attentive, day and night.

On a lighter note, town recreation programs offer plenty of safe fun in the company of other kids. Athletic camps are offered in many sports. Summer Reading Programs at local libraries have a two-for-one benefit. First, they're free and second, they encourage reading.

Free concerts for all ages, are offered in several of our communities. Consider them a good excuse to get out of the house in the evening, away from the TV. Prepare a picnic or pick up some take-out, put the lawn chairs and a blanket in the car, and head out for a relaxed evening of entertainment.

Check out our calendar listings each week, and plan to enjoy some fun close to home. If that's not enough, we're headed right into festival season, with more music, food and games. Bandstands will be decked out, families gathered on lawn chairs or reclining on blankets. That's an iconic image of summer in this part of the country, as we complain about the heat and humidity at the same time.

So while the short but sweet summer is here, fire up the barbecue, head to the beach, lake, the backyard, or just sit on the screen porch and enjoy a firefly-filled evening listening to or watching the Red Sox.

Trite as it may sound, kids will be kids, and summertime is by far the happiest time to be kid. But let's all do our part to make it a safe summer, when the living is easy.

Save Don't Spend

Letter to editor,

My husband and I have been living in Londonderry for over 50 years. We raised our three daughters here and felt fortunate to live here.

I read a letter written by one of your readers thanking you for standing up for taxpayers.

What I would like to say is that I am constantly reading about the school system and how they are trying to spend more money on things like full-time kindergarten and just finished reading about the high school and what they want to do there.

Do these people realize we are going into a recession and that the seniors cannot afford to keep maintaining all that they want.

When we moved here our taxes were $600. Today they are $6,000.

We are sure there are many more seniors in our category. So please stop looking at ways to spend money but to SAVE money.

Kristine Perez for State Representative

To the editor,

A short introduction: I, Kristine Perez, a 14-year resident of Londonderry and a 40-year resident of NH have enthusiastically decided to run for a State Representative position in Londonderry.

I am a wife, a mother, and a grandmother. I spent a 42-year career as a Registered Nurse. I am retired.

I completed the Londonderry Leadership program in 2019. It opened my eyes. We live in a fantastic town and a wonderful State, a very different State than it was 40 years ago. There are many issues that are specific to Londonderry that I feel the residents need to have a say in at the State level. I feel that our representation, although adequate, could use some new passion and enthusiasm going forward. I look forward to providing that.

I intend to write in future letters to the editor with more specific concerns of importance to me, that have been expressed by others. I look forward to hearing from you, the residents, with thoughts and ideas you would like to offer.

I would like to introduce our Democrat Candidates for the 2022 Mid-Term Elections

For State Rep: Michela Hites; Alex Killley; Ted Combes; Anne Fenn; Tam Siekmann; Jim Green; and Greg Warner.

State Senate Candidate: John Roberts.

We also have a state rep running for Litchfield that is a former resident of Londonderry and will be campaigning out of The Meeting House. His name is Joe Burke and a great guy.

Please consider working on one or all of their campaigns at The Meeting House and volunteering in whatever capacity you feel comfortable with, and we look forward to seeing many of you.

Another School Year

To the editor,

On behalf of the school board, congratulations to our recent graduates, and to all of our students, teachers and staff on another wonderful, successful school year!

The 2021-2022 school year saw many positive accomplishments! Moose Hill continued to welcome our very youngest learners, from preschool to Kindergarten, supporting our learners as they develop their academic and social skills needed to be strong students! South School put on the Wizard of Oz in March 2022, their first play in two years! North School saw chorus and band shows this past winter, including the return of our first grade annual winter concert, and Matthew Thornton welcomed parents to an Arctic Fair, seeing our students study and create dioramas of the arctic tundra and the animals that live there!

Our Middle School ran book fairs for students and food drives for our community. Typoon students recently created an Ancient Civilization Museum in the Library, welcoming parents and community members to view 50 student created projects and hear about our students have learned!

Our High School completed its NEASC visit, hosted (and won) many sports games and competitions, had a successful senior week and saw students at all grade levels give back to our commu-

Public Education Matters

To the editor,
 There has been a lot of activity this past year on the part of the State Legislature and the Education Department to increase private and religious education while at the same time taking property tax money from public education. This concerns me because I feel that public education is the bedrock of our democracy and of our leadership position in the world.

In our hypeparisan world, public education and teachers in particular have become the targets and the scapegoats of various special interests. We need a robust public education system more than ever. Teachers are the key to unlocking the skills our children will need in the future. When we look back on our lives, we remember the teacher that challenged us to see things in a new way, or pushed us to work harder because they saw the potential in us.

The world is becoming more competitive every day. Our students need critical thinking skills, science and technology skills, and interpersonal skills necessary for the jobs of the future. Throughout our history, education has been the portal to upward mobility. Artificial intelligence is already changing the workplace. Our new car is grading our driving after each trip. We have the science to decide everything from our baby's eye color, to IQ. Success will depend in large part on one's ability to conceptualize new ways of doing things. Being at the corner of science and imagination is the place they will want to be.

All this to say I think reducing education to the recitation of facts or video instruction is not the way forward. It is not the time to shift our priorities from public education to private. I would fully support science based experimentation on new and better ways to educate our children. But, I do not support private education at the expense of a robust public education system.

Our public schools are our strategic investment in the future. I put my money on public education.

Dan Black to Become Interim Superintendent

Daniel Black

After an extensive Superintendent search facilitated by the Bryan Group, the Search Committee and School Board are pleased that Daniel Black will become the acting Interim Superintendent following current Superintendent Scott Laliberte's retirement on June 30, 2022.

Dan Black joined the Londonderry School District as Assistant Superintendent in 2017 after working in Keene as the Assistant Superintendent; he also served as a founding Principal in New York City Schools, an Instructional Coach, a middle school science teacher, and began his educational career with Teach for America in Texas. He earned his degrees from Vanderbilt, Harvard, and Plymouth Universities.

While in Londonderry, Black has been instrumental in working to further develop competency-based education; created the District's Portrait of a Graduate; founded the Summer Math Academy to address gaps at the elementary level; and fine-tuned the District's Strategic Plan. Black is known for leading effective data-driven curriculum and assessment practices district-wide, and he is committed to continuing this work with his new team.

School Board Chair Amy Finamore notes of Black, "Over his career here in Londonderry, he has proven himself to be a thoughtful, collaborative leader and partner who is always willing to listen, improve, problem solve and jump right in and help where needed. Dan regularly helps in our buildings and that hands-on work allows him to better support ongoing curriculum improvements. We are incredibly lucky to have

Dan Black and look forward to an exciting, positive year!"

Black is looking forward to working with the six schools and staff, students, and families, as well as the School Board and local community, to move past the challenges of the pandemic.

Priorities

Continued from page 1 with an existing water supply in Litchfield and the construction of water towers in the southwest part of town, and would cost approximately $150 million. He added that if the Town were to incorporate sewer infrastructure improvements into the project, the cost would increase.

He was anticipating financial help would come from the state and Saint Gobain to defray the cost of the overall project, but Londonderry's cost share would still be very significant.

It was pointed out that a significant amount of revenue earmarked for water projects in the state has already been spent in other communities.

The second goal discussed was for the DPW

Facility on High Range road. Malaguti said it is long overdue for an overhaul. He said the facilities where employees work and store expensive equipment are seriously substandard and encouraged all members of the Council and the public to schedule a site visit to the DPW facility.

The upgrade will require a significant capital investment and will take many years to plan, develop support, and complete.

Improvements would include: indoor vehicle storage to prolong vehicle life; modernized garage and workshop facilities to improve health, safety, and efficiency for DPW employees; actual equipment and materials storage facilities as opposed to old trailers and improvised structures; an enclosed salt shed to put all materials under cover; and a safe and efficient wash bay for vehicles.

It will require Council and voter support, and is a 5-10 year project.

Another goal was for Economic Development and passing the Construction and Rehabilitation Tax Exemption program was one aspect.

Malaguti told the council the Construction and Rehabilitation Tax Exemption (RSA 72:80) is one of a handful of economic development tools the state authorizes municipalities to adopt, which was adopted earlier in the evening. This initiative is intended to assist in stabilizing the shift in the tax base from commercial to residential and ultimately is designed to help residential taxpayers.

The town is also looking to update the South Londonderry Sewer Capacity.

Currently, Londonderry is sending all of its sewer flowage in south Londonderry to the Derry Waste Water Treatment Plant and the town is contractually limited to send a maximum of 500,000 gallons-per-day to the Plant under a recently renegotiated agreement. Planned development in south Londonderry is projected to require about 1,000,000 GPD of flow.

The solution is a sewer pump station to accommodate approximately 500,000 GPD of flow, which will redirect flows from Derry to the Manchester Waste Water Treatment Plant. The project also entails construction of 7,500 linear feet of sewer force main and 1,900 linear feet of gravity sewer in order to connect with existing sewer infrastructure leading to the Manchester Waste Water Treatment Plant. He added the town has pursued funding for this project through multiple sources.

Widening Pettengill Road was the third economic development project mentioned.

He said, based upon consultations with NHDOT, the time to widen Pettengill Road to four lanes is drawing near. The project will add two lanes to Pettengill Road and is necessary in order to facilitate the full build-out of this area and expand capacity.

The manager is also looking to Review and Improve the Planning Board Site Plan and Subdivision Regulations, saying, it's been decades since a comprehensive review was undertaken.

The fourth goal was to Improve Standardization and Financial Oversight.

The town is in the process of identifying areas to increase financial oversight and standardization making sure internal controls are in place. He intends to continue the town's work to identify and eliminate unnecessary spending. Malaguti said, "In my first month as Town Manager, I directed departments to curtail discretionary spending."

The town has put more acquisitions out to bid than ever before, and worked to increase our bid visibility by including bids on the Town website, all to the benefit of the taxpayers. Departments have been instructed to work with the Finance department to review line items to determine if there is any potential way to lower costs while providing the same level of service. And we have strictly enforced the Purchasing Policy.

The Council will be reviewing the goals before discussing them in July with Malaguti.

Zoning Board Grants Two-Year Extension for Storage Unit

ALEX MAM
LONDONDERRY TIMES

One of the agenda items during the June 15 Londonderry Zoning Board of Adjustment meeting was in regards to an application for a variance to allow a portable storage structure to remain on the property of 497 Mammoth Road, indefinitely where only six months are allowed.

It was explained by Associate Planner Laura Gandia that it is in the C1 zone, which is for commercial properties, but they have a variance to use it as a residential property. She said that since it is in that zone it means that they don't fall under the usual registration for residential when it comes to portable structures.

"The only thing she is seeking relief from is the amount of time she can have it," said Gandia.

Gandia said that they usually are only allowed six consecutive months for portable structures in the C1 zone.

It was explained by the owner Cynthia Bakios that the storage container is going to be used for personal use. She said that she has an antique vehicle that she has been keeping there for the past 14 years.

She explained that previously rented the property but since she owns it now she wants to move the storage unit to the property.

Bakios said that she doesn't have any storage at the property.

"I have no basement, I have no garage so I have no storage," said Bakios.

Bakios said in addition to the car she also has some lawn equipment in there.

Bakios said she talked to Zoning Administrator Nick Codner about building a garage on the property but because of the wetlands it has to be surveyed. She hopes to be able to put up the garage over the next couple of years.

"I would like to attempt to do that at some point," said Bakios.

Bakios said that she was renting for 10 years and needs to do a lot of work to the house. She said that this year she needs to do windows and siding which she was told needs to be done by the insurance company.

"I have a $40,000 bill coming up in August," said Bakios.

One question that was asked by the Board is if they could have a commercial use on the property one day in the future.

It was explained by Bakios that they were having trouble finding businesses to use that property because it is right next to the intersection so they would have problems with parking. She also felt that it was the reason why they have it as a residential use now.

Gandia said that if it became a commercial property it would have to go to the Planning Board for site plan review.

The Board asked if they could put a time restriction on it.

Gandia said that they could do so.

No one spoke in favor or against the application.

The ZBA approved the variance until the garage is built or for two years whatever is first.

High School Equestrian Team Wraps Up Long Year

The Londonderry High School Equestrian Team Club is an LHS club organization under the guidance of school advisor, Rebecca Mitchell.

This year's team consisted of 11 members from Londonderry High School and two Spirit members from Londonderry Middle School during the 2021-22 school year.

The LHS club held biweekly meetings throughout the year, with mounted and in-hand practices at local barns from February through May.

The team's coaches this year were Gino Guaraldi, the owner of Just in Time Farm in Londonderry and Heather Evans, the owner of Follow Your Dreams Farm in Derry.

The Londonderry team participates in the New Hampshire High School Equestrian Teams organization, which held three team-meets at the Tack Shack in Fremont.

This year, there were 15 high schools participating in the events and 118 students from all over New Hampshire competing in 44 classes of In Hand, Walk/Trot/Jog and Walk/Trot/Canter/Lope Divisions.

Each team accumulate points toward state rankings over the course of the season. Additionally, each student accumulates individual points, which are then used to qualify for a State Championship Meet.

The LHS team accumulated an impressive number of high placings during the season, including 12 championship blue ribbons, 18 second place reserve championship ribbons, 23 thirds, 13 fourths, five fifths, and seven sixth place ribbons.

Classes at times had as many as 33 participating riders and all twelve of the participating Londonderry team students qualified to participate in the State Championship Meet in one or more of their classes.

Local Resident Wins at Small Dog Agility Event

Londonderry resident Mich Powers, and her Jack Russell Terrier, Chibi, recently took first prize in the small dog agility competition at the Eastern Regionals of the 25th annual Purina Pro Plan Incredible Dog Challenge in Atlanta. With their victory, Mich and Chibi earned the right to compete against the country's elite canine athletes at the Incredible Dog Challenge National Finals this fall at Purina Farms in St. Louis. The field of competitors in Atlanta represented 19 states and provinces across North America.

The 25th annual Purina Pro Plan Incredible Dog Challenge features three events. Winners from the Eastern and Western Regional Finals in Huntington Beach, California, will convene at Purina Farms in St. Louis this fall for the National Finals of the family-friendly canine competition.

Chibi is an accomplished canine athlete, winning the 2021 USDAA 12" Grand Prix and small dog Grand Champion and the 2021 U.S. Open Speedstakes championship. She is also a member of the U.S. team competing in the 2022 European Open.

The Incredible Dog Challenge is the premier canine athletic competition and features an array of dog breeds competing in several events, including high-flying disc routines, head-to-head weave pole racing, large medium and small dog agility courses, and a dog diving category where canines take a running leap off a 40-foot dock into a more than 20,000-gallon pool of water.

Pitching In

Local outstanding pitcher, Nolan Lincoln, recently helped his team at Eastern State University win a national title in the NCAA 2022 DIII Baseball Championship. Lincoln and his team were the number two seed in the tournament and were able to beat the Salisbury University Sea Gulls 11-6 and 3-2 in the two-game finals. Lincoln was a relief pitcher in the 11-6 game, throwing one inning during that game. Lincoln was also the winning pitcher as a junior at the 2019 DI New Hampshire State Championship. He was not able to defend his title in 2020 due to the sports season being shut down during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Senior Games

Lancer recent graduates Rease St. Gelais, left, and Tara Wright will be competing in the New Hampshire Field Hockey Coaches Assoc. senior games over the next two weeks. ## Hall of Fame

 Crystal Rich is leading the effort to find graduates that are deserving of recognition for their efforts.

The mission of the group is to recognize outstanding individuals that have attended or have been involved with and made exceptional contributions to Londonderry High School community.

The Hall of Fame ceremony was revived in 2016 after a 20-year absents, and about 47 graduates were inducted in the hall from 2016 to 2019, but the COVID-19 Pandemic caused another pause in the school's effort over the past two years.

The Hall of Fame was started by the school's first principal, Ed Thibodeau, with inductions occurring from 1986 to 1996 before it fell dormant in the wake of Thibodeau's retirement.

Recent Hall of Fame inductee and LHS assistant principal Katie Sullivan is hoping to get the ball rolling again, "We're at that point again where we're just asking that all our Lancer friends, family and community members to get their nominations in so we can start the process again, now that we can."

When asked how many inductions the committee is looking for Crystal Rich said they're hoping to get a good sized class in this year and reminds folks that this is not just for sports-related achievements, "There's a misconception that this is a "sports" Hall of Fame, which it's absolutely not, it's a Londonderry community Hall of Fame."

Rich added that there are three categories for nominations. The three groups are: Students; Staff Members; and Community members that have graduated from LHS.

The only restriction for nominees is that candidates need to have graduated five years prior to their induction, according to Rich.

Rich added, "Really, it's about celebrating our community, and recognizing all the wonderful things that happen here." Athletic Director

Howard Sobolov noted that, "Ideally, we're looking for people done things and have stayed connected to the high school."

He added, Ryan Griffin is a good example of who would be a good candidate, "He only spent a year here, but since he left the high school, he's stayed connected to the school by helping out and has given back."

Committee members added, "It's not just about your talent, it's what you do with it after you've graduated."

Some notable graduates that were inducted over the recent past were: Zach Bencal; Dana Boyle; Sherry Farrell; Jerry Gulezian; Kim Lindley-Soucy; Stephen

The committee is looking to decide on their newest inductees in July, so if residents would like to nominate someone, they should do so soon.

Once nominations are received, they will be brought to the Hall of Fame Committee and the nomination will be discussed and appropriate references will be contacted at that time.

The Selection Committee includes: An Advisor to the Athletic Leadership Council; a minimum of one administrator from Londonderry High School; a minimum of one community member; two current Londonderry High School students; two Athletic Leadership Council Members; and one Londonderry High School Alumni.

Questions about the process can be directed to Crystal Rich at: crich@londonderry.org

Applications can be found at lhs.londonderry.org under the "Information" tab. From there click on "LHS Hall of Fame" in the pull-down menu.

Solar

 Smith and the police department.

According to Smith, the town received a proposal from ReVision Energy and laid out the panels on the schools as well as came up with a plan in the fall of 2021, but they decided not to go through with it, which she is unsure

why. One potential reason Smith said they could have decided against the panels was because of possible visibility from the street. Smith said she thought they might have decided that town residents would not want to see the panels driving by.

Paul said that the task force would continue to hear presentations from other energy companies then compile data from each of the presentations and compare them.

The commission will then decide which company makes the most sense for the town and will move forward in the coming weeks through a workshop period.

Paul said that the commission will create a presentation to go forward with before the School Board and the Town Council in late summer or early falls to propose a solar panel plan.

In addition to these two presentations, the commission also plans to speak with the Capital Improvement Plan Board prior to their September and October meetings so that they can start factoring into their budgeting process the idea that the Energy Commission will be seeking a large budget within the next ten years.

The board reached the conclusion that the exact data and numbers will not be ready in time for the CIP this fall during the planning process, but that they will come before them again in the fall of 2023 with more specific information about their needed budget.

The next energy efficiency committee meeting will be held on July 14 in the Moose Hill Chambers at 7 pm.
