Gray also complained that dust in the air, noise, and fire from the construction made it impossible to open windows in her house throughout the summer. "No more postponements or excuses," she added.

The original applicant cited a recent hospital stay when applying for the most recent extension.

Planning Board Chairman, Robert Weimar, apologized for the continued delays. "I regret that we have not been able to get the applicant to finish the work that they agreed would be done by the end of September."

The Board eventually approved the thirty-day extension, but promised to conduct a site inspection any violations. Board member, Bob Villella, raised the possibility of revoking the conditional use permit if delays continue.

Jenn Rowden, the Land Use Program Manager, of the Rockingham Planning Commission, was in attendance to give the Board an update on the Hampstead Master Plan.

"During the course of the Master Plan update, there have been four major outreach and public engagement events. It started in June of 2020, where we did a primarily online survey with 800 responses," according to Rowden. "We got in the vicinity of 80,000 comments from those who took it."

The Program Manager asked Board members if they had any questions about the vision, goals, and postponements, with possible citations for actions of the Master Plan. Weimar believed the Plan was a "departure" from past documents. "There are a number of issues here that, in my opinion, we absolutely cannot require." He worried some suggestions are beyond the power of the Planning board to implement. Many recommendations in the Master Plan are broadly defined, without a strong guide for implementation.

> Rowen went over some goals of the Plan, such as clean water, safe roadways (even without sidewalks), and ways to encourage better civic engagement.

The next Hampstead Planning Board is scheduled for Monday, Oct. 17. The next public hearing is scheduled for Monday, Nov. 7. Hearings are at the Hampstead Town Hall, 7 p.m.

Derry School Board Approve Donation to Children's Dental Health Network

ALEX MALM NUTFIELD NEWS

DERRY - One of the agenda items during the Sept. 27 Derry School Board meeting was in regards to a proposed donation to the Children's Dental Health Network, which provides dental services for students who qualify.

It was explained by Superintendent, Garofalo, it is a common practice for school districts to make that type of donation. As examples, Londonderry and Salem both is a $10,000 donation," Garofalo said he compared it to things like physical and occupational therapy, or other services that they offer in the school setting that not all students use.

Garofalo added they Austin have more than double the amount of students that use the services than Salem who donated $7,500 last year.

It was pointed out by School Board Chair, Erika Cohen, they previously gave them space in lieu of cash, which they no longer need.

"They are now asking for support in cash, not space," said Cohen.

School Board member, Brenda Willis, said while she supports the program, she doesn't know if she could support using school district dollars on it.

"I still have concerns and it's not about the program. I value the program greatly," said Willis.

She explained there are other important services they have that they don't pay for like school lunches and while they do support other services that not all students use like physical therapy or occupational therapy those things are required as part of IEPS.

"I am just struggling with how we balance this," said Willis.

School Board member, David Clapp, said he was in complete support.

School Board member, Paul Lutz, pointed out they should be helping out with different things like this if they can and also noted they set a precedent with helping with the particular program when they previously provided them with office space as an in kind donation.

Lutz said he calculated what Londonderry and Salem pay per student based on how many students use it and how much they donated and it comes

> School Board member, Jessica Ring, said she also thought it was something they should do because it has a benefit for their students.

> "Our students benefit greatly from this," said Ring.

> The School Board ultimately voted 5-1 in favor of authorizing a $10,000 donation with Willis voting against it.

With towns growing, some at a much faster rate than others, we can rest assure that safety and traffic concerns will grow as well.

It may be a tad too late, but better late than never. Before more construction is in place, this is the time to start a public discussion about our roads, water, air, noise, and light population.

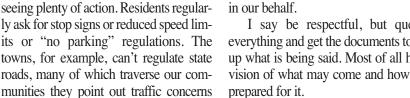

Can we as towns accommodate the growth at this fast paced? Are we removing a lot of farmland that yield us sustainability? Are stop signs sufficient to regulate traffic from residential neighborhoods into larger and higher speed roads? How reliable are traffic studies? Are we taking into account the questions and costs of residential and business growth in neighboring areas?

The towns need to make sure we have strong infrastructure growth plans in place for traffic, water, sewer, air, and light pollutants plans that align with the population growth in a smart way.

Town and school officials are responsible for the people of the towns to make sure the greater good is being carried out in our behalf.

Chester Selectmen Set New Policies in Setting Agenda

ALEX MALM NUTFIELD NEWS

CHESTER - One of the items discussed during the Thursday, Oct. 6, Chester Board of Selectmen meeting was in regards to their procedures for meetings.

It was explained by Board of Selectmen Chairman, Chuck Myette, there has been discussion about potentially changing the deadline for putting things on the agenda and also for people to provide clarity for why something is being put on the agenda.

"What we are seeing is last minute additions to it," said Myette.

It was pointed out by Selectmen, Stephen D'Angelo, they had problems in the past where things would get added to the agenda sometimes an hour before the meetings began.

"We used to get things an hour before the meeting and it was problematic," said D'angelo.

Town Adminsistrator.

Deb Doda, said they still Selectmen continue to get people who decided to end the use of want things added at the last minute.

D'Angelo stated he thinks it would be sufficient to make the deadline Monday at the end of the day to get things on the Thursday agenda.

Myette said he wants more information to be provided as well for agenda items so they can be more prepared on different topics before they discuss it during the meeting.

It was ultimately decided to make the new policy that agenda items must be put on the agenda by the end of the day on Monday for the week of the meeting. If something needs to be put on the agenda at the last minute then it would be at the discretion of the Chair.

Also during the meeting, the Board of Selectmen discussed how to use Zoom going forward for their meetings.

Doda explained the priate to do so.

She said for some people who don't like to drive in the dark or may live further away the Zoom option could be helpful.

D'Angelo stated he thinks Zoom is good for when there is inclement weather or if someone is out of Town, but didn't think it should be used regularly.

The rest of the Selectmen agreed with him, citing different issues they had when they used Zoom throughout the pandemic.

It was pointed out by Doda that not all department heads live in Chester, which makes it more difficult when having employees go to meetings in person.

It was agreed by the Selectmen to only allow Zoom in emergency situations and when it is appro-

For the street lights budget, Hamel said they were looking for an increase of 21 percent compared to last year for a total of $3,200.

Board of Selectmen Chairman, Jonathan Goldman, asked what the increase was for.

"I'm just guessing that's due to the rise in electricity costs," said Goldman.

Hamel stated she thinks the rates would be around there due to prices continuing to increase.

"That's a guesstemate, I think the rates will come out a little bit later," said

Hamel added that she "They are going to expects the new rates would come out by the end of October or the beginning of November.

For Patriotic Services, Town Administrator, Lynne Blaisdell, said they put the funds needed for the fireworks in the budget, but they could choose to do it as a warrant article instead.

Another issue was the Alternative member, John Dalrymple, walked through Watson Pond to report back.

"At the west end of the field, there are a bunch of autumn olives that are growing, they've got a pretty big base to them and the problem is they don't grow straight or vertically, they grow all over the

The agreed solution was to rent a heavier mower used by Chester's highway Department for stubborn weeds. This would require an annual rental with a volunteer to keep the baseball field clear of plant life.

"Every year, once we get them cut as low as you can, we can come back and keep [the plants] down," said Dalrymple, who liked the idea.

An ongoing water advisory for the area was lifted on Sept. 15 as e coli bacteria levels have fallen to safe levels. Watson Pond is now safe for swimming and wading.

The Watson Pond Commission is scheduled to meet on Nov. 7, in the Rangeway Meeting Room.

Doda also noted that the software could also help keep track of things like vacation time, which would be beneficial to the Town and the employees.

By going with the elecsaid they would save about five hours of time every other week.

It was brought up by Selectmen, Stephen D'Angelo, that there is a company called Paychex and other companies that not only provide for the electronic timesheets, but also creates checks for them, which he said would save them even more time.

It was decided to have Doda do more research on Paychex and then to put it back on the agenda for a future meeting.
