

Residents Voice Their Views on Drag Story Time Event

ALEX MALM
NUTFIELD NEWS

DERRY – Last week a drag story time reading was supposed to take place at the Taylor Library, but after members of the public voiced their concern, it was decided by library officials to instead find a new venue for the story time.

That led to the event changing venues and taking place at the Tupelo Music Hall instead. The story time was hosted by Michael McMahon, as ‘Clara Divine.’

During the June 15 Derry Town Council meeting, people on both sides of the issue expressed their concerns.

“Theres alot of people here who want to speak tonight and we want to hear from everybody. We don’t want to silence any voices, we want to hear all the voices,” said Derry Town Council Chairman James Morgan.

Morgan earlier this month asked members of the council to recognize Pride Month in Derry by having the Pride Flag displayed in Town Hall.

He said he was going to put the gavel away from him in order to allow people of the public to speak freely without being interrupted.

“I’m going to trust that each and everyone of you no matter what side of the issue you happen to have the respect and admiration towards this community and towards your fellow neighbors whether you agree or disagree,” he said.

One of the members of the public who spoke was resident Greg Cunningham.

“I want to thank the Town Council for displaying the Pride Flag in the municipal center this month, it means alot to me,” he said.

Cunningham said that

Chester Selectmen Discuss Town’s End of Year Finances

ALEX MALM
NUTFIELD NEWS

CHESTER – The Chester Board of Selectmen held its first hybrid Board of Selectmen meeting since the pandemic on June 17.

With the end of the fiscal year ending on June 30 one of the items on the board of selectmen agendas for the last couple of meetings has been in regards to left over funds in budgets for different departments and whether or not they will carry over any of the money to next year’s budget.

For the police department one of those requests was to carry over $2,395 for a radar for their new cruiser that they ordered.

The other item was for $2,500 for a hiring bonus. It was asked by Chester Town Administrator Debra Doda when the bonus would be paid out.

Chester Police Chief Aaron Berube said that it would be paid out in August or September which is why they needed the money carried over.

In regards to the radar it was decided to have the department purchase it now since they have enough money in their budget and would get about $300 off the price if they bought it by July 1.

Berube said that the new cruiser had already been ordered but could take up to 12 weeks for it to come in.

Also asking for money to be moved forward to next year was the recreation department.

After not having fireworks last year due to the COVID-19 pandemic it was announced that they would be on again this year.

“We are doing fireworks,” said Corinna Reishus, recreation director for Chester.

Since they didn’t spend their $7,000 last year on fireworks since they were canceled, Reishus said that they were seeking to move that funds to the next year.

Their goal is to have a big event and also help to kick off the first year of Chester’s 300th anniversary.

“I just want to make it

Hampstead Officials End Mask Mandate For Town Buildings

NUTFIELD NEWS

HAMPSTEAD – The Hampstead Board of Selectmen held its bi-monthly meeting on June 14.

During the meeting the board of selectmen discussed the communication Committee’s new newsletter that they want to send out to residents. Representing the committee at the meeting was Matt Gillette, the chairperson of the committee.

Their goal is for it to be sent out bi-monthly and would be sent out via email.

It was explained by Gillette that each board and committee has a space on the town’s website where they can upload news and announcements already. Their goal is to get people to sign up for the email list which they will use to send out the newsletters to people. He said that those who sign up will also get a notification any time news and updates are uploaded to the website.

Sandown Senior Affairs Committee Ponders Driver Insurance Coverage

JOHN SEIDENBERG
NUTFIELD NEWS

SANDOWN - The Sandown Senior Affairs Transportation Committee has indicated its concern over the limited insurance for voluntary drivers in case of injury or accident. The committee is inquiring how drivers could be covered to a higher level, said Selectman Robert Nickerson, liaison to the committee.

The network of volunteers provides free transportation to elderly, disabled or ill residents in Sandown.

This is not a covered service under the member agreement for volunteers, Town Administrator Lynne Blaisdell pointed out at the selectmen's meeting June 7. "Whether there's additional coverage you can maybe purchase I don't know."

Because this is a town committee, any insurance provided would have to cover the town in that capacity. This originally was a volunteer group separate from the town.

Drivers have their own required insurance however limited it may be. Nonetheless, it's not to the extent that the town would ordinarily have, Blaisdell said.

The town can see if some other coverage is available for the drivers, she noted. "But how do you cover only a few volunteers and not others?"

All volunteers would need to have coverage. Town employees would be covered by the town if injured in the course of performing their business, noted Selectman Vice Chair Jonathan Goldman.

The difficult issue here is that the drivers are volunteers. Anyone who is a volunteer for the town is only covered in that function up to $10,000, Blaisdell added.

Arthur Genuardo had introduced a sales representative from Ion Lighting Distribution Inc., to board members as part of a lighting replacement discussion. Ion is a partner of Eversource.

Genuardo said he had purchased LD lights from the Ion representative, Zach Guy, for the town's transfer station, and had also installed fixtures at the Highway Department.

The talk then turned to the possibility of having lighting placed at the Highway Shed, Town Hall, Fire Station, and other town buildings at a lower cost.

Guy had commented about being able to change all the lighting at the transfer station. Those are Eversource's lights, and he had said his company could take those lights down and install theirs.

But following the meeting Selectman Tom Tombarello, who is the electric inspector, questioned if that could happen. He contacted Eversource and was told the lights are billed on a rate based on wattage and must be the listed lights installed there.

Customers may not alter or remove Eversource's lights or install their equipment on poles, Tombarello was informed. Customers can end their rental agreement and install their own poles on their metered account or can purchase poles from Eversource at about $1,900 a piece, Blaisdell reported. However, this option is not always available.

What Guy proposed is not feasible for the street lights at the transfer station, the selectmen learned. They would like to know whether Eversource has a retrofit program and could send someone to do an energy audit possibly for lights inside the buildings.

This amount might cover some form of medical payments for someone injured while doing transportation services for the town. Another question is the purpose of a vehicle being used on the town's behalf.

Goldman wondered if the town could ever face any civil liability regarding volunteer drivers. He would like to evaluate any other coverage options and the cost as part of doing due diligence related to insurance.

On a separate matter June 7, the board of selectmen learned a potential cost savings to the town may not be as feasible as they had hoped.

At a meeting in May Public Works Director

Selectmen Laurie Warnock, who serves as the liaison for the communications committee said that she knows a lot of the information in the newsletters are links but asked if there would be any printed copies as well.

Gillette said that was something he wanted to bring up to the Selectmen to see if there was any interest by the board to have the newsletters digitally or have a combination of the two.

Warnock said that they should print off 10 copies of it for the library and 10 copies for the board of selectmen office.

that he would like the chance to be able to preview the newsletters before they go out.

Other board members agreed.

Also during the meeting the board of selectmen discussed their mask policies for town buildings.

Going into the meeting masks were still required to be worn in the buildings by both the public along with staff members who work there.

Murphy said that since new guidance has come from both the CDC and the state he felt that it was a good time to look at changing their policies.

Warnock said she talked to some of the departments and they told her that they were okay with no longer having masks be required.

"My thought is that we could probably lift that," she said.

Selectmen Steve Morse

said that he agreed that they should lift the mask policy and make it optional to wear masks inside the town buildings.

"We're at the point where if you want a vaccine you can get a vaccine, if you want to wear a mask you can wear a mask," he said.

Selectmen Joseph Guthrie said that he talked to the town clerk recently. He said that they are okay with the mask requirement being lifted and that they have the most exposure to the public.

He was also in favor of having the mask mandate lifted for town owned buildings.

The board of selectmen voted in favor 5-0 for the changes.

Murphy asked that the new mask policy be put into effect immediately which the rest of the board agreed with.

Updating Needed for Derry's Public Safety Facilities

ALEX MALM
NUTFIELD NEWS

DERRY – The Derry Town Council met on Tuesday, June 15, and during the meeting, the future of the public safety facilities in town was discussed.

It was explained by Derry Town Administrator David Caron that the Council recently directed staff and some of the town councilors to look at the public safety facilities infrastructure.

He said that they have met four times over the last three months.

Ultimately the committee decided to go to the town council and ask that they spend $20,000 to hire a consultant to find out a better idea of how much it would cost for the building projects, and to get a better sense of what is needed most.

The funding was budgeted as a line item already.

In a presentation by Caron, Derry Police Chief Edward Garone, and Derry Fire Chief Michael Gagnon, they explained the challenges they have with their current facilities.

"To address aging and inefficient fire and police facilities, to decrease Fire/EMS response times to more populated areas in Derry, and to address service access concerns, all in a manner which understands and respects the fiscal impact upon Derry taxpayers," the challenge statement stated.

For the police station one of the issues they are facing is the fact that they don't have appropriate segregation for the male/female facilities.

Garone explained that when the facility was built 36 years ago they had far less female officers than they do now.

Because of this they didn't account for having enough spaces for different gender locker rooms and lack the physical space needed to address those needs.

Another issue that he pointed out during the presentation is the fact that the facility lacks the adequate perimeter security needed.

He said that especially became noticeable last year.

"There were moments when we were very vulnerable," he said.

Other issues include having a lack of adequate computer forensics and evidence processing facilities, and overall significant space limitations.

For the Central Fire Station, Gagnon explained that the almost 50 year old facility is at the end of its life.

"It only takes one quick walk through for anyone to realize that," he said.

Another concern that they have is not having a designated personal protective equipment room. "That's just not appropriate in a modern day fire operation," Gagnon said. Other issues that he pointed out include significant space limitations, the need for immediate significant capital maintenance being required, and having no places for training, to name a few. The English Range Fire Station, also had similar issues including the space limitations, no separate PPE room, along with the lack of a decontamination room. Some of the potential solutions that were presented to the council during the meeting included constructing a new central fire station at Shute's Corner, constructing a public safety facility at Shute's Corner, constructing a new central fire station along By-Pass-28, constructing a public safety facility along By-Pass-28, and constructing a new police station in the community. It was ultimately agreed on by the Council to use the $20,000 to hire a consultant to understand the needs and for them to gain more details.

In other news the council approved the resignations of Jillien Klok, and Kim Burke from the Taylor Library Board of Trustees. They also accepted the resignation of Lori Davison from the planning board.

The next Derry Town Council meeting is slated for July 20, at 7 p.m.

Taste the Local Flavors

Even after all the talk lately about population density on the rise and needing more homes we still try to maintain the “rural lifestyles” of our communities.

This is the time of year when things start to heat up, not just where the weather is concerned but, with the hallmarks of rural communities like the countryside farm stands, farmers’ markets, the fairs, the concerts and all the other out door celebrations that make our communities great.

In recent years, farmers’ markets have sprung up everywhere, this is a bonus to residents who want fresh, local fruits and vegetables and either don’t have the land to grow their own or can’t plant for other reasons. Our communities are close to the source for sure, in many cases you can’t get more local when it comes to food than we are.

Derry has a thriving farmers market, and it grows every year. There’s something particularly satisfying about residents getting together for a couple of hours a week to shop outdoors. It’s not certain what you will find; flowers, fresh breads, fruits and vegetables, Home-made soaps, Organic dog biscuits, Maple syrup, Live music and entertainment, crafts for the kids, it has something new every week.

Meanwhile, farmers in Derry, Londonderry, Chester, Sandown and Hampstead offer traditional farm stands as well, where their agricultural bounty is available for residents and tourists alike every day, right at the farm where it’s grown, and often with a U-pick option.

Local products and local people come together at all of these ventures, turning shopping for food into a time to visit with friends, maybe find a couple of new recipes, learn about fruits and vegetables that aren’t so common, and get healthier in the process.

If you like supporting your neighbors and keeping your dollars local, farm stands and farmers markets are an ideal way to patronize small businesses and strengthen the local economy, cutting out the middle man in the process.

The farm stands and farmers’ market go back to the market days of past centuries, when area residents would come to town to do their weekly shopping and visit with their neighbors.

Living where we do, we don’t have to reinvent the wheel to find community and good eating close to home.

Letters

Response to Sen. Gannon’s letter

To the editor,
He begins his letter by providing details on the ways NH conducts its elections.

There seems to be no disagreement on how NH elections are conducted.

Referring to HR 1, he contends that there is” a partisan system dictated by Democrats in Washington, D.C.” and “an overreaching attempt to run all state elections from Washington”.

I disagree with his views regarding HR 1. This Legislation was proposed due to the current efforts being made affecting our right to vote. There are over 40 States that have proposed voting bills that restrict, discourage and are designed to negatively affect voter turn out and participation.

Just a few examples: limiting or closing polling locations, removing mail-in Ballot boxes, shortening voting hours at the polls, reducing the time period to return absentee ballots, making it illegal to hand out water to voters waiting in line.

It is an inherent right as the voting public to be able to exercise our Constitutional right, which is a cornerstone of our Democracy. The Bill being proposed in Congress is to protect this right from the attempts being made by States to subvert voters rights. It is incumbent on our elected officials to protect this right. I applaud Rep. Pappas and Rep. Kuster for voting for HR 1.

Voting rights has been an issue for much too long in our Country. It has been over a 100 years since the 14th and 15th amendments were passed. There is legislative precedent such as the Voting Rights act of 1965 which prohibited racial discrimination in voting. Let us not forget women were only given the right to vote in 1920 with the passing of the 19th amendment.

This Bill is not an over-reach of government or a partisan system . The intent is to preserve and protect voters rights. It is the responsibility of our government to preserve these rights through Legislation.

I would encourage Sen. Shaheen and Sen. Hassan to vote for HR 1.

special since it’s the first real big event that we can do this year,” Reishus said.

Board of Selectmen Chair Chuck Myette explained that in order to move the extra funding forward they would need to have a contract with a fireworks vendor so they know where the money would be going towards.

It was decided to wait until the next meeting to see if they could get a contract in place.

It was also explained during the meeting that the funding line item is under the “Town Fair Fireworks,” line, which is a separate fund from all the different departments.

Because the fire chief is the only person authorized to provide a fireworks show, it means he is required to sign the contract each year.

During the announcements portion of the meeting it was announced by Selectmen Stephen D’Angelo, the liaison for the Public Access Community Television that they are still looking for a new employee for the department.

Also during the meeting the board approved the reappointment of Kevin Scott to the Zoning Board of Adjustments.

Chester Girl Scouts Earn Bronze Award with Tiny Library

Ten members of Girl Scout Troop 51076 in Chester earned their Bronze Award last week when they completed a Little Free Library that was placed in the parking lot of the Chester General Store in the center of town. The girls had originally proposed setting it up at the Wason Pond Playground, but fears of vandalism deterred that choice. The idea of the tiny library is that people can stop and grab a book to read or drop one off that they'd like to share. The girls will periodically check the bow they built and re-stock the shelves if necessary. According to the troop leader, this the first free library to be placed somewhere in Chester and they hope it will be well utilized. This is one of over 100,000 around the world. Photos by Chris Paul

Chester School Board Picks Royal Richardson As Chair

ALEX MALM
NUTFIELD NEWS

CHESTER – During the June 9 Chester School Board meeting the board held its reorganization meeting, where they elected their board chair and vice chair for the 2021-2022 year.

Being re-elected as school board chair was Royal Richardson and being elected as vice chairperson was Jonathan Eckerman.

Eckerman was also selected to be the liaison to the Chester Board of Selectmen.

During the meeting the school board discussed the first draft of the school district's reopening plan for the 2021-2022 school year.

"Our goal remains to have our students and staff on campus for in person learning. Our direction at this time is to open and operate under the Traditional In Person instructional model to begin the 2021 – 2022 school year," the plan stated.

Currently the plan is to not require staff, or students to wear masks.

"No extraordinary adaptations are made to account for COVID-19. Minor changes such as hand sanitizer dispensers will remain in place and use by all will be encouraged (especially surrounding snack times and lunch periods). Students and groups are allowed to mix and be in close proximity. Masks are not required to be worn but will not be prohibited should staff/parents/students choose to wear them," the plan states.

School officials warn that the plan could change.

"As a school district we must acknowledge the continued uncertainty with regard to the necessary responses to the COVID pandemic for the start of the 2021-22 school year. There is limited expert guidance and/or health specialist recommendations, since no one really knows what the specific circumstances or conditions will be in late August. However, we do know that school will open and we must plan for it," the report states.

"We acknowledge that pandemic risks may still exist, and we must use what we have learned over the past school year and be prepared to coordinate intervention and mitigation strategies as needed to minimize these risks. At this time the New Hampshire Department of Health and Human Services has not indicated any intention regarding ascertaining vaccine status of students or staff. The school district has no plan to ask about or maintain records around vaccination status of students."

Richardson said that the reopening committee will continue to meet.

They plan to meet to begin the revision process of the Draft Reopening Plan on June 29 in anticipation of the July 7 Board meeting.

If revisions to the reopening plan need to be reviewed that will happen during the July 7 and Aug. 11 school board meetings.

A letter in regards to the approved final 2021-2022 school reopening plan will be sent to parents on Friday Aug. 13.

The June meeting was the last board meeting for Supt. Darrell Lockwood, who is retiring at the end of the year. Lockwood will continue to work in his capacity of superintendent until June 30, to help with end of the year school district business and help prepare for the 2021-2022 year.

Sharon Locke, who was named the next superintendent earlier this year will begin as Chester's Superintendent on July, 1.

In other personnel news the school board has hired Zachary Champion to be the next director of student affairs. Champion is slated to begin his career with Chester in August.

A search committee for the position was formed for the position and they had 11 applicants for the job. The eight member committee appointed by Lockwood had parents, administrators, counselors and representation from the School Board. It was led by Chester Academy Principal Karen Lacroix.

Champion is joining the school district with experience working on Target and SST teams helping to provide data driven interventions and support for students as well as the 504 plan process, developing accommodations, and assisting educators with interpreting 504 plans. He most recently worked in the Timberlane Regional School District in the role of school counselor as well as acting as their athletic coordinator.

He also has worked as Summer Discovery Lead Teacher, working with students who have both emotional and academic disabilities, providing him with a wide range of experience with various young people. He is a graduate of Rivier University, the University Of New Hampshire and Northern Essex Community College.

He will be replacing Lauren Mercier, who will be leaving her position at the end of the school year after four years with the Chester School District.

"The Board would like to express their gratitude to Ms. Mercier for all that she has accomplished as the first appointee in this role at Chester Academy. Lauren's extraordinary efforts to support both the children and families in our community were invaluable during her tenure with us. We wish her well in the next phase of her career," Richardson said.

It was also announced that Chester Academy's Kindergarten program registration is now open for students who turn five years old by Sept. 30. Those who haven't done so should contact Beth Howard at 603-887-3621 x 302.

Sandown Selectmen to Return to Pre-Covid Meeting Procedures

JOHN SEIDENBERG
NUTFIELD NEWS

SANDOWN - The Sandown Board of Selectmen have decided – as of July 31 – to go back to the operating procedures followed prior to the covid pandemic.

With the state of emergency in New Hampshire having expired, the ability to conduct meetings remotely also has ended. The requirement will be that all meetings return to being in person at a public location.

Under NH Revised Statutes Annotated (RSA) 91-A:2 on meetings open to the public, a governing body may permit one or more members to participate remotely though is not required to do so. This provision applies when attendance in person is considered not reasonably practical.

A quorum must still be present in person which for the selectmen would mean three members. Any member who is remote must be able to hear all parts of a meeting and those attending in person must hear the remote member.

The member participating remotely must also state if anyone else is present at that location such as at a household or office. All votes are to be done by roll call.

Some town committees before covid had members attending remotely for different reasons, Town Administrator Lynne Blaisdell said at the June 21 board meeting.

The selectmen need to make clear to the public what will be allowed regarding attendance and in what manner to avoid public confusion, she emphasized. A key related question is whether any remote access will be by cell phone or computer.

The town doesn't want to deter volunteers from taking part in meetings who might remain apprehensive about coming in person, Blaisdell noted. They can still wear masks if they wish to.

Some of the town's smaller committees don't have many members of the public attending, she added.

One of the bigger attendance challenges is personal or work obligations conflicting with professional responsibilities, particularly when a key vote is coming up, pointed out Vice Chair Jonathan Goldman.

When a budget is up for determination, he said, a full committee or board present is more advantageous.

Covid has altered the perception of what reasonable attendance at meeting means. People attending remotely don't have the same level of effectiveness in advocating for a position, in Goldman's view.

Too much laxity has delayed a return to usual operating procedures, Selectman Robert Nickerson thought.

Now mitigation and vaccination efforts in the state have diminished much of the concern about infections.

"Government has to continue and we can't continue to use covid as an excuse," Goldman said.

Social distancing in the meeting building could still take place and anyone who remains uncomfortable can wear masks or use sanitizer, he stated.

Some potential governmental legislation could change some of this process and allow more remote access but that decision hasn't been made as yet, Blaisdell said.

The town could make further accommodations to enable improved remote access if laws change later in that direction.

In separate action, the board appointed Sandown Fire Chief Michael Devine as director of the Southern New Hampshire Hazardous Materials District. He can now name and also change his own proxy in that position.

This step was an alternative to also naming Fire Engineer David Farrar as another proxy that would've given Devine no flexibility as to who he directed to serve in that capacity if Farrar was unavailable.

The selectmen also accepted a $100 donation from the Sixty Plus club to the Senior Affairs Transportation Fund.

While still at the planning stage, Sandown's Old Home Fall Festival will be Sept. 24-26. During the day events will be at Sandlot Sports & Entertainment at 56 North Road.

The paving of Odell Road has been completed and the shoulder work was continuing this week.

The board's next meeting will be July 12.

Hampstead Planning Board Approve New Condominiums

HENRY GREENBAUM
NUTFIELD NEWS

HAMPSTEAD - The Planning Board met on June 7 and the first order of business was a hearing for a Conditional Use Permit application placed by Ellen and Bob Edwards for an Accessory Dwelling Unit (ADU). The Edwards are hoping to convert the area above their three-car garage into the ADU. After answering a few questions from the Planning Board, the Edwards had their ADU approved unanimously.

The Planning Board then moved onto old business and revisited hearings with the land surveying company James M. Lavelle Associates. The hearings were for a subdivision of land at both 651 Main St., and 200 Central St., and an amended site plan for 27 Hazel Drive.

A continuance was requested and approved for each hearing as they needed more time to gather plans and information to make their cases. The Planning Board will continue those hearings during their next meeting.

Moving on, the Planning Board had a hearing for the subdivision/condominium conversion at Winchester Heights. Charlie Zilch of S.E.C. & Associates presented the plans on the owner's behalf.

"This is an application to convert the approved and under construction Winchester Heights multifamily/elderly housing community into a condominium," said Zilch. "The project consists of 30 two-bedroom elderly units arranged within nine buildings configured as a mix of duplex units, triplex, fourplex, and a fiveplex. Each unit has garage space within and additional parking in front of each one of the garages."

The condominiums that are planned to be built will be houses that are split up into multiple units. The houses will range from having two units to five units with a shared garage and additional parking for residences.

When the Planning Board opened the floor to the public, an unnamed citizen came forward expressing concern over the missing square footage in the planned community garden for the condominiums.

Joshua Manning of Lewis Builders came forward to clarify the missing square footage. He said, "It is approximately a 30-by-50 garden area, and it is within an existing disturbed area for the grating for the pond that is there. It is down slope from the vernal pool so there would never be any contaminants running off of it."

After the board debated over how the town's trash pickup policy would work in conjunction with the proposed condominiums, they unanimously approved the plan.

Moving onto other business, the board held a public hearing for the land subdivision regulation update. Nobody came forward to oppose the update, so the board unanimously approved it.

The Planning Board then discussed the request for a bond release made by Barlow Millwork and unanimously approved it. They also unanimously approved the request for a bond release made by Four Season Estates to the amount of $90,000.

Happy Trails

Residents who use the Derry Rail Trail in Derry now officially have another mile or so to enjoy. A section starting at Hood Park and ending on North High Street was officially opened with a ribbon cutting last week. Town, state and national officials all made comments on how the process has been a collaboration of all town departments and state officials as well as private citizens and has made the entire trail possible. The connection between the newest section and the south end of Londonderry trail is all that is needed for a complete path all the way to Manchester Airport from Salem.

Derry Planning Board Approves Rockingham Road Plan

ALEX MALM
NUTFIELD NEWS

DERRY - During the June 16 Derry Planning Board meeting the board held a public hearing for a site plan review application for Tree Line Property Services.

The business is owned by Tom Saad, and Representing Saad at the meeting was James Herrick, from Herrick Consulting.

He explained that they currently have a house on their property at 92 Rockingham Road in Derry, that they want to tear down and build a 60x100 foot garage.

Currently they have to store their equipment outside, which isn't the best situation for it especially during inclement weather.

If the site plan is approved by the planning board the plan is to store the equipment in the garage for now on.

"It would be better for his equipment to be stored in the garage," Herrick said.

They are also planning on having a bathroom and a small office in the garage.

Herrick said that they also went to the conservation commission as well to receive their approval for the site plan.

One of the conditions that the conservation commission put on the site plan is that no more land is cleared on the property.

He said that they were in agreement with it.

"He's trying to keep his operations in the areas he has now," Herrick said.

Derry Planning Board Chair John O'Connor asked if the business is already in operation.

Planning Board member Jim MacEachern said that the business has been operational for many years and that Saad is the new owner.

"He's just cleaning up the property and building a garage where the house used to be," he said.

The only concern that was brought up by any of the abutters to the property was about working being done on Sundays, specifically earlier in the morning.

Saad explained that they usually work on Mondays thru Fridays and only on a rare occasion works on Sundays.

Planning Board member Brian Chirichiello asked when they do work on Sundays what time they usually work.

He said that they usually don't work before 10 a.m.

Chirichiello asked if they were to put any restrictions saying that they couldn't do any work on Sundays if it would affect his business.

"I don't want to impede your business either," he said.

Saad said that he would need to confirm that they don't do mulsh work before 10 a.m. but doesn't think it should be an issue.

"We might not even start until 10," Saad said.

When voting on approving the site plan one of the conditions that was voted on was not allowing any wood cutting before 10 a.m. on Sundays, which the board voted in favor of.

Overall the board voted unanimously in favor of approving the site plan.

"Welcome, good luck, and I hope you do well there," O'Connor said.

his son Andrew, a graduate of Pinkerton Academy recently graduated from college but won't return to Derry.

"Andrew is a member of the LGBTQ community and will not move back to Derry. He has very good friends here but he doesn't consider Derry a welcoming community," he said.

Also speaking during the meeting was State Rep. Katherine Prudhomme O'Brien.

Morgan asked if she was speaking in her official capacity as a state representative. She began speaking with her state representative badge on.

"I came from the State House," she said.

Morgan then asked her "so are you here in your official capacity?"

She then took off her name badge and said "I am here as a citizen of the town."

"If you don't want negative press on this town then the town meetings and the board meetings should be run correctly. They should be run the way they are supposed to be run by law," she said during the meeting.

O'Brien said that she was a trustee of the library for six years and said that they talked about things like windows, stained glass, and carpet. She said that if they talked about those topics then they should also talk about controversial issues like the proposed drag story time.

"If that's the kind've stuff for people to talk about when their library trustees then certainly a controversial issue is important enough to talk about," she said, saying that it wasn't talked about with the trustees.

She said that she asked questions about the story time.

"I suppose they were good questions and they were correct," saying that when she got to the Taylor Library later that day the library director had already made a decision to cancel the event.

She said that the library director made the decision to have a drag story hour completely on her own and also made the decision to cancel it on her own.

Mark Connors said that he was glad to see a strong turnout for both sides of the issues.

He then responded to the claims made by O'Brien saying that she spoke to the library director with a member of the library board of trustees in private and not during a public meeting, which is against public meetings rules.

Connors also explained that she submitted a letter to the board of trustees but said she would speak about it at the next meeting in a non-public session which he said is also against the rules.

"There should be no non-public meetings with O'Brien," he said.

After he was done speaking O'Brien got up to respond but was told she wasn't allowed to.

State Rep. Erica Layon also spoke during the meeting as a citizen of the community.

"I am here primarily because of the harassment that has happened to people of this town from council members. The treatment of some residents of this town is far below the status of the people sitting here in this room," she said.

"These attacks are unwarranted, unkind, and really deserve an apology to these people," she added.

She said that instead of having controversial programming they should have a reading club for those questioning their sexuality, allies, and those who want to learn more about it.

"That would serve their needs much better," she said, saying that they should have a space in the library.

After public comment was over Morgan explained that the only purview that the town council has over the library is the budget and the elected members of the board of trustees.

"We don't pick and choose who goes to our libraries, we don't pick and choose who speaks at the libraries, we don't pick and choose who does story times," he said.

Morgan said that he is glad to hear from the public.

"I do appreciate the input, good and bad," he said.

Michael McMahon, pictured as 'Clara Divine' had his event at Taylor Library moved to Tupelo Music Hall last week.
