

Temporary Residence for Homeless Debated by Derry Zoning Board

PAUL CONYERS
NUTFIELD NEWS

DERRY - At its May 5 meeting, the Derry Zoning Board heard a case from the nonprofit Family Promises of NH. Supported by the Catholic Bishop of Manchester, the intent is to provide temporary residences for homeless families. The proposed project's location is at 187 Hampstead Road, the site of the old Holy Cross Catholic Church. Family Promises requested an exception to the zoning ordinance on the grounds that transitional housing will have a positive impact on the community.

Gerald Prunier, a lawyer for Family Promises stated that residents "are taught how to live and provide for oneself in society, the resident stays for only one year, it is transitional housing that is needed for the community." He further noted that the old church "is a building no longer being used for a public purpose, it allows the residents a home as they are being educated on how to live in the community." The exterior of the building will remain unchanged, and foliage in the area will prevent any negative impact on local appearance or property values.

Chairman Lynn Perkins' initial concern was that paperwork for the request was a lack of paperwork presented to the Zoning Board before the meeting. He warned that Family Promise could have their request delayed to the next meeting. Generally, the Board prefers to look over such an application in advance.

Marc Siragusa from the Board of Trustees at Family Promise spoke of the need for cheap housing in Derry. He said there is "a huge need in Derry, currently, there's about 25 families in the elementary school system that are in need and would qualify for our scope at Holy Cross and nine or ten at the Pinkerton Academy who would qualify as well." The Holy Cross project would house 16 families dormitory-style.

Family Promise also helps residents budget and work while it focuses on families, not individuals. All people taken in must go through a background check and they must have a job. More than half of families qualify for mortgages and 90% no longer need housing aid within 12 months of admission.

Board member Allan Virr had questions about how current economic conditions might impact the success rate of the project. He noted that "the mort-

CHESTER - The Chester School Board held its monthly board meeting on May 12 meeting.

During the meeting one of the agenda items was voting on the nominations of different staff positions.

The four people who were nominated for positions were Lisa Kennedy as a fifth grade teacher, Jennifer Potts and Nancy Leavitt as sixth Grade Teachers and Amanda Hackney as the district's Preschool/K Case Manager. All four of them will be joining the district in August.

School Board Chairman Royal Richardson said that with the hires they now only have one teaching position that needs to be filled.

Richardson said that the only remaining Instructional position that still needs to be filled is the district's World Language/Spanish Teacher. He said that he hopes that it will be resolved soon.

"We are excited to have almost all of our Instructional positions for next year filled," said Richardson.

The District is also still in the process of filling the Director of Learning and Growth position.

"The position of Director of Learning and Growth is on-track to be nominated for appointment during the June 8, School Board meeting followed by providing a public announcement of the Director of Learning and Growth by Friday, June 10," said Richardson.

Also during the meeting it was announced that the federal program which allowed all students across the country to have free

Hampstead Board of Selectmen Discuss Possible Traffic Light

ALEX MALM

HAMPSTEAD - During the May 9 Hampstead Board of Selectmen meeting one of the items discussed was in regards to the intersection of Depot Road and Route 121.

Selectmen Laurie Warnock explained that they had another accident during that morning at the intersection of Depot Road and 121. She said that many people were talking about it on Facebook.

"There were a lot of conversations on the community pages about a light at that intersection," said Warnock.

She said that she wanted to look at putting a traffic light at the intersection.

Warnock asked that since it was a state road if the state would have to pay for putting a traffic light there or the town if the state finds having a light there as appropriate.

Board of Selectmen Chairman Sean Murphy said that it will ultimately be up to the state to decide if a traffic light should go

Derry Conservation Commission Debates Pond Road Development

PAUL CONYERS
NUTFIELD NEWS

DERRY - The Derry Conservation Commission hosted a plan to review new housing at its May 9 meeting. Nicholas Loring of Benchmark Engineering and Melissa Giuffrida of Golden Acres Land Trust presented an environmental blueprint to build a new driveway while dividing property at 356 Island Pond Rd. Development of the land includes the construction of a new driveway near a wetland area, requiring approval from the Conservation Commission.

Loring hopes to split the existing lots almost evenly "into a northerly lot and southernly lot, the southernly lot will keep existing improvements, the northerly lot will have proposed driveway and dwelling." The southern lot was the main problem for the Commission due to the impact on local wildlife combined with possible groundwater issues from runoff. Loring responded by noting that his plan includes buffers to reduce runoff.

Loring also stated that fire regulations included keeping the driveway asphalt or gravel to allow access to emergency vehicles. Zoning regulations and a requirement to keep the main building away from Island Pond Road meant the main house on the property is located towards the rear of the subdivision.

One notable development feature was a long concrete culvert allowing animals to pass safely under the driveway without harm. An open box, a pre-cast culvert was the preference of the Commission. It was uncertain whether an existing premade culvert of the needed length could be purchased without customization. Riccardo Buz-zanga noted that the Commission previously "approved culverts on roads that are shorter" than the driveway's length.

Some worried that the size of the pipe would defeat its purpose as an animal crossing. Such concern rested on the idea that slower animals such as turtles might have trouble passing through an extensive culvert.

The composition of an asphalt driveway and runoff was an environmental issue brought up by Conservation Commission. William Lowenthal wondered if there was "some kind of assurance that salts or anything would not be used to clear the driveway," worried that any runoff "would flow down into the watershed." A proposed solution was to reduce the use of ice-melting chemicals on the driveway during the winter, especially near the more sensitive wetland sections of the property.

Commission Chairman James Degnan intends to "double-check before we sign off on anything." While Degnan praised Giuffrida and Loring for acting in good faith, a site walk will occur sometime in the next two weeks to confirm the property conditions and the viability of the proposed driveway.

Further debate was on whether the Commission had to wait before a review by the Technical Review Committee. If any changes are made to the plan on their end, the Conservation Commission would need to make necessary changes regarding their approval. Giuffrida and Loring requested an inspection as quickly as possible, hoping to pass the permitting process without difficulty.

The Derry Conservation Commission will meet again on Monday, May 23.

Derry Planning Board Discusses Meeting Time Limits

ALEX MALM
NUTFIELD NEWS

DERRY - During the May 4 Derry Planning Board meeting one of the agenda items was in regards to reviewing the policy and procedures for the Board.

One of the changes that the Board made was in regards to having an alternate for the Town Council Liaison.

Town Council Liaison Brian Chirichiello said that the Town Council voted to name an alternate. He said that they have it in case Chirichiello isn't able to make the meeting.

"The Town Council now has an alternate," said Chirichiello.

Chirichiello explained that unlike when regular board members are absent no alternate was able to be appointed for the Town Council liaison, which is the main reason why the Town Council decided to add an alternate position. Currently the alternate is Town Councilor Charlie Foote.

"Because of the workload of the Planning Board I now have my own alternate," said Chirichiello.

Planning Board member David Nelson said that one suggestion that he got from a recent seminar he attended in order to help keep meetings from running into the late hours is to set a curfew for when no new business can be started.

Right now they can extend the meeting by 10 minutes twice.

"I ask that we consider that as an alternative," said Nelson.

Nelson said that if they have a complicated case it avoids any issues of running out of time and having to go back or avoiding human tendencies of wanting to rush a decision.

"That's not a bad option," said Vice Chair

Jim MacEachern.

Planning Board member Mark Connors said he thinks it's good for the public as well because then audience members can leave at 9:30 if they know the Board is not going to get to their agenda item.

"I think it makes sense," said Chirichiello.

MacEachern said that he thinks they should work it so it's no new substantive business after a certain time if they had any minor business to handle that they don't think will take long they can handle it before adjourning.

"I wouldn't want to start anything in the West Running Brook district at 9:30," said MacEachern.

It was ultimately decided to have Planning and Economic Development Assistant Elizabeth Robidoux look into it more and see what language they can come up with.

"I think it's a good concept," said Connors.

Also during the meeting the Planning Board voted on a request to extend the conditional approval for the Grindhouse site plan which is located at 43.5 Crystal Ave. Their request was to extend their conditional approval by six months.

The Planning Board unanimously approved the request. The new expiration is Oct. 20, 2022.

In other news the Planning Board voted to approve a voluntary merger for 7 Tsienneto Rd., and 11 Tsienneto Rd.

Planning Director George Sioras explained that it is the new medical building that was built a couple of years ago. Sioras said that the doctor group purchased a smaller piece of property next to it and that their long term goal is to eventually build a second office.

The Planning Board unanimously approved it.

Conservation Commission Discusses Wetland Disturbance Proposal

HENRY GREENBAUM
NUTFIELD NEWS

DERRY - At their April 25 meeting, the Derry, Conservation Commission discussed a site plan review for 74 Rockingham Rd.

Tim Peloquin of Promised Land Survey, LLC presented the review on behalf of his client Bob McCormick of Keystone Derry, LLC. "Mr. McCormick bought this land last Summer. He was not in any particular rush, but we performed the [site] survey and did all of the initial work, said Mr. Peloquin. "We met with the Planning Board initially with a conceptual plan to discuss the matter. We were pointed in a few different directions as to what they would like to see. Then, we went to hard design which has brought us to this point.

Mr. Peloquin explained that when they were putting their plans together over the Winter, a question arose over the prime wetland line on the property.

He said, "This prime wetland goes almost to the Derry Rotary which is on the North end where 102 meets South Main St. Hoodcroft Country Club is demarked, and you have this prime wetland wrapping completely around to the back of Parkland [Medical Center]. Then it wraps all the way back around South Main St., and wraps all around the back of the fairways. Then on the southern end of this [site plan] you will see where the prime wetland is as it literally knicks our property."

Mr. Peloquin explained that they scanned into their plans the Commission's prime wetland maps and compared it to their geographic information system (GIS) as well as what is on the ground itself.

"When that final [wetland] line did come in, we had to make some adjustments to our buildings and some of our drainage areas because one thing we did know 100% is that we could not have anything within 75 feet of that prime wetland," said Mr. Peloquin. "The regulations further go on to say within the Zoning [Ordinance] that some disturbance within 75-150 feet is allowed with a special exception from the Zoning Board. We are headed to the Zoning Board on May 19."

The plan Mr. Peloquin laid out for the Conservation Commission was to get a special exception from the Zoning Board of Adjustments (ZBA) to allow for a special exception that would let them have some disturbance on the wetlands while building the new property for Keystone Derry. Members of the Planning Board will also be attending that meeting. He came to the Conservation Commission first so that they can discuss it in case there were any concerns that some members may have.

There are four areas within the prime wetland that they would disturb. They have drainage ponds, piping that they plan to restore after construction, and some regrading at the edge of the parking lots.

Mr. Peloquin said, "What we are proposing at the bottom of those slopes and the key areas, as our environmental scientist suggested, are to put a plethora of plantings along there and those are noted within the proposed planning schedule. Lastly, there is a drainage plan, erosion and sediment control initial conditions and post conditions. I just want it to be known and fully seen within this. There is a schedule of construction and how that project is to be protected at that 75-foot buffer."

After raising concerns over Mr. Peloquin's proposed plan, the Conservation Commission agreed to do a site walk to better understand the project before it is presented to the ZBA and Planning Board on May 19.

The Conservation Commission will meet again on May 23 at 7 p.m., at the Derry Municipal Center.

Eagle Scouts and Senior Fitness at May Watson Pond Meeting

PAUL CONYERS
NUTFIELD NEWS

CHESTER - The Watson Pond Conservation & Recreation Area Commission opened with a presentation from Life Scout Benjamin Wallin on a potential Eagle Scout project. Park trail signs at Watson Pond have degraded due to a lack of maintenance. Wallin stated that he "can't just do the signs, I gotta do a unique spin, or I gotta do more," indicating that he wants to organize a more comprehensive project beyond fixing a few signs first created during a past Eagle Scout bid. One suggestion was to make a duplicate copy of kiosk information. The backup copy would be kept out of the weather to act as a replacement for faded text in the next 15 years. Fixing a beach kiosk was another suggestion. The Commission asked Wallin to return in a month with a concrete proposal.

Kathy Dircks, Kristina Snyder, and David Webster have all been reappointed to their positions as members of the Watson Pond Commission for another term.

Dircks mentioned that "boot camp and senior fitness are still running, boot camp is in person, and senior fitness is still hybrid." Seniors can come into fitness through Zoom, although the instructor will be available in person once per month. Fitness is free for any resident over 60, and information is available on the senior citizen's section of the town website.

Deb Munson from the Conservation Commission was invited to share concerns about the pollinator garden being planted next to the community center. Munson assured everyone that "it is really just meant to be an attractive garden with native plants that will come back year after year." There is no expectation that the garden will attract bees to the senior center, despite some public concerns.

The Commission was also reminded that the dandelion photo contest has begun for 2022. Several projects at Watson Pond Park, including a new pavilion, are on hold until the completion of a new bridge.

A firemen's muster is planned for July 23 after a 5k run. Concerns over participation came from getting other fire departments to commit to the event.

The ADA ramp at Watson Pond is now usable although the Commission is still waiting for final safety approval from the building inspector.

One final matter was over the wetland crossing at the low end of the pond. The Conservation Commission recently organized the removal of debris across the pond made of logs and broken picnic tables. The makeshift bridge was a danger to hikers and caused harm to the local wetlands. However, it is likely, that another removal will soon be needed, and the Commission discussed ways to redirect hikers away from the area.

The Watson Pond Conservation & Recreation Area Commission will hold its next meeting on Monday, June 6.

gauge rate has increased two times, and the Fed has signaled that they're looking at another one-quarter percent increase, it's been my observation over the years that every time you do that, you cut off the lower echelon for mortgages." Family Promise assured the Board that residents would have some support from the non-profit after the end of the program and that a mortgage was not necessarily the end goal.

Several members spoke in support of moving forward with the project although there was some opposition. Resident Jim Foley argued that the project "is trying to change a building that's not right for the area into another building that's not right for the area." His main concern was increased noise and traffic, although Family Promise assured the public that this would not be an issue. The Zoning Board tabled their consideration of the project until at least the next meeting on Wednesday, May 18.

Drive Smart This Graduation Season

A driver's license mixed with a few drinks, texting, and pot is dangerous for anyone, but the reckless combination can be even more so for inexperienced drivers. Even when a parent trusts his or her own teenager to be conscientious, being certain that other teenagers will do the same is impossible.

Now that prom and graduation season is upon us, drunk-driving fears with in parents escalate as school activism against such activity increases. Though teens will ultimately make the final decisions in terms of their own safety, it doesn't keep parents from waiting up at night. When it comes to teens and drunk driving, there is both good and bad news.

The good news is that teenage drunk driving nationwide has decreased. The bad news is that car crashes are the leading cause of death for teens, and about a third of those are alcohol related, according to Mothers Against Drunk Driving. Not every child makes it home safe, and only some live to tell about it. We hope that students are talking not only about the dangers of drinking and driving, but also about texting and driving and the importance of wearing a seat belt.

Motor vehicle crashes are the leading cause of death among U.S. teens. This is something many people live with and see on a regular basis, so the message must be spread.

I am a firm believer that if we can educate them at a young age, we are going to be able to save their future, as well as our own. Start these conversations with kids early. Every time you hear a story about the subject, share it. It's important for your children's safety. If nothing else, when your child goes to prom or graduation parties, try to find a little comfort in the transportation arrangements. Parents, be smart, be proactive, and have conversations constantly. It has to be in the forefront all the time, a priority.

The dangers of drinking and driving have heightened considerably due to the increased rate of cell-phones. Study after study has shown an increase in accidents connected with texting while driving.

Explain your own position concerning your teen's drinking or texting while driving. Discuss your family's rules about alcohol and agree on the consequences for breaking the rules. Discuss reasons for NOT drinking and the consequences that can result from drinking. Always tell your children that if they find themselves in an uncomfortable situation or they have made a poor decision about drinking or drugs, that they can always call you and you will pick them up and bring them home. Mothers Against Drunk Driving offers a handbook on its website to help parents talk to their teens about alcohol.

Now, more than ever, local schools, parents, police, and community members need to work together to make sure that no family has an "empty chair" after proms and graduations.

lunch because of the pandemic is ending at the end of the school year.

Due to this the Board is encouraging families in the school district to submit a free and reduced lunch program application.

It was explained that the number of families that are signed up for the program in each district is factored into the equation when it comes to the state and federal education formulas and could impact how much aid each district receives next year.

"This, in turn, has a direct impact on the amount of money that the Chester School District has to ask the taxpayers to raise and appropriate each year, and all our local tax-rate," said Richardson.

Rich said that they have an estimated expense savings of $409,417 so far this year. She also noted they have a total of $91,126 in additional revenue this year.

"The state has final say if a light goes in there or not," said Murphy.

It was pointed out by Hampstead Police Chief Joseph Beaudoin that it is usually a 50-50 split.

Beaudoin said that they would have to do another study for that location like they have done in the past. He told the Selectmen that it would probably be a cost of close to a half a million dollars to put the light in.

He said that they will also have to put a request in to have the study done and will then be put on a list to determine when they will get the study done.

"We very simply send a letter," said Beaudoin.

Warnock said that they should do what they can to improve the safety of the intersection.

Chester Board of Selectmen Discuss Increasing Number of Town Fields

ALEX MALM
NUTFIELD NEWS

CHESTER - During the May 12 Chester Board of Selectmen meeting one of the agenda items that was discussed was the town's fields after a hole was dug up for a fit pit during the 300th anniversary event last weekend.

It was explained that the hole is being filled through a donation that the 300th Anniversary Committee received, however it raised the question of whether or not it is primarily a soccer field.

Selectmen Stephen Landau said that even though it is considered a soccer field it is used for the Town Fair and a number of different events and activities.

"Why do we call it a soccer field," said Landau.

Landau said that if they want to have a designated soccer field then they should look at developing another field. He said that they have a number of open spaces in town.

Selectmen Steve Couture said that they could possibly look at their town owned properties but said for now the soccer field is for soccer use first.

He said that it made sense to make improvements to the field.

Couture said that he thought purchasing property wouldn't be the most difficult part and instead said that maintaining them would be.

"The toughest part is what do you do once you have it," said Couture.

Board of Selectmen Chairman Chuck Myette said that they have talked about it in the past but it didn't move forward mostly due to funding.

"At the time though it didn't really go anywhere because of the cost," said Myette.

Myette said that he would be happy to spearhead a committee to look at it further.

"I think it's great to look at," said Myette.

Myette also pointed out that there are many grants out there particularly for recreation that they could pursue.

Couture said that he also thinks that it should be incorporated into the master plan.

"This is a master plan topic," said Couture.

In other news the Selectmen discussed a request from the Chester Academy PTA who were requesting a waiver from the police detail requirement for their father daughter dance.

"Why is there a police detail for that to begin with, are they serving alcohol," Landau asked.

It was explained by Recreation Director Corinna Reishus that since there is expected to be over 50 people there it is flagged by the TRC for a police detail.

Myette asked Police

Chief Aaron Berube if he was okay with it.

Berube said that he referred them to the Board of Selectmen since they are expected to have more than 100 people there.

"I have no problem with it as long as you're comfortable," said Berube.

The Board of Selectmen approved the waiver.

The Board of Selectmen also approved the reappointment of Mark Desiderio to the Spring Hill Farm Advisory Committee.

The next Chester Board of Selectmen meeting is slated for May 19 at 7 p.m.

Sandown Selectmen Approve Raises For Town Lifeguards

ALEX MALM
NUTFIELD NEWS

SANDOWN - During the May 9 Sandown Board of Selectmen meeting one of the agenda items was in regards to a proposal to raise the pay for lifeguards this summer.

Selectmen Darren Hudgins who is the liaison for the Recreation Committee said that they raised the pay scale for camp counselors and other staff already.

"The last piece for us is the lifeguards," said Hudgins.

Hudgins said that they looked at what other communities are paying and realized they are trailing them.

"We're just behind," said Hudgins.

At the time of the meeting only two lifeguards had signed up, Town Administrator Lynne Blaisdell pointed out.

Hudgins said that they are concerned that one of the reasons why they aren't getting many people who want to do it is because they aren't paying enough.

"The key is it in the budget," said Selectmen Tom Tombarello.

Hudgins said that the Commission voted to ask the Board of Selectmen to raise the pay by $1 this year.

Tombarello said he would support a dollar if they had enough money and said if they had enough money in the budget then he would support an even higher increase.

Selectmen Robert Nickerson said that he thinks they are starting at a low amount.

"I don't even think a dollar is enough," said Nickerson.

Board of Selectmen Chairman Jonathan Goldman said that he was concerned that they were proposing to increase the pay for part time lifeguards to be paid more than their per diem firefighters. He said he was also concerned with having an increase outside of budget season.

"It's the principal for me," said Goldman.

If approved the increase would raise the wages to $13.98 - $14.30 an hour.

The Board voted 3-2 in favor of it with Goldman and Selectmen Eric Olsen voting against it.

Also during the meeting the Board of Selectmen heard a presentation from Chris Donnellan, the Station Manager for Channel 17.

He explained that they talked a while ago about recording the Recreation Commission meetings which meet at the recreation building instead of Town Hall however, it hasn't happened yet.

"For a variety of reasons it took a long time," said Donnellan.

Donnellan said that they needed to buy equipment in order to do it and that the bid they got is lower than their original estimate.

"It's not going to get any better if we wait any longer," said Donnellan.

Blaisdell said that it would be a good opportunity to take advantage of so their meetings can be filmed like the other boards and commissions.

"This is a great opportunity to get them filmed," said Blaisdell.

Hudgins stated that the total cost would be $7,347 and it would be paid for from the cable account and no taxpayers money would go towards it.

The Selectmen ultimately approved the request.

The next Sandown Board of Selectmen meeting is slated for May 23 at 7 p.m.

If you have any questions, please call 603-329-6985.

May Chair Yoga

Chair Yoga class at the Hampstead Public Library is scheduled later than usual during the month of May. The class is on Tuesday, May 24 at 12:30 p.m. Maggie Grace from the Yoga Room teaches participants strengthening and stretching exercises in this 45-minute session. Please register in advance via the Events Calendar on HampsteadLibrary.org or call 603-329-6411. If the weather is nice, we may have the class outside. READERS ARE CAUTIONED that we occasionally run ads that require an initial investment or money in advance. We urge our readers to "do their homework" before responding to any ad, check out the advertiser thoroughly and verify their claims to your total satisfaction.
