Committee Claims High Range Water Project to Start in 2026

PAUL CONYERS
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Londonderry Utilities Committee received an update from its water subcommittee on the High Range Road project on Nov. 7. Committee member Jeff McGraw outlined the immediate concerns behind both the ongoing project, and regarding plans for future waterline extensions across town.

“This is looking at the middle of 2026 for that line,” said McGraw, referring to the initial extension. “We drove that line quite a ways, I was shocked for what we’re getting for $10 million. Hopefully we’ll have an incrementally better water system, not complete, but a better water system in the summer of continued on page 3

Board Members Worry Woodmont Getting Too Residential, Expensive

PAUL CONYERS
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The second November meeting of the Londonderry Planning Board saw a presentation for the new Woodmont Planned Use Development (PUD) plan set at 15 and 44 Pillsbury Rd. Will Nuccio from The Procopio Companies was at the meeting to explain the conceptual plan.

“The intent would be to create a residential neighborhood that is compatible with the existing properties,” he said. “On the west side of the site, it’s a relatively steep slope and here’s a decent little forested area. We’d try to keep that there.”

The design included slightly more compressed, higher-density housing to avoid getting too close to nearby wetlands and to preserve more green space.

“This would be a lot of two- and three-bedroom houses. It’s not going to be four- and five-bedroom houses,” explained Nuccio. “Less bedrooms should make it more affordable housing.”

Some units would be sold, while others would be rented out. Director of Engineering John Trotter noted that the higher density would exceed what was normally allowed in the Woodmont PUD.

“It will be interesting to see what you do,” said Trotter, who seemed skeptical about the feasibility of parts of the design after seeing concept art of the common areas and the higher-density layout.

Members of the Planning Board had a few concerns.

“That area in general is a very busy freeway intersection, I’m not sure if it’s going to be improved in the future or not. Adding a lot more traffic to that area I think is going to be tough,” said Board member Ann Chiampa. “I see continued on page 3

High School Report Shows Above Average Growth

ALEX MALM

The School Board received an academic update during its most recent board meeting.

Londonderry High School Director of Curriculum Kim Lindley-Soucy said one of the things they are happy about is that they have been showing steady growth and have generally been above state averages.

“But we also see there is work there to get even higher (test scores),” Soucy said.

For ninth graders that took the PSAT, 31% of students meet benchmarks in both reading/writing, and in math, which is above the state average of 24%. The national average was 33%.

At the tenth grade level 34% of the students meet both benchmarks, which is 4% higher than the state average of 30%. The national average was at 37%.

For juniors, 33% of students meet both benchmarks, which was 6% above the state average which was at 27%. The national average was 41%.

Soucy said this year, for juniors, they are looking at the progress more closely for the PSAT, before students take the SAT in the spring, in order to hopefully improve scores.

Another thing that was reviewed during the meeting, was in regards to the number of Londonderry High School students who participated continued on page 6

Meetinghouse Study Committee Discusses It's Future

ALEX MALM
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Reverend Morrison Meetinghouse Study Committee discussed its potential future, during its most recent meeting and also what will be done with the historic building.

The discussion came in the wake of the Town Council tabling a decision to allow for funds to be used for a structural assessment of the building that the committee had suggested.

The Town Council was expected to take up the issue during a Tuesday, Nov. 26 special meeting, after the Londonderry Times went to press.

Ahead of the meeting, there was discussion by the Committee about their thoughts on continuing their efforts.

"If it does fail, do we continue?" Committee Chair Kathy Wagner asked during the meeting, about the Town Council vote.

Staff liaison Sherry Farrell said she didn't think the Town Council would say no to the funds.

"My feeling on this is we did what they asked, what we were commissioned to do, and this should really not be a no, this should be a final yes," she said.

Farrell also said if there isn't at least an attempt at looking at saving the building, then they aren't repre-sending the people in Town.

"The feeling is that our Reverend Morrison House needs to be saved," Farrell said.

She explained that she joined the Committee with the thought that the building was going to be saved.

"I believe it's what our residents want," Farrell said.

Committee member Larry Casey said they need to find out what needs to be done to the building, and from there, the Town could go out to bid for the different phases.

"That was part of the proposal," he said.

During public comment, resident Deb Paul said, one thing she thinks would be beneficial, if the committee continues, is to come up with what the purpose or actual use of the building is, which would help impact their decisions.

"I really think that needs to be a priority," Paul said, noting it would be a way to extend the Committee.

Casey added that he wasn't aware of anyone wanting to tear the building down at this point.

"I don't get the sense from anybody in this process that tearing the building down is a desirable option," he said.

Casey said regardless, he thinks they need the Town Council to revisit the charge of the Committee and update it.

"To the best of our ability and through a lot of time and effort we did what we could to fulfill the initial charge," he said.

He added the main objective completed was getting a proposal delivered "Which is the foundation for moving forward to determine the cost."

Casey also said he thinks moving forward, the Town Council needs to be more specific with their expectations.

"In hindsight, I think it was ambitious," he said.

Wagner noted that they can't move on until they get the structural engineering report done.

She explained she thinks it should be up to the Town Council to determine what the Committee's direction should be moving forward.

"It's really not up to us anyways," Wagner said.

Happy Thanksgiving!

The line under construction was described as a “main trunk” from which other lines would eventually branch off from.

“This is the timeline the High Range Road Water Project going from the intersection Parmenter and Old Nashua going as far up Parmenter into High Range,” said Committee Chair Lynn Wiles. “This is a work in progress.”

McGraw stated he was in constant communication with Pennichuck Water to keep track of the project.

“As a committee, we’re really improving transparency and communications with Pennichuck,” he said. “There’s still a lot of work to do, I like things to go faster, but I think we’re getting good things done.”

Committee member Anne Fenn worried progress was not happening fast enough, especially in the consent decree area, where many residents are still on bottled water owing to continued high levels of PFAS contamination. She alleged that some residents in the consent decree area did not have access to the financial aid needed for reverse osmosis filters. Town Council Liaison Ron Dunn pointed to slow action by Saint-Gobain in getting unconnected homes closest to Londonderry’s water system as the main factor.

“They’re dragging their feet on the waterline,” said Town Council Liaison Ron Dunn. “Anybody that’s connected to a watermain has to wait until Saint-Gobain decides to do what they’re going to do.”

Saint-Gobain is supposed to provide clean water to everyone in the consent decree. Dunn estimated there were 350 homes in the contaminated area that were “designated to make a water main connection” at an unspecified future date.

The sewer and solid waste brought up the possibility of a waste oil grant for the town.

“There’s some grant money available, a small amount of money available to communities that recycle waste oil,” said Wiles. “We were talking about applying for some money, it was about $2,500 to maybe refurbish our little building behind the fire station where we do our collections.”

The collection building has had a step some residents have had trouble getting past when going out to deposit their extra oil. Waste oil collected near Central Fire Station is used in a furnace to heat the Highway Garage.

There were no updates from the cable and Internet subcommittee.

more building in the area with your plans and I’m not that thrilled about that.”

Board member Jason Knights said he was “a fan” of the general design, although he was worried about the “chipping away” of what was intended to be a more retail-oriented part of Woodmont Commons.

“It does specify a small retail, neighborhood kind of thing and that has completely gone away with this,” said Knights. “It seems like we’re getting a lot more residential and a lot less of those pieces people were really looking forward to. If there’s a way to bring that back, it would be nice.”

Retail stores were supposed to provide close services for Woodmont residents as a self-contained neighborhood. Developers promised to see what they could do as the design moves forward.

Chair Jake Butler believed there was a way for the proposal to move forward if “done right,” with an eye on housing affordability.

“If you look at some of the recently approved developments in the town of Londonderry, I think I saw the starting price point of $910,000 for a single-family home,” said Butler. “I think 90% of the people in this room would agree that $910,000 is not affordable.”

He pushed for smaller, more affordable houses for the development, tentatively agreeing to higher density. Affordable housing is a voluntary measure under state law, meaning local officials cannot force requirements, although they can modify density requirements. There was also talk of limiting the square footage of the houses.

“I want you to come to me and say ‘this is how we’re going to put up 78 houses that are going to be more affordable than what is traditionally being put up,’ and I want you to show me how you’re going to justify that,” said Butler.

“I think you guys have the ability. I feel like you have the vision and you want to do it.”

The next Planning Board meeting is set for Wednesday, Dec. 4, at 7 p.m. in the Moose Hill Conference Room.

Season for Giving

As the holiday season quickly approaches, we find ourselves caught up in the hustle of Thanksgiving feasts and the frenzy of Christmas shopping. Some of our readers may have completed their holiday shopping before the Thanksgiving turkey even hits the table, while others are still deciding on gifts and wondering where to shop as the days fly by on the advent calendar.

We encourage you to consider doing all of your holiday shopping locally.

Supporting local businesses is a gift that keeps on giving; it helps keep their doors open during these changing times. There's a special joy in purchasing items labeled as locally made. These businesses contribute to community charities, so by shopping at mom-and-pop stores, you help them thrive while creating memorable experiences and fostering a healthy local economy.

Nutfield Publishing urges you to support local artists, bakers, farmers, and shop owners by purchasing unique gifts from them.

Remember, your local newspaper is also a family-owned business. We rely solely on advertising to produce our newspapers for the community every week. Please encourage local shops and restaurants to advertise, as this will help keep your community newspaper alive-thank you for your support.

Our pages are filled with announcements of various drives and collections happening throughout the town. It's truly heartwarming to see how the community comes together to assist those who may be less fortunate during this time of year. It's a shame that this spirit doesn't continue throughout the entire year. Although we live in an affluent area, the need is not always visible.

It's crucial to start at home by teaching young children and teens the importance of helping others. Adults can contribute their time, money, or gifts to support families who are unable to afford presents during the holidays. If you have some spare time, consider volunteering at soup kitchens or participating in holiday fundraisers. It's a rewarding way to embody the true spirit of the season-giving thanks.

Letters

Lifelong Learning

To the editor,

First let me take this opportunity to thank all those who voted for me in our recent election. I am extremely grateful. I would also like to congratulate the winners and recognize the extensive effort that all candidates put in this election.

That said, on to my main purpose of this letter, to let you know of some educational opportunities you may not be aware of. The first is the Osher Lifelong Learning Institute at the University of NH. OLLI is an organization that offers (people 50 and older) an opportunity to share their knowledge with others by creating interesting short-term courses and an opportunity for others (like me) to keep learning new stuff. Their focus is on learning for the sheer enjoyment of it. You can explore a wide range of ideas and interests along with other seniors - without any tests, grades, or college prerequisites! There are both in person and zoom courses. There are also special interest groups: Happy Hour, Lunch Bunch, Book and Meditation Groups. You can find out more at www.unh.edu/olli, 603 255 3553.

The second is the Rivier Institute for Senior Education (RISE). It offers "a vibrant and collaborative learning environment for older adults who share a belief that curiosity never retires". The Rivier Institute for Senior Education incorporates active participation and fellowship for older adults both online and in-person at Rivier University and other locations in Nashua. An affiliate of the Road Scholar Institute Network, RISE offers a diverse curriculum with courses in history, literature, writing, music, religion, current events, art history, technology, physical fitness, and much more. There are no grades, no tests, and no credit. Our members thrive in an environment with no pressure and lots of encouragement, social interaction, and engagement. To find out more - there website is www.rivier.edu/academics/rise, 603 897 8623.

Finally, the Road Scholar program. "At not-for-profit Road Scholar, our mission is to inspire adults to learn, discover and travel. Our learning adventures engage expert instructors, provide extraordinary access, and stimulate discourse and friendship among people for whom learning is the journey of a lifetime." They offer a wide variety of travel/learning adventures. "When you travel with Road Scholar, you'll be an active learner, not a passive tourist. Every day is thoughtfully planned to open your eyes to new discoveries, ideas, and people. You'll learn from expert faculty and meet others who share a love of learning and adventure." Contact info: www.roadscholar.org, 800 454 5768.

I hope some of you find this information helpful.

Volunteers Save Town the Expense of Holiday Lighting

After hearing that the Town Council intended to pay nearly $15,000 for holiday light on two groupings of cedar trees on the Town Common, local business owners and residents Tom Estey and Eric Turcotte offered to donate their services. Estey paid for about 4,000 lights and Turcotte had the equipment to string them, Home Depot, where the lights were purchased, donated by selling the lights at half price and the Local Police Association also chipped in on the cost. Turcotte and Darcey Lefebvre spent much of last weekend removing the old lights and stringing the new ones. Estey and other volunteers were also there to help.

Library Sees Benefit from Integrated Library System

PAUL CONYERS
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Leach Library Board of Trustees praised the recent success of their participation in the Greater Manchester Integrated Library System (GMILCS) with 12 other libraries. Trustee Liz Thomas was impressed with the system when she used it to renew some books without going to the library.

"I was very excited that I got an email from GMILCS saying that my books were going to be due the next day," she said. "I was able to call the library, renew it over the phone, and in five minutes it was all done. Usually, I'm delayed."

GMILCS is a consortium of libraries across Southern NH that share a catalog system and online resources. Head of Technical Services Donna Plante had been in contact with GMILCS staff members and Alyssa Jobin from the Merrimack Public Library to get a remote notification and renewal system working at Londonderry's Leach Library.

According to Head of Circulation Services Megan Donovan, GMILCS has contributed to higher volume at Leach.

"Now that we're part of GMILCS, we're actually seeing visitors coming from other libraries," she said. "I had a really great interaction with some patrons from different libraries."

In the past month, 122 items were sent to Leach Library from other GMILCS-affiliated libraries for check-out. In turn, Leach sent 91 items to other GMILCS-affiliated libraries for check-out. Some technical issues with the GMILCS system were reported and were being addressed.

Trustee Nancy Hendricks wondered if the system had a way to get books to some of Lon-donderry's elderly residents.

"One of the things I'm very interested in is getting services to seniors. In Bedford we talk about their library literally mailing books to their seniors. If we have seniors here who want to access books through GMILCS, but are unable to get them, does GMILCS provide any type of service to get books to our seniors here?" asked Hendricks.

Library Director Erin Matlin stated there was no senior book service, though there was talk about doing something like that sometime in the future. She was worried about legal liability.

"I know there are some people out there who would take advantage of it, but I want to make sure that were doing everything right with the legalities of it," said Matlin. "We're looking for avenues where we can do it without that risk of liability."

The library currently has a system where cards are mailed to residents, allowing them to access Leach Library's digital offerings.

Leach Library will be expected to follow the GMILCS Common Borrower Card and Open Request Policy, allowing cardholders from other libraries to check items out from Leach Library. Londonderry cardholders can also check out items from other GMILCS libraries.

Library Trustees Review Online Policy, Announces Card Challenge Win

PAUL CONYERS
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Leach Library Board of Trustees opened its meeting on Nov. 6 with a brief debate on approving material posted on the library website by staff members or Trustees.

"The problem was that we felt there needs to be a chain of custody of anything that's officially put on the library site," said Trustee Liz Thomas. "On the library site it's under the purview between the Board of Trustees and the librarians on what should be posted and when it should be posted."

The focus was on ensuring nothing posted online would unintentionally imply endorsement by the library as an institution. This included posting videos of meetings on the library website, though not necessarily the town website.

Following this Assistant Library Director and Head of Technical Services Donna Plante gave an update on their recent Staff Development Day last October.

"I think it was very successful, the staff seemed to enjoy it," said Plante. "Some of the things we did is that we actually went to Manchester City Library and the Director and Deputy Director were very kind to us and they gave us a tour of the public areas in the staff areas before they gave us some insight into how they do things there. That was really great."

As part of the Development Day, library employees attended a workshop on the advantages and pitfalls of artificial intelligence.

Plante also announced that Leach Library won the Granite State Library Card Challenge.

"We participated in kind of a fun competition with other public libraries during the month of September, where we all competed to get the most new card sign-ups and renewals. During September, we got over 800 patrons visits to renew or sign-up for a new card, which was a huge increase," she explained. "We have the trophy upstairs. It's kind of a traveling trophy so it'll go to the winner next year, but our name is on it permanently."

The library used a postcard campaign sent out to patrons whose cards had expired, reminding them to renew. Plante said she was "amazed" by the success of their effort.

Trustee Chair Kim Bears thanked Plante and the library staff for their hard work.

"It's amazing how far this library has come in the past three years," said Bears.

Head of Circulation Services Megan Donovan announced that in addition to card renewals, more people were checking out books and other materials from the library.

"We did have 16,411 materials checked out of our physical and digital collections," said Donovan. "That's amazing, it's much higher than last year, which I think was around 14,000. We continuing to see a high volume of visitors at the library, in October we had 6,827 visitors."

Meaning this years number of visitors has already surpassed 2023 visitor numbers.

High School

pate in the dual enrollment programs at Southern NH University and or Manchester Community College.

Soucy explained that the programs allows students to earn college credit while they are still in high school. She said students can take up to two classes at Manchester Community College at no cost, and then are able to get three credits for $150.

"Many of our students take advantage of this program," Soucy said.

For the 2024-2025 school year, students are earning 307 credits during the first semester from Manchester Community College and 120 at Southern NH University. For all of 2023-2024 students earned a total of 383 credits at Manchester Community College, and 240 credits at Southern NH University.

"Students are definitely taking advantage of those opportunities," Soucy said during the meeting.

The School Board received an update, during the meeting, on the number of students who are expected to take the AP exams this spring.

It was noted that for the 2025 school year, it is expected that 465 AP exams will be taken, which is up significantly from 2024, when 306 exams were taken. In 2023, 205 exams were taken, and 212 in 2022.

Soucy explained that they have a grant that they received so students don't have to pay for the AP exams, which they expect is the reason for the large increase in the number of exams being taken.

The next School Board meeting is set to take place on Dec. 3 beginning at 7 p.m.

Holiday Preparation Gets Underway by Troop 426

Scout Troop 426 continued its tradition of supporting individual and troop activities with their annual Christmas wreath sale. The troop is hoping to sell nearly 450 wreaths this season. Scouts went door-to-door in September and October to take pre-orders, then decorated and sorted them on Saturday, Nov. 23. Over 350 wreaths were decorated in the Matthew Thornton Elementary cafeteria this year. The troop will also take a supply of our decorated wreaths to Plummer's Farm, on Pillsbury Road to sell over the Thanksgiving weekend and first weekend of December.

Lancers Beat Blue Hawks Head to Division Finals

CHRIS PAUL
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Fans of the Londonderry High School Football team that chose to brave the cold temperatures and stiff winds at the Division I semifinals against the Blue Hawks were treated to an outstanding game, that finished with a final seconds field goal for a 31-28 Lancers victory.

The hard-fought win sends the number three-seeded Londonderry, into a State Championship game with the number four-seed, rival Pinkerton Academy, on Saturday, Nov. 30, at Exeter High School.

The semifinal victory over the Exeter High School team, in Exeter, on Saturday, Nov. 23, looked as though it would be a one-sided Lancer victory early on, but the Blue Hawks charged back in the second half, forcing Londonderry into a tie game at 28-28 late in the fourth. LHS went ahead with three-seconds left on the clock thanks to a game-winning field-goal by senior kicker Blake Thompson.

Londonderry had a 21-7 lead going into the second half, but Exeter scored two touchdowns in the third quarter and another in the fourth to force Londonderry the Kick from the 28-yard line.

Londonderry started the game on offense, but an early penalty resulted in a quick three-and-out and a punt to the EHS 45-yard line.

The LHS defense quickly got the ball back for the LHS offense, forcing a three-and-out of their own, allowing the Lancers to start the next drive at the 23-yard line.

The first play in the series resulted in a 60-yard gain by junior running back Adrian Cruz, who bolted the sideline to the Exeter 17-yard line.

It took just two-more plays before senior quarterback Sam Ogden ran the ball in from the five-yard line from the two for a touchdown.

From there, Thompson added the extra-point where he was able to tie the LHS record for P.A.T. points.

The current record was held by Charlie MacInnis. MacInnis had 82 career P.A.T. points in 1997.

The Lancers defense forced another put after three downs, where Londonderry was able to start their third drive at the 33-yard line.

It took nine plays for Londonderry to go up by 14 in the first play of the second quarter after a series of running plays by Cruz, Ogden and Jordan Ball.

The LHS touchdown came on a one-yard run by Ball. Thompson followed up with a record-breaking point-after and a 14-0 Lancers lead at 11:53 in the second.

The Lancers defense was able to keep the Blue Hawks offense frustrated, with Alex Villa sacking the EHS QB on their third play.

Starting the next series at the Exeter 49, Ogden completed a 43-yard pass to senior Ethan Wheeler, who ran it in for the three-score lead.

Thompson added the extra-point for a 21-0 Lancer lead at 9:38 in the second.

From there, Exeter started to find holes in the Lancers offense and the Blue Hawks were able level the score in the second half.

Before the half ended, and after the first TD by Exeter, senior Matt Luongo was able to make a touchdown saving interception at the Lancer goal-line to keep LHS ahead by 14 at half-time.

The Lancers were kept scoreless in the third quarter, while giving up two more touch-down to a surging Exeter squad.

Londonderry was able to regain the lead at 6:56 in the fourth quarter after the LHS defense forced a turnover on downs by Exeter.

Ogden was able to put the score at 28-21 with a three-yard run for a touchdown, followed by another Thompson extra-point.

Exeter's next drive, tied the game at 28-28 with just over a minute left on the game clock.

Starting at their 35-yard line, Londonderry was able to get the ball down to the one-yard line with 18-seconds left, but a holding penalty brought it back to the 14-yard line.

From there, with three seconds left,

Thompson kicked the game-winning 38-yard field goal from the 28-yard line as the clock expired, triggering the celebration of beating the undefeated Blue Hawks.

Thompson finished the game with 85 career P.A.T points, a new Londonderry record.

Londonderry finished with 339-yards of total offense, 227 on the ground and 112-yards in the air.

Wheeler and Ethan Paquette caught for 49- and 48-yards respectively.

On defense, Villa had three sacks and seven tackles. Sophomore Davis Magarian had eight tackles in the game.

The game against Pinkerton Academy is scheduled for this Saturday, at the Bill Ball Stadium, starting at 1 p.m.
