Town Council, Budget Committee Differ on Town Treasurer Article

ALEX MALM LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Town Council voted to recommend that voters approve a charter change this March, which would change the Treasurer position from an elected position to an appointed one during its Jan. 12 meeting.

surer, Kathy Wagner, and Finance Director, Justin Campo, are both supporting the proposed change, saying that currently there are no background checks done on those who are appointed one, and there are also concerns about someone being elected who has no experience.

Wagner argued that she didn't think there was a need to campaign in support of the warrant article last year.

"That was my bad for Current Town Trea- not showing up and defending my position on this," said Wagner.

Wagner also argued that since they have grown as a town and over $100 million goes through the town's finances between the school candidates for office, district and the town, which would be different combined with what she fter months of discussion, the School Board held a bond hearing regarding a warrant article which will ask voters to approve an expansion project for Moose Hill and a warrant article to make kindergarten full day in Londonderry.

The overcrowding project would be $23.1 million, and would address what district officials describe as a space need at the school.

a $490,000 warrant article to build up to 10 pickleball courts in town, the Town Council heard from members of the community about their thoughts on the proposal during the Jan. 12 public hearing.

The Pickleball Task Force, who was tasked with making recommendations to the Town Council, throughout its vetting process, received different quotes for various work that needs to be done in order to Town Councilor, Ted Combes, suggested that they split it by using $250,000 from the unassigned fund balance, while raising the additional $250,000.

Town Councilor, Ron Dunn,, said he was against using the unassigned fund balance.

"This is a want, not a need," Dunn said.

He explained that his concern with the warrant article is that with tough economic times, and other pressing istime.

Resident, Ray Breslin, also raised concerns with it not being a need.

"This is not a need," he said.

Other concerns raised was whether or not the plan had been vetted out enough.

"We did our homework," Pickleball Task Force Chair, Brian Samolyk, said, explaining that within 20 miles. Londonderry is the only town without courts. He also noted that Litchfield has cut off registration for those that don't live in town.

"It has to do with transparency and letting the voters know that has been a major descriptionary between administrators increases and teachers increases over the past 20 years," she said.

She explained that when cuts are proposed, oftentimes it's explained that they would have to take certain things away from students.

She explained that if they were able to vote on two separate budgets, people would be able to make cuts to the administration budget, but not necessarily to teachers or other services for students, if they wanted to.

Perez said that based on numbers she received from the District about $2.69 million is spent for 22 salaries and benefits for people who work at the SAU office. She said there are also other expenses including rent for the SAU office.

"We need the money the people who have direct contact with students," she said.

Perez said they tried to get legislation passed at the State House to have two separate budgets, which failed.

Tony DeFrancesco said he had a different view, noting that someone could go through the budget book and find anyone's salaries in the District already.

Perez argued that if they had two separate towns as part of the SAU, then they would have it broken out by the two budgets already, and was concerned with seeing cuts made to things that directly impact students.

"That's my concern," she said.

School Board Chair, Bob Slater, said they

to go to the teachers and started the budget process at Thanksgiving time, and that it would have been more appropriately vetted if it was introduced earlier than the beginning of the week. He added that they wouldn't be able to do it legally as of now anyways.

School Board member. Amanda Butcher. argued there is a difference in the amount of months people work, noting most if not all administrative staff work 12 months out of the year. She added that different positions come with more responsibilities and education requirements, which makes it hard to compare the two.

The School Board voted 5-0 against recommending the warrant article.

The Moose Hill expansion project to address space needs, will ask voters to approve raising and appropriating $23.1 million, which would have an estimated tax rate impact of 9 cents in year one, 28 cents in year two, and 27 cents in year three. The School Board voted 5-0 to recommend the warrant article and the Budget Committee voted 6-1 to recommend the warrant article.

For the full day kindergarten warrant article, voters will be asked to approve raising and appropriating $11.1 million, which would have an estimated tax rate impact of 4 cents in year one, 14 cents in year two, and 13 cents in year three

"This contribution can be used towards the cost of the Red or Green plans as well as 2 person or family coverage for either plan," the memo read.

In terms of wages, employees would receive a $1.25 an hour wage in year one, $1.50 an hour in year two, and $.50 plus the consumer price index percentage, with a minimum of a 2.5% raise and a maximum of 4%.

The hope for district officials is the changes will help with both $250,000 from the fund

"We believe that we already have competitive rates, this is going to keep us with the market rates," Superintendent, Dan Black, said, noting that it will help with inflation.

Juneteenth was also added as a holiday, and the attendance bonus, paid at the end of the vear, will be $600 for employees that use zero sick days, $400 for one, and $200 for two.

Here's Your Chance

Deliberative sessions are the times specifically set aside under the SB2 form of government to discuss and potentially change warrant articles. Residents don't vote on whether or not to approve the warrant article at deliberative session - they vote instead to send the article to the warrant, and on Election Day, they vote the warrant article up or down.

But at these sessions, voters can amend most warrant articles, so long as they do not change the subject matter.

Depending on who's in the audience, school budgets, for example, can be amended up or down before they go to the March ballot. That's why you often hear the fear expressed that some group will "pack" the deliberative session and "force" their views on everyone else.

There's no force. It's up to the registered voters who show up. If the turnout is poor and few people are present to promote or defend their views, the majority of those in the room will have their way.

To participate, all you need do is to register to vote, attend deliberative, pay attention as the moderator explains the rules, read the proposed warrant articles, listen to public comment, and vote on any changes or send the article as is to the warrant.

The articles on the warrant hit you where you live, and as New Hampshire residents, we have the right to express our views in a forum specifically designed for that purpose, and to change articles if we have the votes.

Voters are clearly in the seat of power. That's why it's so important not only to attend, but also to stay for the whole session. In some towns, that means about two hours. In other towns, it can take a whole day. In the grand scheme of things, it's not such a time-consuming commitment to make.

Plan to attend, and play a role in one of the most participatory forms of democracy alive today. We can wave the flag and claim to be patriotic all we want; if we really believe in democracy, the deliberative session is the place

For your calendar: Londonderry School Deliberative is at 7 p.m. Feb. 9, in the high school café and the Town Deliberative is at 9 a.m. Feb. 10 also in the cafe.

Consider throwing your hat in the ring, if you want to play an even more active role, Friday, Feb. 2, is the final day to file to run for elected school district or town office.

Property Taxes

I have been a Londonderry resident since

To the editor,

2002. I am concerned about a recent trend in the increase of our property taxes. From 2002 through 2019 my taxes grew a reasonable average of 1.75% per year. Then in late 2021 an article came out in this press entitled "Smith Boasts Town's Lowest Tax Rate in Over 40-Years". At the surface this sounded like great news. The town dropped our tax rate 9.5%. But what Kevin Smith glossed over was the September 2021 re-assessed valuations of our homes using a new assessment evaluation formula. This new formula increased my assessment by 19% and increased my property taxes by 10.9%, by far the single largest annual increase since my arrival to this town. Obviously, I was not happy with this increase but rationalized it as a one-time adjustment to account for the new tax formula. So now fast forward to August 2023 when assessor Steve Hamilton reminded us that Londonderry was changing from reassessing our properties every 5 years to every 2 years, and this had just occurred again with an average 23-24% assessed value increase given the hot real estate market. Once again, it was suggested a higher assessment does not necessarily mean higher taxes. Once again, the tax rate did go down, this time 18% to $15.65. But once again with my new 27% assessment increase my taxes went up, this time another 7.1%.

cern. During my first 19 vears in Londonderry my taxes went up a cumulative total of 28% which is fair. The last 3 years it has gone up a total of 18%, an average of 6% per year, which is almost quadruple the rate it was going up the prior 19 years! What is happening here? Is there actually a person in this town who can say their taxes went down? Is this a disguised money grab by the Town?

I understand with inflation being what it is these days costs are going up, but this shouldn't automatically mean Town and School Budgets must also go up each year. Given this is an election year, I would suggest candidates running for either Board make a pledge to find effective ways to instead trim our Budgets to give the town's citizens a break from this alarming trend. As a retired person this would be welcome relief, and a very important factor determining who gets my vote.

Politicians Propose Abandoning Ukraine

To the editor,

Representatives Gaetz of Florida and Greene of Georgia and joined by Senator Hawley of Missouri have made wild statements and taken absurd positions. The three of them want to abandon Ukraine, which will allow Russia to overrun Ukraine. Their geopolitical ignorance is astonishing. Greene stated "Under Republicans, not another penny will go to Ukraine, our coun-So here is my con- try comes first". Gaetz proposed a resolution calling for an end to aid for Ukraine and Hawley said the U.S. policy of supporting Ukraine's survival has to stop.

Governor DeSantis of Florida has joined them by saying the Ukraine War is "not a vital national interest but a territorial dispute".

These government officials put politics first to the detriment of our country. They are trying to make President Biden look bad, and don't consider the impact of their positions on the world stage. Thankfully, the majority of our government officials understand the world situation and the need to stand up to Russian aggression. They should not allow politics to threaten our national security and the security of other countries.

Vital military funding for Ukraine is hung up in the House of Representatives because the republicans want to tie it to tightening U.S./Mexican border security. I agree we have to stop the influx of illegal immigrants entering our country. However, preventing Russia from conquering Ukraine, attacking NATO countries, and then drawing the U.S. into a major war with millions of casualties and costing hundreds of additional billions of dollars should be a very high strategic priority.

> "You're trying to people from scare speaking," he said.

Chair, John Farrell, and Vice Chair, Chad Franz, to resign as well, since they attended the hearing regarding Paul's 91A case, and didn't do anything to stop it.

Following public comment, Farrell said that under federal law when a harassment complaint is brought forward "the authority has no choice but to investigate that harassment complaint."

He said that it was thoroughly investigated 'and found to be completely unfounded," noting that the investigation determined the same thing that the judge determined.

Farrell said that once the investigation was completed, they were told by their attorney that the town councilors should allow Paul to be shown the letter and read what happened.

"We did that," Farrell said, noting that Paul had the chance to read over the letter and ask questions of the town's human resources director, but was not allowed to take a copy of it.

"They could've wrote the letter down word for word," Farrell said.

Farrell said based on rules around harassment complaints, they felt that they couldn't release the letter, so the Town Council decided to defend the rights "of people being able to bring forth a complaint without retaliation."

"That's why we didn't turn the document over, that's why we went to court, that's why we chose to protect the process," Farrell said.

Farrell further explained that Paul was seeking the letter to publish it in the newspaletter."

Paul following Farrell's comments looked to refute claims made by Farrell, however, was not allowed to since public comment was over.

After the meeting, Paul explained that writing down what was written on the letter would meaningless, would have come down to my word against theirs without the actual letter."

Paul added, "As far as Farrell saying the only reason for my request was so I could put it in the paper, there would have been far less attention paid to this if they had just given me the
