Melolos says further, "These factors include zoning restrictions and the condition of public infrastructure such as roads and utilities. Investors should also take into account whether the local government is investing in services, such as public safety and schools and their plans to do so. mons and historic cemeteries of New Hampshire, the statue of a Civil War soldier is a sight often taken for granted. But a vestige of that war remains part of our lives today, as we mark the occasion of Memorial Day this coming Monday.

Memorial Day was officially proclaimed and observed in 1868 by General John Logan, national commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, as a time when flowers were placed on the graves of Union and Confederate soldiers at Arlington National Cemetery. Evidence of an even earlier day of remembrance comes from records of the decoration of Confederate soldiers' graves by women's groups in the South before the end of the Civil War. By 1890, the day, originally called Decoration Day, was recognized by all northern states, while the South honored its dead on a separate date.

Then came World War I, and the day changed to a time of remembrance throughout the country for all who gave their lives in military service to the United States

Many more wars have taken the

In the town squares and com- lives of American servicemen and women since then, including the current war in Afghanistan. But even with the present-day fighting, it's easy to look at Memorial Day as just another chance for a three-day weekend, an extra day off from work and school, a time for barbecues and mowing the lawn and planting the flower garden.

> We suggest a different focus. Those Civil War statues, and the old cemeteries where tiny American flags stand vigil by graves, are visual reminders that thousands of lives have been given in the name of their nation's service - and more are at risk today. Memorial Day is a good time to think about what those familiar objects represent > Ceremonies in our towns will center on the cemeteries and the statues, on the flags and the wreaths.

This Memorial Day, we encourage you to take time from your busy lives and your extra day of leisure to remember, and to thank those who have made the ultimate sacrifice, as well as those who stand ready to do so today. And let us hope that sacrifice will someday no longer be necessary.

Young Gardeners Make Sticks for Stakes

The Derry Garden Club's children's garden at the Boys and Girls Club in Derry will be opening soon and the volunteers have begun instructing the young Green Thumbs in seed preparation by making biodegradable pots from strips of newspaper, seed starter and seeds. When the seeds sprout and all chance of frost has passed, they will be planted in the garden. Twenty children worked on this project and made over 140 pots using marigold and nasturtium seeds.

The April gardening project was making wildflower "seed bombs" as a Mother's Day gift. The children made marble sized balls of clay laced with wildflower seeds and then rolled into potting soil. These "seed bombs" were then placed into a fabric pouch tied up with a decorative instructional tag for them to present to their mom's on Mother's Day. Twenty-two kids had a "blast" making these little gems.

Another project with young gardeners was designing and painting wooden paint sticks as plant markers for the garden (pictured above). This is a favorite activity for the young gardeners and a real opportunity to express their creative side that we all enjoy seeing when the markers are placed into the garden.

The Children's Garden is maintained by the children who attend the Boys and Girls Club and is twelve years old this year. More than 100 children will work in the garden this year learning where their actual food comes from and how to grow it and then cook with

The children are guided by members of the Derry Garden Club, a member of the New Hampshire Federation of Garden Clubs, Inc.

Annual Pick Up The faithful Beaver Lake Improvement Association volunteers took part in annual effort to pick-up trash accumulated along the roadways surrounding the lake. As part of an Earth Day effort the intrepid group of BLIA volunteers fanned out around the lake and picked up what had been disgarded over the fall and winter. Pictured are two young volunteer members, Thomas and Bridget Richards picking up plastic and cans from the edge of the lake.

NH Dept. of Health and Human Services On Mosquito Bite Prevention

Melissa Beth RUiz NUTFIELD NEWS

Granite Staters will soon be trading out long jackets and pants for tank tops and shorts and lighting up the grill as the unofficial start of summer rounds the corner.

But as is the case with every season, with the good comes the bad, and the bad parts of summer can cause many to "Bug out."

Summer means mosquitoes, and mosquitoes mean swatting and itchy bites. And these itchy bites could mean big trouble for some recent data from the Centers people.

West Nile Virus and Eastern Equine Encephalitis EEE and 4 cases of WNV (EEE) are both arthropodborne illnesses, with the Despite these small numvectors most often being bers, both diseases can be lead to inflammation of the brain and spinal cord.

According to the CDC, 8 out of 10 people infected with EEE or WNV do not develop symptoms, and about 1 in 5 will develop flulike symptoms, such as fever, headache, body aches, joint pains, vomiting, diarrhea, or rash. Most people with these symptoms recover completely, but fatigue and weakness can persist for weeks to even months.

According to the most for Disease Control, there were only 3 reported cases of between 2008 and 2017.

shire Department of Health and Human Services offers the following advice in preventing mosquito bites, possibly preventing severe illness:

Mosquitoes are most active during times of low light, such as the evening, nighttime, and at dawn. During these hours, the NHD-HHS recommends changing into more protective clothing such as pants, longsleeved shirts, and socks.

When using repellent, always follow the manufacturer's instructions. DEET is the most commonly used repellent, making it so mosquitoes and other biting insects cannot smell the perboth the EPA and CDC, repellents containing DEET should not be harmful to the person's health, provided that instructions are followed closely, and that the substance is not ingested and has not made contact with the eyes.

Other means of repellent, such as citronella oil, have been shown by studies to require more reapplication than DEET, as they do not provide protection for as long, and are most effective when used outside when the wind is not strong (for more information on mosquito repellents, visit the American Mosquito Control Association at www.mosquito.org).

When applying repellent on children, never spray it directly on them, says the NHDHHS. Repellent should first be applied to an adult's hands, and then put onto the child's skin. Infants and children in strollers should be protected with mosquito nets placed over the strollers.

While most often mosquito bites occur while outdoors, mosquitoes can and will follow their victims into the home and will sneak in through unscreened windows or doors, broken screens, and gaps between air conditioner divider panels and windows.

To keep mosquitoes out of the home, make sure the doors and windows have tight-fitting screens, and replace any that have tears or holes.

The NHDHHS also offers the following informa-number of mosquitoes breeding on backyard property:

Mosquitoes tend to lay their eggs in standing water, and adult mosquitoes use weeds, tall grass, and bushes to rest during the daytime. Standing water can be eliminated from residential areas by discarding outdoor artificial containers such as tin cans, plastic containers, glass bottles, or any similar water-holding containers.

For containers that must be left outdoors, such as recycling bins, flower pots, etc, be sure to drill a hole or holes on the bottom of such containers. Drainage holes on the sides will still allow enough water for mosquitoes to breed.

Do not attempt to drain any natural bodies of water without first requesting a permit from the Department of Environmental Services, since ponds and wetlands are regulated through the department.

tic wading pools should be turned over when not in use, and water in birdbaths should be changed daily to prevent mosquitoes from congregating.

Grass and weeds should be mowed as short as possible, and shrubs should be thinned enough to allow circulation through plants, thereby helping to reduce the possible resting places 273-NILE (6453).

Any discarded tires should be removed from residential property, as the used tire is the most common site for mosquito breeding in the United States, according to the NHDHHS. Roof gutters should be regularly and properly drained to reduce the amount of standing water in these areas. Clogged gutters should be cleaned in the spring and fall as often as necessary to help eliminate standing water.

Outdoor swimming pools, hot tubs, and saunas should be cleaned and chlorinated on a regular basis. If not in use, these should be kept empty and covered, and covers should not be allowed to collect standing water from rainfall.

Ornamental pools should be aerated, as water gardens become major mosquito producers if allowed to stagnate. Filling these pools with fish can also help to reduce the number of mosquitoes visiting.

Finally, neighbors should Wheelbarrows and plas- be reminded to tend to any mosquito-attracting sites on their property to further keep mosquitoes at bay, keeping neighbors and individual families safe.

The tricentennial anniversary celebrations for the settling of our area known as Nutfield continued on Saturday with a Living Treasures Recognition Ceremony at the Currier Hall at First Parish Church.

The award cermony was part of the Nutfield tricentennial and was a celebration of nearly 50 senior volunteers who make the area a better place to live.

The event was hosted by local historian TJ Cullinane, and began with a luncheon catered by Pinkerton Academy Culinary Arts students.

While those being honored dined, they were entertained by members of the Pinkerton Chorus, seniors Samantha Griffin and Sydney Steger along with freshman Victoria Volokitkin entertained the crowd.
