Pillsbury Road Projects Pushed to April as Concerns Mount

CHRIS PAUL
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Several major development proposals tied to the Woodmont Commons project have been put on hold once again, with all three Pillsbury Road applications now postponed until the April 1, 2026 Planning Board meeting. The delay comes after the applicant, Procopio Companies, requested another continuance while they work through a growing list of questions from town officials and residents.

The projects include:

- A 12-acre subdivision at 15 Pillsbury Road
- A 250-unit rental cottage development at 36 Pillsbury Road
- A 60-unit single family condominium

Mack's Restaurant Attempts to Tackle Waivers with Show of Public Support

PAUL CONYERS
LONDONDERRY TIMES

A revised proposal to add a restaurant at the Mack's Apples orchard returned to the Planning Board on March 4, drawing a mix of technical questions, concerns about long-term impacts, and a notable show of public support. Attorney Laura Gandia presented the updated site plan on behalf of the applicant, emphasizing that the project falls under the state's agritourism statute.

"We are here under the agritourism statute for a farm to table restaurant, seeking approval for a roughly 4,000 square-foot, 99 seat restaurant within the current building, with renovations mostly to the back, including a new entrance there," Gandia said.

The new 99 seat capacity represents a significant reduction from the 200 seats proposed in January, a change intended to address concerns raised by the Board and the public. The updated plan includes several waiver requests, including exemptions related to a pond on the property, a 25 foot buffer that could interfere with picnic tables, and the placement of signs in areas used for farming operations.

ment of signs in areas used for farming operations.

The agritourism designation was central to the applicant's argument. Gandia stressed that the state legislature has encouraged municipalities to work collaboratively with farms to support agricultural uses and diversification.

"Under agritourism, the state legislature has made it a point to encourage a collaborative approach to farm and activities in the state with municipalities," she said. She argued that the statute provides more flexible continued on page 3

Town Council Get Briefed on Leach Library Repairs

ALEX MALM
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Town Council received an update on Phase 1 of the ongoing remediation and repair work at the Leach Library, following the building's unexpected closure earlier this year due to flooding and mold concerns.

The update comes after weeks of emergency assessments, joint meetings between the Town Council and Library Trustees, and the approval of significant funding to address the building's structural and environmental issues.

In late January, the Library experienced a major facilities failure.

"On the morning of January 27, Leach Library staff discovered a ground-level radiator pipe had burst over the weekend, causing extensive flooding," the Library said in a press release. The flooding coincided with a longstanding leak near the main vestibule, prompting concerns about mold. "Initial tests indicate the presence of mold spores in some locations of the building," the release noted. The building was closed immediately pending further evaluation.

The discovery led to a joint meeting between the Town Council and Library Trustees, where the Council authorized up to $257,189 for Phase 1 repairs and remediation. Shortly afterward, the Maintenance Trust Fund warrant article was amended to add $450,000, all from the June 30 fund balance, to continued on page 5

All three were originally scheduled for review in December, then continued to January, and will now wait until April.

250 Rental Cottages

The largest of the proposals, 250 single family rental cottages, was first presented in December. Procopio Companies described the plan as a way to bring “diverse housing options” to Londonderry, with one to three bedroom cottages, a clubhouse, tennis courts, dog park, walking paths, and a large community lawn. The design also preserves roughly 1,000 apple trees from the former orchard.

But the project has faced significant push-back.

Town officials have repeatedly raised concerns about whether the area can handle the additional traffic and stormwater.

“I worry about that roadway and those drainage devices not being able to handle a 25year storm,” said Engineering Director John Trottier. “We’re already having a heck of a problem at the intersection on Pillsbury Road.”

Town Manager Shaun Mulholland confirmed that peer review recommended a right-turn slip lane from the Derry direction, but warned it may only be a temporary fix.

“We could have a situation where they build that right turn slip lane, and then a few years later when Woodmont further develops, we’d have to tear all of that out,” Mulholland said. He suggested the developer could instead contribute the equivalent cost toward a long term intersection solution.

Residents have been outspoken about the scale of the project.

“The answer is no... that is not what the residents of this town want,” said resident Tim Bachir, who argued the cottages resemble “a shed you buy at Reeds Ferry” more than single family homes. He said the area was more appropriate for 25 homes, not 250.

Abutter Diane Sizemore said the proposal was “saddening,” adding, “That’s not why we moved here, to have that in our backyard.”

Others raised concerns about water capacity, drainage, and the shift away from the mixed-use, walkable design originally promised for Woodmont Commons.

With major engineering questions still unanswered, and no updated plans ready for review, the applicant requested more time. The Planning Board agreed, continuing all three applications to April 1, 2026.

The April meeting is expected to be a busy one, as residents wait to see whether the developer will return with revised plans that address the town’s concerns, or whether the proposals will face further delays.

GREEN Team Seeks Volunteers

The Green Team of Londonderry is looking for some help with the Pollinator Garden as they get ready for another season of planting, growing, and welcoming the bees, butterflies, and birds that keep the ecosystem healthy.

To make it happen, they are looking for volunteers who want to get their hands in the dirt, spend time outdoors, and help create something beautiful for the whole community.

Why does the Pollinator Garden Matter? Pollinator gardens do more than brighten up a space—they support the bees, butterflies, and other pollinators our environment depends on. They also give residents a peaceful place to visit, learn, and enjoy nature. Every hour of volunteer help makes a real difference in keeping this garden thriving.

Who Can Volunteer? Everyone, from adults, students needing community service hours, scouts, youth groups, organizations, families, and business anyone who loves nature and wants to give back.

What do the volunteers help with? Spring cleanup and prepping the beds, planting native flowers and shrubs, watering and ongoing garden care, weeding and maintaining pathways, helping with signage or educational displays, assisting during community garden days, and best of all, no gardening experience is needed—just a willingness to help.

When is the help needed? Volunteer days will begin as soon as the weather allows this spring. There will be weekday and weekend options so anyone can find a time that works.

How do I get involved? If you’d like to join the group, or even just learn more, reach out to the groups facebook page where you’ll be added to the volunteer list. There you’ll receive updates on dates, times, and what to bring.

some signage to "educate people" about sensitive wetland areas.

"It's a good thing," Badois said. "If they wanted to create signs in a friendlier manner just indicating this is conservation land, please respect it, we'd be okay with that."

Other waiver requests were more contentious, including one related to grading and another seeking relief from certain parking lot requirements. Traffic on Mammoth Road, already a busy corridor, was a recurring concern.

Traffic Engineer Kim Hazarvartian, working with Mack's Apples, presented a detailed analysis.

"The analysis we prepared is not a small analysis - it's about a 15 odd page analysis," he said. "When we ran the numbers, the geometry out there matches what the turn lane assessment says."

He noted that the wide shoulders in the area could help accommodate turning vehicles. However, Board members cautioned that the analysis may not fully reflect peak season realities, when congestion, parked cars, and heavy orchard traffic complicate turning movements.

"There are cars parked on both sides," Board member Tony DeFrancesco said, pointing out that real world conditions often differ from engineering models.

Despite the technical concerns, the Planning Board repeatedly emphasized its support for Mack's Apples and the restaurant concept. That sentiment was echoed by residents who attended the meeting or submitted letters.

"My wife and I bought our house around five years ago. If this restaurant is going to bother anybody, it's going to bother us," said neighbor Mike Debellis. "I hope the town can work out the issues, and we can get this thing going."

Resident Sandra Lagueux said she was "generally in support" of the project, though she noted that year round operation was unusual for a farm to table model.

"I'm most familiar with farms that do it a few times a year for the growing seasons," she said. "I am really appreciative of the seriousness that the Planning Board is taking it."

Another resident, Robin Gardner, submitted a letter calling the restaurant a "win-win project" for both the farm and the community.

After hearing public input and discussing the remaining issues, the Planning Board agreed to continue the case without making recommendations on the waivers. Members said they wanted more time to "hone in" on the outstanding concerns, particularly around traffic, grading, and the buffer zone waiver.

"I wanted to thank the Planning Board for working with my family for years to help them navigate the challenges of agriculture," said Andy Mack Jr. "We've got fewer farms than we used to, and the ones that are there are smaller, including Mack's."

OBITUARY

Kyle Thomas MacLaren

Kyle Thomas MacLaren, 34, of Londonderry NH, passed away Tuesday March 3, 2026, of natural causes. He was born on June 2, 1991, a son of Ronald and Donna (McPherson) MacLaren.

Kyle, the youngest of five children, spent his childhood in Londonderry and graduated from LHS in 2009. From an early age, Kyle was curious about how things worked and loved to tinker, often taking things apart just to understand them better. That curiosity eventually turned into a passion for aviation, where he became a licensed helicopter pilot and aviation mechanic.

Kyle had a deep love for the outdoors and he could often be found enjoying time at the family lake house swimming, fishing and hunting. This love, and his sense of adventure, prompted him to explore new places and travel far from home. Whether he was gold mining in Alaska with his dad, or diving in Thailand with his brother, he embraced life fully and his experiences reflected his fearless spirit and curiosity about the world.

An athlete at heart, Kyle proudly described himself as a 'locked down defender' on the basketball court and could always be counted on to bring his A game. He carried that same competitive spirit into many parts of his life and was also known to jokingly self certify that he was the 'best at everything'.

Kyle was fiercely loyal to those he loved. He was a devoted uncle who made it a priority to attend his nieces' and nephews' special events and celebrations, connecting with each of them deeply. He was also known as a thoughtful and generous gift giver, always putting care into finding just the right thing for the people in his life.

Passionate and opinionated, Kyle loved a good discussion or debate. Conversations with him were rarely dull. Beneath his strong opinions was a loving heart and deep loyalty to his family and friends.

In quieter moments, Kyle enjoyed sci-fi and fantasy stories and gaming, finding inspiration in worlds of imagination and adventure.

Like many families, ours faced the painful challenges of addiction. Kyle struggled for years with alcohol dependence, a disease that ultimately led to severe cirrhosis of the liver. Though the weight of this illness became more than he could overcome, we remember him not for the struggle, but for the loving, vibrant person he was.

Kyle will be remembered for his adventurous spirit, his sharp mind, his loyalty and the love he shared with those closest to him. He will be deeply missed by his family, friends and all who knew him.

In addition to his parents Ron and Donna, Kyle is also survived by two brothers, Ron MacLaren Jr and Andrew MacLaren; two sisters, Kristen Childs and husband Andy and Courtney Giuliano and husband Jeff; seven nieces, Ella, Lux, Vivienne, Zoe, Everlee, Blaise, Lenox and two nephews Asher, and Cru. As well many loving Aunts, Uncles, Cousins and extended family.

Calling hours will be held Thursday, March 12, from 4 - 7 p.m., in the Peabody Funeral Homes and Crematorium, 290 Mammoth Rd., Londonderry. A Mass of Christian burial will be celebrated on Friday, March 13, at 11 a.m., in St. Mark the Evangelist Church, One South Rd., Londonderry with cremation to follow. In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions may be made to Liberty House, a local Veterans' organization, <https://libertyhousenh.org/donate/> or any charity of your choosing. Let the Sun Shine In, Especially Here at Home

Open and transparent government is not a courtesy; it is a fundamental right. Residents deserve to know how decisions are made, how money is spent, and how their elected officials conduct the people's business. At every level; local, state, and national; transparency is the backbone of public trust. And at the local level, where decisions touch our daily lives most directly, openness matters even more. As a community newspaper, we take that responsibility seriously.

March 15 to 21 is Sunshine Week, a national reminder that government conducts its business in the open, it's essential to a functioning democracy. If we don't know what our officials are doing, we cannot hold them accountable. The more information residents have, the stronger and more engaged our community becomes.

Knowledge is power, and that power does not belong to politicians. It belongs to the people who elect them, fund their budgets, and live with the consequences of their decisions. Sunshine Week, created by the American Society of News Editors, is not about newspapers. It is about the public's right, and we emphasize that word, to know what its government is doing. It encourages every citizen to take an active role in government and demands that officials make information accessible, not hidden behind closed doors.

James Madison wrote that "consent of the governed" requires that people "arm themselves with the power which knowledge gives." In a participatory democracy, every citizen has the right to attend meetings, access public records, and understand how decisions are made. That principle applies just as strongly here in our own towns as it does in Washington.

And this is where the conversation becomes local. Too often, transparency issues arise not in faroff capitals but right here at home. When meeting packets are posted late, when documents are withheld, when major discussions happen off the record, or when residents must file RighttoKnow requests just to understand basic decisions, trust erodes. Transparency is not simply following the letter of the law; it is embracing the spirit of it. Posting documents early. Explaining decisions clearly. Welcoming questions instead of avoiding them. Making it easy, not difficult, for residents to understand what is happening.

We know it is easier for officials to discuss public business privately, where strategies can be aired without scrutiny. But that is not how open government works. Discussions are meant to be public, in a quorum, and on the record. Making it difficult for residents to follow along is playing loose with the public trust.

That is why we report what we do. That is why we ask the uncomfortable questions. Without information, the public is left in the dark.

The better choice, the democratic choice, is to let the sun shine in.

Letters

Sheep Party

To the editor,
The Republican Party has always tried to portray itself as the party of strength and power... the "tough guy" persona. Today the Republican Party is a collective of sheep... too afraid to stand up for itself against a man who is a perpetual liar, a bully and a draft dodger. It sheepishly observes and does nothing as their "leader" (Trump) uses the presidency for his own personal monetary gain; as he uses the Justice Department to bury scandalous Epstein documents that would incriminate him; as he sends America to war without Congressional approval; as he berates, insults and belittles the Supreme Court Justices and others that don't agree with him; and as he tries to manipulate and control the news as if this was Russia. Also, let's not forget the insurrection of January 6 when he and his horde of MAGA criminals attempted to undue the election that he lost... and Trump has the gall to accuse Maggie Goodlander and others of "seditious behavior punishable by death" for telling our military that they don't need to follow illegal orders. The only person who exhibited seditious behavior was Trump himself on Jan 6.

So where is the Republican Party? Where is this Party that stands for strength, liberty and the U.S. Constitution? It is very obvious where they are. They are cowering and/or they are kissing you know what. They are sheepishly going along with Trump even though he is the antithesis of what they claim to stand for. Too few Republicans have had the courage to speak out against the corrupt, vindictive and un-presidential behavior that oozes daily from the White House like a lanced boil. These brave souls have consequently made themselves targets of Trump's "Justice" Department goons.

Our country's founders designed our democracy with three equal branches of government: executive, legislative and judicial- a system of checks and balances that has worked for 250 years. Trump either doesn't understand this system because he is too dumb or doesn't care about it which makes him dangerous and a threat to our democratic principles. Republicans control the House and Senate. They have the power, the authority and the responsibility to protect our democracy. Cowering is unacceptable. All that it takes for evil to triumph is for good people to do nothing.

Library Costs

offset the cost of the emergency work.

Interim Library Director Donna Plante told the Council that more extensive mold testing is needed as part of Phase 1, noting that the original scope did not fully account for the level of assessment now required.

“The more extensive mold testing needed to be done has a cost that wasn’t included in the original scope,” Plante said. She explained that the Library is preparing a change order for $25,613 to cover the additional testing.

Plante said the initial testing included only six samples across various areas of the building, primarily air samples, with just one surface sample and one outdoor control sample. Now that results have come back showing areas of concern, a second round of testing is necessary.

“We don’t want to invite the public back without being 100% certain there is no mold in the building,” she said.

Plante noted that the Library will continue working with the same environmental testing company, which is based in Londonderry.

“They’ve been good to work with,” she said. “They provided us a lot of information and did a tour of the building to determine where it would make the most sense to do the testing.”

Originally, the first round of testing was expected to cost around $30,000, but the Library was able to negotiate the cost down to under $20,000.

Town Manager Shaun Mulholland emphasized the importance of getting the testing and remediation right the first time.

“We’re going to be investing a lot of money into the building,” he said. “We want to make sure that we don’t have to do this again.”

Mulholland pointed to the town’s forthcoming asset management system as a critical tool for preventing similar issues in the future.

“The Library isn’t the only building that has issues in town that should have been tracked a long time ago,” he said. “We have fire stations in the same spot. We don’t want to get to the same problems the Library is currently facing.”

Mulholland stressed that the Library is not seeking additional funding from the Town Council at this time. The additional testing costs will be covered within the original $257,189 approved for Phase 1.

The Council accepted the update without objection.

Town Council Briefed on Future of Nelson Road Basketball Courts

ALEX MALM
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Londonderry Town Council received an update last week on a new non-profit effort aimed at renovating the aging basketball courts on Nelson Road.

Assistant Recreation Director Doug Cole told the Council that the condition of the courts has been a recurring concern for years, and the department was recently approached by a group seeking to formally organize as a non-profit to take on the project. The group, now officially certified as the Restore the Recs Foundation, hopes to renovate the courts and create a long term funding source for maintenance.

“The need for repairs and upgrades at the Town’s two basketball courts on Nelson Road are long overdue,” Cole wrote in a memo to the Council. “The Recreation Department was approached by the Londonderry Restore the Recs organization with a renovation project idea, as well as providing a means of funding with hopes of completing the project in late spring or early summer of 2026.”

Representatives from the foundation outlined their mission, which includes:

1. Raising funds for the construction, repair, and upkeep of public recreational basketball courts at LAFA Field.
2. Supporting the growth of basketball as a community resource through programs, clinics, and public events.
3. Partnering with the Town and civic organizations to ensure long term access to quality recreational facilities.
4. Promoting inclusivity, wellness, and civic pride through engagement in sports.

Board member Trevor O’Brien told the Council that basketball played a major role in his life growing up, and he hopes to see the courts become a place where the community can gather again. He noted that the current courts are in poor condition and are rarely used for basketball.

“Our goal is to make it a viable place for people who want to play,” O’Brien said.

The foundation’s first phase focuses on basic but essential upgrades, including:

- Removing Fencing
- Removing Four Existing Hoops
- Removing Benches
- Temporarily Moving Boulders for Equipment Access
- Tearing Out Existing Asphalt Surface Layers
- Painting
- Installing New Hoops

Cole said completing these foundational improvements will create a safe, inviting environment and set the stage for future enhancements.

Board members reported that the original project estimate was $120,000, which they have already secured through fundraising and donated labor and materials. With Phase 1 fully funded, the group plans to move into Phase 2 and begin accepting tax-crediteligible donations through their nonprofit status.

When asked about the timeline, Cole said the project depends on coordination with the Department of Public Works and volunteers providing labor and materials. The goal is to complete Phase 1 by this spring or early summer.

Noyes is excited to begin her new role in Londonderry. She states, “I am entirely grateful for the opportunity that LSD has offered me. The enthusiasm for learning and community engagement was palpable in my time with them through this hiring process. Their curiosity was contagious as they inquired about the possibilities for their schools in the years ahead. I am excited to continue my leadership journey with them as we enter the next generation of creative programming!”

Superintendent Dan Black is happy to add Noyes to his Leadership Team. He shares, “In addition to her time as Student Services Director in Pelham, Kim has served as both an educator and a building level administrator in special education, providing her with a strong background in all facets of special education and student services. The hiring committee was very impressed with Kim’s people-skills, her collaborative and empathetic leadership style, her technical knowledge in the area of student services, and her advocacy for students and families. House Bill Evolves to Support Small Businesses, Local News

LONDONDERRY TIMES

A bill designed to strengthen New Hampshire's small businesses and preserve the state's rapidly shrinking local news ecosystem is moving forward with new clarity and momentum. HB 1420, the Lift Our Communities Advertise Locally Act, was introduced by Rep. Kristine Perez at the request of local publisher Debra Paul, who has been sounding the alarm for years about the financial pressures facing both small businesses and community journalism.

"I asked Rep. Perez to sponsor this bill because I see every day how hard it has become for small businesses to reach local customers," Paul said. "HB 1420 gives them a fair shot while keeping their dollars right here in New Hampshire."

Originally drafted as a temporary tax credit program for small businesses that advertise with local media, the bill has now been reshaped by the House Ways and Means Committee into a more streamlined and administratively workable proposal. The new amendment, 20260889h, replaces the original language with a clearer structure that the Department of Revenue Administration (DRA) says will be far easier to implement.

Under the revised bill:

- Small businesses with fewer than 50 employees may claim a 50% tax credit on qualifying advertising purchased from local news organizations.

- The credit is capped at $2,500 per year.

- Credits cannot be carried forward and are not refundable.

- Businesses must submit documentation, including a signed certification from the local news organization they advertise with.

- Any news outlet issuing a false certification faces a $5,000 - $10,000 civil penalty.

- The statewide total of credits issued cannot exceed $2.5 million per fiscal year.

- The bill also includes a small increase in the tobacco stamp rate and a $40,000 appropriation to the DRA to update its internal systems.

The amendment also provides a clear definition of "local news organization", requiring that outlets employ professionals to produce original reporting and meet membership requirements of the New Hampshire Press Association or the New Hampshire Broadcasters Association.

This ensures that the credit supports real journalism, not publications that are advertising only or national platforms.

Why the Bill Matters

Supporters say HB 1420 addresses two urgent challenges: the rising cost of reaching customers for small businesses, and the financial strain on local news outlets as advertising dollars continue to migrate to national and/or digital platforms.

"Local news and local businesses rise together," Paul said. "When small businesses thrive, they advertise. When they advertise locally, communities stay informed. HB 1420 strengthens both sides of that relationship."

In written testimony, Carol Robidoux, publisher of Manchester Ink Link and Nashua Ink Link, emphasized that the bill is not a subsidy for journalism. "This bill does not subsidize journalism. It does not pick winners. And it does not put government in the newsroom," she wrote. "What it does is simple: it gives small, New Hampshire businesses an incentive to advertise with local newspapers and broadcasters that are actually doing the work of covering our towns, city halls, schools, courts, and neighborhoods."

A Local Solution to a National Problem

Across the country, local newsrooms are shrinking or closing entirely. When that happens, research shows that communities experience:

- Lower Civic Engagement
- Higher Long Term Municipal Costs

- Less Transparency
- More Misinformation
- Declining Voter Turnout

Paul said the timing of HB 1420 is critical. "We're at a point where national platforms are draining advertising dollars out of New Hampshire. I wanted to bring forward a solution that keeps that money local, supporting our businesses, our jobs, and our civic life."

She added, "I brought this idea forward because I believe in local solutions. New Hampshire communities deserve strong small businesses and strong local news, this bill supports both."

With the amendment in place, HB 1420 now moves forward as a clearer, more targeted economic development tool to the Senate.

OBITUARY

Ronald Bettez

Ronald Bettez, 84, of Londonderry, NH passed away peacefully, on March 2, 2026, surrounded by his loving family, in the home he built with his own hands.

Ron was a hardworking and devoted family man whose life was rooted in dedication, integrity, and love. He believed in showing up every day, putting in the work, and providing for the people he cherished most. His strength was steady, and his presence a constant source of comfort.

He proudly served as a Military Police officer in the U.S. Army Reserve, carrying that same sense of duty and responsibility into every aspect of his life. In his youth, Ron was also a proud Pinkerton Astro, a connection that remained a meaningful part of his story and local roots.

Ron dedicated more than 50 years of his life to his work before retiring from Jamco Excavators (formerly Midway Excavators). His commitment, reliability, and strong work ethic defined his career and earned him the respect of colleagues turned lifelong friends.

A true sports enthusiast, Ron's happiest moments were often found on the field, sidelines or in the stands. He rarely missed a game; whether playing, cheering for his children and grandchildren, or watching his favorite teams. He shared his love of sports generously, taking the kids fishing, bringing them to countless sporting events, and turning ordinary weekends into lifelong memories.

Ron gave back to his community in meaningful ways. He proudly served as a baseball coach and assistant football coach, mentoring his children and young athletes not only in the fundamentals of the game but in sportsmanship and perseverance. His dedication extended beyond the field, as he helped build the Londonderry Recreation baseball fields, leaving a lasting mark on the town he loved and the generations who will continue to play there.

One of Ron's proudest accomplishments was building his family home, complete with a pool and cabana that became the heart of countless summer gatherings. He maintained what many fondly called "the most pristine pool in town", a reflection of his work ethic and attention to detail. That home stood as a symbol of his devotion to family, a place where children grew, grandchildren played, and Sundays were filled with laughter and spirited conversations about the latest games.

Ron was predeceased by his parents, Lorenzo and Florence (Simpson) Bettez, and his son-in-law, Douglas Michno.

He is survived by his beloved wife of 60 years, Maureen (Gibbs) Bettez; his children, Keith Bettez, Jeffrey and his wife Tracie (Miele) Bettez, and Ronda Bettez; eight grandchildren; and five great-grandchildren, all of whom were the pride and joy of his life.

Though he will be profoundly missed, his lessons, his stories, the memories made on ballfields, fishing docks, beside his beloved pool, and yes, even his corny Dad jokes, will fondly live on in the hearts of those who loved him. Forever loved. Forever remembered.

Lancers Stun Bulldogs, Punch Ticket to Division I Finals

CHRIS PAUL
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Londonderry High School girls' basketball team has battled through the first three rounds of the Division I State Championships and is now headed to the finals for the second consecutive time, following a dramatic 46-45 comeback victory over the Bedford Bulldogs in Portsmouth on Monday night.

The semifinal clash against the second-seeded Bulldogs marked the third time the two teams have met this season. While Bedford took the first two contests, the third time proved to be the charm for the Lancers.

Bedford controlled the pace for the majority of the game, stifling the Lancers' offense to just seven points in the first quarter and building a nine-point lead (27-18) by halftime. The third quarter followed a similar script, with Londonderry falling further behind as they were outscored 12-10.

However, the fourth quarter belonged to the Lancers. Utilizing aggressive defensive pressure and clutch shooting from seniors Sammie Sullivan and Brooke Eacrett, along with junior Gemma Murray, Londonderry mounted a furious rally. The defense held the high-powered Bulldogs to a mere six points in the final frame to secure the one-point win.

Sullivan was the engine of the comeback, scoring 10 of her game-high 18 points in the final quarter despite playing with four fouls. Eacrett sealed the victory in the last two-seconds, intercepting a Bedford inbound pass to prevent a final shot attempt.

"We trusted the game plan and we trusted ourselves," head coach Jon Doherty said after the game. "We never quit, and we never believed we wouldn't win."

Lancer Scoring Leaders: Sullivan: 18 points (game high); Eacrett: 14 points (including two 3-pointers); Murray: 5 points (including a criti-

Lancers Hockey Fall to Bears in Double OT First Round Loss

Junior center Luca Verani had the Lancers first goal.

Senior Brendan Fitzgerald tied the game 3-3 with his goal.

LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Londonderry High School Hockey team battled five periods in the first round of the Division I playoffs, but fell 3-4 to the Hanover High School Bears.

The Lancers came into the NHIAA State Championship as the #7 seed with an 8-8-2 regular season record, facing the #10 seeded Hanover team, a team that they had just beat 3-1, on the road, in the final regular season game of the year.

With that, the Londonderry squad was certainly expected to proceed through their first match-up and make it into the quarterfinals with Trinity (#2).

The Bears had other plans however and eventually skated through both games to the semifinals.

In the Wednesday afternoon, March 3, first round game, at the JFK Arena in Manchester, the Lancers were able to battle back from one-goal deficits three-times, finally forcing two overtime periods to decide the victor.

The Bears got on the board with their first goal very quickly, scoring just :19 seconds in to the contest, before fans could even settle in.

One-minute later, at 13:08, junior first-line center Luca Verani tied the game 1-1, assisted by senior forward Brendan Fitzgerald.

Fitzgerald fed the pass from behind the net to Verani, who was waiting to put it past the Bears senior tender Jorgen Drent.

The evenly matched game sat knotted at one-goal each through the next 25-minutes, until the third period.

In the third period, the Bears were able to put one past junior Lancer goaltender Justin Doyle and take a 2-1 lead at 12:24.

Exactly six-minutes later, Londonderry responded again, this time freshman forward Andrew Soucy scored from in front of the net, assisted by Verani and junior defenseman Ethan Leon.

Once again, the Bears were quickly able to erase any momentum the Lancers could glean from the goal, scoring at 5:02 in the period, and hoping to nurse the one-point lead to victory.

Londonderry had other plans however and with 4:25 left in the game Fitzgerald, scored on a shot from just inside the blue-line on a pass from Verani, to tie the game and send it into overtime, where the Bears finally won in the second sudden death period.

Freshman Andrew Soucy's goal made it 2-2.

Five Track Team Members Head to New Balance Nationals

CHRIS PAUL
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Londonderry High School Indoor Track and Field team has five members that have qualified for the New Balance Nationals meet in Boston on March 12 through March 15.

The National meet has the highest standards to qualify for high school students, which makes it very competitive. To have five boys from the same High School speaks volumes to the team and the coaching staff.

Senior, Josh Twomey, will be running the 800-meter.

Senior, Carson Fitzgerald, who recently placed third at the New England's meet in the mile, will be running the mile and will be running in the Distance Medley Relay with senior, Jack DiBuono, senior Cash Robles and sophomore Patrick Ramsey.

The 2026 New Balance Nationals Indoor (NBNI), scheduled for March 12-15, is expected to draw approximately 5,000 high school athletes from across the United States and Canada.

The event is held at The TRACK at New Balance in Boston, a state-of-the-art facility that has seen over 19 national records fall since it opened. Because this is one of the most prestigious high school track and field championships in the country, participation is strictly limited to those who meet rigorous qualifying standards.

The competition is divided into several tiers to accommodate the best talent in the country:

Championship Division: The top-tier athletes competing for national titles.

Freshman Division: A dedicated category for ninth-grade rising stars.

Middle School Division: For younger athletes who have met the entry standards.

Relay Events: Including the 4x200m, 4x400m, and the Distance Medley Relay (DMR).

The meet serves as a major destination for the best athletes in the Northeast. Following the recent New England Interscholastic Championships on February 28, a strong contingent of local qualifiers-including standouts from programs like Pinkerton Academy, Bishop Guertin, and Londonderry-typically make the short trip to Boston to test themselves on the national stage.

ed mid-way through the second quarter to pull away comfortably.

In the quarterfinals on Thursday, March 5, the Lancers hosted the #6 Windham Jaguars. Although Sullivan was limited by foul trouble in the third quarter, Eacrett and Murray stepped up to anchor a 52-37 victory.

The Lancers held a 19-11 lead after the first quarter, but the Jaguars closed the gap to 27-20 by halftime.

In the final period, Londonderry implemented a suffocating press that forced several Windham turnovers.

The Lancers held the Jaguars to just five points in the fourth quarter to pull away for the 15-point win.

Quarterfinal Standouts: Murray got 17 points (Three 3-pointers); Eacrett had 15 points (7-of-8 from the foul line); Allison DiNovo: 6 points; Sullivan finished with 8 points; and senior Brooke Wilson scored 4 points.

The Division I State Finals are scheduled for Saturday, March 14, at 4 p.m. The Lancers will look to complete their "redemption tour" and bring the title back to Londonderry.

Londonderry will face the Concord Christian Kingsmen (#1), a team that defeated them 59-52 earlier this year.

We urge our readers to "do their homework" before responding to any ad, check out the advertiser thoroughly and verify their claims to your total satisfaction. Only then should you proceed at your own risk. We try to screen ads that require you to send money before receiving a product or service. But these efforts are no substitute for your own investigation, and we don't endorse or guarantee any claims made in any of the ads we publish. If you want more information about claims made in ads on subjects such as work at home opportunities, travel or vacation specials, purchasing land or vehicles from government surplus or below wholesale, loans or other credit opportunities (including credit repair), or weight loss and other health products and services, we urge you to contact the Office of Attorney General, Consumer Protection Bureau, 33 Capitol Street, Concord, NH 03301 (603-271-3641) or the Better Business Bureau at 603-224-1991.
